RIVERA HOPING TO CLOSE RULE IN SIX MONTHS

Cabinet Will Resign Then Unless Hindered by Trouble-Makers.

GOVERNMENT ORGAN GIVEN STATEMENT

National Assembly Will Meet This Month to Liberalize Law.

POLITICAL CIRCLES EXPECTED CHANGE

Elections for Provincial Delegates to "Union" Are Due in February.

Madrid, Jan. 6 (A.P.) (Monday).—Premier Primo de Rivera announced today in Noticiero del Lunes, the government organ published on Mondays when other newspapers do not print, that his government would resign within six months if not hindered by intransigeant elements or trouble makers.

Political circles here have been expecting for some time important announcements with regard to the dictatorship which now is in its seventh year.

Propose New Constitution.

On Saturday it was annuonced the national assembly would meet on January 27. When it was last adjourned it was said that its first task on reconvening would be consideration of a new constitution to be proposed by the government which would return the country to a greater measure of democracy.

An important cabinet meeting over which King Alfonso presided earlier last week led to reports that Gen. Primo de Rivera had already offered the resignation of his government. Later it was stated by the general himself that no immediate governmental changes were contemplated but that he had laid before the king a plan for return to constitutional guarantees and a parliamentary government by next September.

Desires to Retire.

Elections for provincial delegates to "The Patriotic Union," the political organization which has supported the premier, will be held in February and further popular elections are expected to follow.

The premier has repeatedly said he does not intend to prolong the dictatorship once he is assured of the stabilization of the country. He has expressed a desire to retire to private life. A sign that the government felt the moment of stabilization was near was seen recently in the light sentences given those who had attempted a revolt about a year ago.

Man Facing 20 Charges Arrested in Wisconsin

Kenosha, Wis., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Eldridge White, Negro, of Hammond, Ind., against who twenty Federal charges are pending, was arrested in a boarding house here today.

His seizure ended a search that began last Tuesday when his case was called and it was discovered he had fled, forfeiting $20,000 bond. Charges against him include violations of the narcotic and Mann acts, conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws and bribery. White told Federal deputies he fled because he "didn't want to get killed." "Any one with any sense knows when it is getting too hot for him," he added.

New Transocean Plane Race Looms

Paris, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Another air race from Paris to New York in 1930 apepared probable tonight. One contestant will be Capt. Dieudonne Coste, accepted as the holder of the world's records for straight-line and measured course lotng-distance flying. The other will be Capt. Carretier, who was officially credited with bringing down fourteen enemy planes during the World War.

Manufacturers began work on December on a new airplane in which Coste about next June expects to link the Le Bourget and Roosevelt flying fields without a stop.

Meanwhile the famous French airplane manufacturer, Cousinet, has started to build a monoplane with thick wings, in which fuel will be stored. With the 1,500 horsepower to be developed from three Hispano-Suiza motors, Capt. Carretier expects this plane to have a lifting capacity of 13 tons and a cruising range of 7,000 miles. eH said tonight that he would be ready to start ahead of Coste.

Nicky Arnstein Said To Have Wed Heiress

Former Husband of Fanny Brice Reported to Have Married Mrs. Isabelle McCullough, of Chicago, in Quebec, October 18.

New York, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—The Daily News in a copyrighted article tomorrow will say it has learned of the secret marriage of Jules W. Arnold (Nicky Arnstein) to Mrs. Isabelle McCullough, of Chicago. The marriage took place at Quebec October 18.

Arnstein and his bride, who is said to be the former wife of Charles McCullough, wealthy Chicago man, are residing in the ultrafashionable Sutton place section here. Mrs. Arnstein and her former husband were divorced in Reno, according to the News.

The present Mrs. Arnstein is reported to have been beneficiary of half her late father's estate of $5,000,000, the other half having been distributed among charities. Arnstein is said to have met Mrs. McCullough while at a garden party in honor of his former wife, Fanny Brice, in 1927. He and Miss Brice have since been divorced.

In 1924 Arnstein was sent to the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth for two years, after conviction of conspiracy in connection with a $5,000,000 Wall street bond theft.

HENRY LAMAR WEDS RADCLIFF GRADUATE

HELD TITLES IN BOXING

Henry Nicholson Lamar, member of a prominent Washington family and an outstanding figure in the sports circles of this city, was married in Boston on New Year's Eve, it was learned yesterday.

Lamar's secret marriage several years ago to Phyllis Moore of this city, was terminated later when a divorce decree was granted. Juanita Mae Galvin, of Newton, Mass., is the second bride of the erstwhile holder of the National amateur light heavyweight boxing crown.

He is the scion of an old Virginia family and a grandson of the late Justice L. Q. C. Lamar, of the United States Supreme Court. In Western High School, where he attended, he was a star football and basket ball player. He later attended the University of Virginia. For a few years he engaged in amateur fights and for two years held national amateur titles. Later he entered the professional fight game.

Mrs. Phyllis Moore Lamar, who makes her home at 1744 Riggs place northwest, declined last night to give the reasons for the issuance of the divorce decree and preferred not to comment on the recent match.

Lamar was married to his first wife while he was a student at the University of Virginia. His father lives at the Willard Court.

Alien Smuggling Syndicate Bared

New Orleans, La., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Eleven Chinese arrested here by immigration authorities on suspicion of being aliens smuggled into the United States by an international syndicate were being held today awaiting further investigation at Houston, New York and San Francisco.

Immigration officials at Galveston have been ordered to make a thorough investigation of the Norwegian steamship Toluma, which landed the aliens at Houston from Iquique, Chile.

The aliens told immigration inspectors they had paid $1,000 each for enrance into the United States and they were headed for Mott street, New York, where authorities believe headquarters of the syndicate is. An inquiry also is being made at San Francisco, where immigration officials say the syndicate also operates.

BIRTHDAY SPEAKER EULOGIZES WILSON

LEAGUE DATE OBSERVED

Without Woodrow Wilson the League of Nations and the present movement for world peace would be confined to books by learned professors and discussion in the newspapers, Dr. Charles Kingsley Webster, holder of the Woodrow Wilson chair of international relations at the University of Wales, and professor of history at Harvard University, yesterday told a meeting at the National Theater, sponsored by the Woodrow Wilson Foundation committee, of Washington. The occasion was a joint celebration of the seventy-third anniversary of Wilson's birth and tenth anniversary of the league.

Wilson is rightfully proclaimed as the founder of the League of Nations and the world peace movement, Dr. Webster declared. They have both resulted from his passionate conviction alone.

"When the Paris treaty meetings were called the peace of the world and the final settlement rested in the hands of three men," he continued. "They were Lloyd George of Great Britain, who lived in the present; Clemenceau of France, who lived in the past, and Wilson who lived for the future. Lloyd George placed reparations and punishment of the guilty as of first importance. Clemenceau wanted the restoration of past European conditions, while Wilson named the League of Nations and world peace as the paramount issue."

Denying that he made any bargains in territorial matters in order to gain the adoption of his League of Nations plan, the speaker said that Wilson stood steadfast on all questions, and although forced to compromise on many occasions, he always was careful to make his concessions only temporary, and as a consequence most of them have since been removed.

To substantiate his contention that Wilson did not sacrifice any American rights, Dr. Webster pointed out that he kept the primary interest of this country, that of finances, intact.

Among the accomplishments toward world peace that the League of Nations has advanced during the ten years of its existence, Dr. Webster cited the inauguration of a new public policy in the world and the equal recognition of the small nations.

"Nineteenth century diplomacy," he asserted, "was strictly secret diplomacy. Now all secret treaties have been abolished and every diplomatic negotiation is so open and above board that suspecting persons have to fabricate their grounds for suspicions.

"Under the policy inaugurated by the league, small nations can now for the first time receive financial assistance without jeopardizing their poli-

Body of Youth Discovered On Flaming Alcohol Pyre

Steger, Ill., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—The body of a youth about 18 years old was found by police today on a pyre of flaming alcohol cans in an automobile near here.

Police believe the lad was slain for encroaching on the precincts of a gang of bootleggers, who hit on the bizarre cremation as a method of terrifying other trespassers.

Sergt. Henry Siegel, of the Homewood County police, said he was attracted by an explosion and flare of flame while patrolling a highway 2 miles from the scene. With a companion officer, he sped to a wooded lane known as Devil's Paradise, to find the automobile a veritable vessel of fire.

The sergeant said the car, saturated with alcohol and gasoline, was in the

(Associated Press.)

Senate dry leaders who have been spending the holidays arguing over the Hoover enforcement program yesterday called a truce on prohibition in favor of full debate on the long-pending tariff bill.

But prohibition had its place alongside the tariff in the mass of legislative problems confronting Congress as it prepared to resume today the first regular session in the administration of President Hoover.

There was no definite assurance that the prohibition warriors in the Senate could be stilled but there were pronouncements yesterday from the leaders of all factions demanding that every attention be given to final disposition of the tariff which has been in the hands of the Senate since last June.

First Action Seen by House.

The House today will go to work on its calendar and also will receive the third of the annual appropriation bills—that for the War Department. It is in the House that the prospect for first action on the dry controversy is seen.

The administration resolution creating a joint congressional committee to consider reorganization of the prohibition enforcement machinery comes up in the House within the next ten days. When this committee is authorized, President Hoover's law enforcement commission has promised to submit to it a preliminary report.

All legislative projects in the Senate must await final disposition of the tariff, and leaders there do not believe that bill will be out of the way before late in January. However, investigations and hearings on the many proposals before Congress will continue in full swing next week in both branches.

Holds Enforcement Impossible.

Almost as a prelude to the prospective wet and dry contest in the House, Representative Laguardia (Republican), New York, a wet, yesterday issued a statement asserting that for

Three Washingtonians are held at the Western police station in Baltimore in connection with the fatal shooting early yesterday morning of Louis Lococo, 26 years old, in his restaurant in that city.

They were arrested between 1 and 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at their homes in the Capital by Lieut. Joseph Morgan and three members of the homicide squad, including Thomas Sweeney, J. Waldron and John Fowler, who were accompanied by Lieut. Joseph J. Nelligan, of Baltimore.

Lococo's death marks the sixth successive major crime in Baltimore within a period of 2½ days. The cases include three slayings and the attempted assault of two women. Negroes have been accused in five of the crimes.

Traced by License Tags.

The men held in connection with the slaying of Lococo were traced to Washington by the license number of an automobile in which they are alleged to have made their escape after firing three shots in the restaurant keeper's body.

They identified themselves as Thomas Restifo, Quincy street northwest near Thirteenth street; Offie B. Jones, of Irving street northwest near First street, and Augustino Santucci, of North Capitol street near P street.

Tags on the automobile, said by the police to have sped away from the restaurant after the shots were heard, were listed in the name of Offie B. Jones.

Patrolman Michael Hoban, of the western district in Baltimore, was standing on the corner of Pearl and Lexington streets, watching a group of street sweepers. He said he heard several reports, but believed the noise had been made by men piling crates in Lexington market.

He turned into Pearl street a few moments later, however, and saw the two men enter the machine and drive off. Entering the restaurant, after getting the license number, he found

Capital Universities To Receive $250,000

Two Institutions Here Among 33 Beneficiaries of $6,000,000 Conrad Hubert Estate Selected by Coolidge, Alfred E. Smith and Rosenwald.

New York, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Former President Calvin Coolidge, former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and Julius Rosenwald, of Chicago, the committee of three prominent citizens chosen by executors under the will of the late Conrad Hubert, today announced the names of 33 institutions which have been selected by them to receive approximately $6,000,000.

Mr. Hubert, inventor of the pocket flashlight and other electrical devices, died February 14, 1928, at Cannes, France. He directed in his will that three outstanding Americans—a Catholic, a Protestant and a Jew—be appointed to determine the institutions to which three-quarters of his fortune should be distributed.

For this purpose the funds were divided into three classifications. In the second group, eight institutions will receive the first million dollars of the residuary estate, and in the third group ten institutions will receive bequests from the remaining funds.

The committee held its final meeting Friday in the offices of the Bankers Trust Co., which, with C. Bertram Plante, president of Mr. Hubert's Bond Electric Corporation, of Jersey City, N. J., is executor and trustee of the estate.

Afterward the committee granted an interview to reporters, with Mr. Coolidge acting as chairman.

"We have enjoyed the several months in this interesting work," he said. "I think you know the story of Conrad Hubert and his life. It was agreed by the committee that Mr. Smith would act as spokesman for the committee."

Mr. Smith pointed out that Mr. Hubert had made an unique provision in his will and that the committee, under the will, had been the judge of how much to give each institution, as well as what institutions should benefit.

"We have tried the best we know how to have this money make more money for charity," Mr. Smith said. "We have been in session at regular intervals since June or July and have had a pleasant time together."

He explained that a number of circumstances had been taken into consideration in distributing the fund.

"We have tried very hard to have the service from the expenditure of this money spread over the largest number of people," he said, citing the bequest of $500,000 to the Provident Hospital, of Chicago, to be used to train young Negroes to be physicians.

"This will have a far-reaching effect down through the ages," he commented.

Following are the bequests to be made from funds on hand:

St. Vincent's Hospital, New York, $500,000.

YOUNG HUSBAND HELD WITH ELDER BROTHER IN BOMBING OF BRIDE

World Court's Virtues Depicted by Robinson

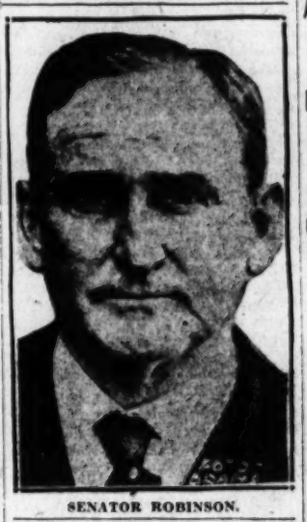

Senator Says Tribunal Would Promote Spirit of Tolerance, Amity.

Philadelphia, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Replying to critics of American adherence to the world court, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, said in an address here tonight that the moral effect of the court "will be to promote a spirit and disposition of tolerance and good will."

Without this, he said, the reduction of "armament and the observance of obligations not to resort to war will be rendered difficult, if not impossible."

Speaking under the auspices of the Rodeph Shalom Sisterhood of Philadelphia, Senator Robinson, one of the American delegates to the London naval conference, asserted that the court "furnishes a dignified and just agency for contracting the nations that are in trouble and tends to substitute a reign of law for the reign of force which throughout history has prevailed."

"While it is absurd to claim, or even to hope," he added, "that the

ACTION WILL RESULT IN FREEING OF UNCLE

GRILLING IS AUDIBLE OUTSIDE COURTHOUSE

A dramatic development came in the investigation of the Seat Pleasant triple bomb murder late last night when two brothers, Herman Brady, 22, and Leroy Brady, 26, were placed in the Marlboro Jail.

Herman Brady, a farmer, was the husband of Naomi Hall Brady, 18, who was killed when the bomb, camouflaged as a Christmas box, exploded in the kitchen of her mother's home, on New Year's Day. A baby brother and 4-year-old sister were fatally injured.

Leroy Brady, Herman's berother, lives in Washington and is an automobile mechanic. He is married and is a father.

Announcement that the two brothers would be held was made by Lieut. Joseph Iltzel, Baltimore detective, after he had put them through a severe grilling in the Marlboro Courthouse.

Uncle to Be Released.

At the same time, Lieut. Itzel announced that Clarence Brady, 50, uncle of the two brothers, would be released. He was arrested Friday.

The elder Brady, a bachelor farmer, completely convinced the authorities of his innocence. He denied that he had been in love with his nephew's wife and also denied that he had tried to marry her.

In fact, he convinced Lieut. Itzel and Sergt. Charles Schalter that he took no interest whatever in women. His idea of spending an evening on his farm, he said, was to read a mail order catalogue until he fell asleep in his rocker.

The strenuous grilling to which the Brady brothers were subjected yesterday and last night created tense excitement in Marlboro and a large number of men flocked to the courthouse.

Examination Heard Outside.

The piercing voice of Lieut. Itzel could be heard in the office of State's Attorney J. Frank Parran as he put them through the inquisition. The detective devoted most of his time to Leroy, who entered the picture for the first time yesterday.

Last midnight Leroy had been on the inquisitional carpet for more than four hours. Occasionally Lieut. Itzel or State's Attorney Parran would call in Herman and place him so that he faced Leroy. Then the two investigators would fire a barrage of questions at them.

As the brothers were taken from the courthouse to the jail down the street photographers danced around them blowing off flashlights.

Lieut. Itzel said that he was confident the bomb mystery soon would be solved, perhaps today or tomorrow. Detailed to the case by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, Itzel and his partner, Sergt. Schalter are determined to stick until they get a "break."

Leroy Attended Funeral

Leroy Brady was a conspicuous figure at the joint funeral held Saturday for Naomi Hall Brady and 19-month-old Samuel Hall.

The Baltimore detective, County Officer Frank P. Prince and Headquarters Detective John Fowler, of Washington, also were at the funeral.

One more is still to be held. It is that of Dorothy Hall, 4, who died Sat-

MANSION DESTROYED BY YULE TREE FIRE

HOSPITAL IS IMPERILED

White Plains, N. Y., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Fire started by a Christmas tree tonight destroyed the 40-room country home of George W. Hill, president of the American Tobacco Co. Many valuable paintings and all the furnishings in the house were burned. The owner estimated his loss at about $200,000.

Two children of Mr. Hill were playing in front of the tree when the fire started. Police said two exposed wires on the tree touched, there was a flash and the tinder-like fir burst into flame.

The children, Percival, 6, and Mary, 7, were rescued by a housekeeper, who took them out of the room while nine other servants sought in vain to put out the fire with pails of water.

All available apparatus was rushed to the scene. Firemen stationed on the roof of the New York Orthopedic Hospital, 200 yards to windward, prevented flying sparks from igniting that institution. There was no excitement among the 200 or more crippled children in the hospital.

University Students Feared Lost in Storm

Bellingham, Wash., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Three University of Washington students, who left Glacier camp with skis Friday to climb to the top of Mount Baker, had not returned to the camp tonight and a snowstorm swirling over the mountain caused considerable apprehension for their safety.

The trio, R. B. Sperlin, Ed Loners and Ernie Pugh, had planned to spend Friday night at the Mount Baker Club cabin, 10 miles above Glacier camp, climb the peak Saturday, and then return to Glacier camp today. Their failure to return would not necessarily mean that they were lost, it was explained, as they might have decided to wait out the storm at a cabin.

THEFT IS CONFESSED BY ROBBERY 'VICTIM'

HAD ACCUSED TWO MEN

On the night of December 30 Orfield notified police that he had been held up at the point of a pistol by two white men and robbed of $25. Orfield furnished such an accurate description of the two men that arrests were made within a short time in Richmond, Va. Orfield swore out warrants for the arrest of the two men before the United States commissioner in Richmond.

Police in Washington were suspicious about the case, they revealed yesterday, and Detective J. W. Wise was detailed to investigate. As a result of this investigation an alleged confession was extracted from Orfield to the effect that he had "framed" the supposed hold-up.

According to Wise, Orfield admitted taking the $25 himself and also admitted, it is said, that the two men arrested did not appear at the gasoline station. Subsequently, the two men, under arrest in Richmond, were released.

Woman Suffers Injuries Which Are Believed Not Serious.

One woman suffered injuries not believed serious and her five companions escaped injury in a near-tragedy at 9:10 o'clock last night, when the automobile in which they were riding, stalling on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks at Twenty-fourth and Douglas streets northeast, was struck by northbound passenger train No. 166 and brushed from the rails.

The injured woman is Mrs. Julia Fry, 25 years old, of 2004 Bryant street northeast, who suffered a concussion of the brain, possible internal injuries and a possible fracture of the skull, according to Dr. J. Rogers Young, at Casualty Hospital, where she was taken in its ambulance. Belief was expressed that her hurts would not prove serious.

Mrs. Nora Hall, 45, the mother, who opened the "Christmas box" while her family was grouped around her, still is in Providence Hospital, as are her two sons, Leslie, 16, and Thimas, 9.

Mrs. Hall's eye was blown out and her abdomen shattered, while the boys suffered severe injuries to the hands.

Hundreds of motorists journeyed to Seat Pleasant, Md., to view the dynamited Hall home yesterday. Many of them dropped money into a collection box which the Seat Pleasant Volunteer Fire Department had tacked onto the side of the house. This money will be turned over to John S. Hall, the father, and the other members of the family who survived the blast.

Two Tourists Die In Tennessee Camp

Another Ill as Authorities Ascribe Tragedy's Cause to Suffocation.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Two mebmers of a party of six North Carolina men en route to New Mexico were found dead at a tourist camp here today when other members of the party sought to wake them. A third was seriously ill. Police said their condition was caused by poison liquor or suffocation, but inclined to the latter theory.

The dead are F. M. Buckner, 45, and Barnum Lewis, 25, both of Big Laurel, N. C. Erwin Lewis, of the same town is in serious condition at a hospital.

Other members of the party are L. K. Wallin, Lloyd Wright and Elias Wright, all of Marshall, N. C. The Wright brothers said the party bought liquor last night at Brownsville, Tenn., as they came here. All drank some of it.

At the tourist camp the Wrights and Wallin occupied one room, and the three stricken used another. A small gas stove was found burning in the room where the men were found dead. There was little ventilation.

Police were inclined to the suffocation theory rather than that of poison liquor, because all six drank some of the whisky and only three were affected.

French Cruiser Hits Reef; Crew Taken Off

Oran, Algeria, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—A wide hole was torn in the hull of the French cruiser Edgar Quinet today when it struck near Cape Blanco while making its way through a dense fog. The crew was taken off safely, but the engine rooms of the vessel were flooded.

The Edgar Quinet was launched in September, 1907, and has a normal complement of 892 men. Its displacement is 14,100 tons and has a draught of 27 feet. It was made a training ship for midshipmen in 1928.

4,000 Gather to Celebrate Tenth Anniversary of League Founding.

New York, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Gen Jan Christaan Smuts, South African leader and one of the founders of the League of Nations, today outlined some of the reasons why he believes war will be banished eventually from the face of the earth.

Speaking to more than 4,000 persons gathered in the Metropolitan Opera House to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the league, he said the factors which would lead to the desired result would be a system of conferences among nations to settle their disputes and vigorous public opinion that would force governments to follow the paths of peace.

Gen. Smuts paid a high tribute to the late President Wilson for his work in behalf of world peace.

TWO SESSIONS PLANNED

Charlotte, N. C., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Detailed plans for the American Federation of Labor conference here tomorrow to plan an organization campaign among Southern workers were completed today at a meeting of national officers and the executive board of the North Carolina Federation of Labor, host to the visiting labor leaders.

Two conference sessions were planned, a general meeting tomorrow morning open to the public and an executive session tomorrow afternoon. Those attending today's conference said all business will be transacted at the afternoon session. William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, will address the morning session.

T. A. Wilson, president of the North Carolina Federation of Labor, said its executive board will recommend establishment of headquarters for the Southern organization campaign at Asheville, N. C. While it is proposed to organize workers in all major industries, the textile industry is regarded as a "key" industry and Asheville, State labor leaders said, is conveniently located to textile centers in North Carolina, Tennessee, South Carolina, Virginia and Georgia.

Some threescore Southern and National labor leaders had arrived for the conference tonight. From informal conferences it developed that Atlanta, Ga., Greenville, S. C., Columbia, S. C., and Charlotte are also under consideration for campaign headquarters.

The campaign for which plans will be made tomorrow has been heralded by Mr. Green as "the most extensive of its kind ever inaugurated by the American Federation of Labor." All units of the federation, representing all major trades, will join it.

Two Boys Perish As Ice Gives Way

One Is Drowned Trying to Save Chum in Pond Used for Skating.

Collinsville, Ill., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Two boys were drowned in Junghan's Pond, south of here, late today while skating on "rubber ice," one of them going to his death in an attempt to rescue the other. Four other boys narrowly escaped a similar fate.

The dead, both of Collinsville, are Jack Albrecht, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Albrecht, and George Crooks, jr., 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Crooks.

All six boys were submerged when a section of ice, roughly 16 feet square, gave way. The pond is 20 feet deep at that point. Crooks made his way to the edge, but returned to help his struggling companion.

Two of the others clambered out unassisted, but August Stockley, 14, and Theodore Grozne, 13, were rescued by Roy Bennett, 15-year-old policeman's son, with the aid of a pole.

Fourth Family Claims Much Identified Body

Little Rock, Ark., Jan 5. (A.P.).—A young woman found slain near marked tree, Ark., December 11, was identified for the fourth time last night when Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Waugh and their son, James N. Waugh, of Batesville, found clews which seemed to confirm their fears that the victim was their daughter and sister. Three previous identifications had proved faulty.

The Waughs said she was Miss Lena Waugh, aged 35. She had married O. D. Gambell, whom she later divorced, they said. Mrs. Waugh said that although her daughter had dark brown hair, while the corpse had red hair, she had learned since that she had her hair dyed.

WILL PLAY ROYAL WEDDING MARCH

Pietro Mazaini, young Italian pianist and protege of Queen Elizabeth of Belgium, will play the bridal march at the marriage of Princess Marie Jose of Belgium to Crown Prince Humbert of Italy.

Rome Cheers Marie Jose While She Greets Fiance

Rome, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Princess Marie Jose, fiancee of Crown Prince Humbert of Italy, came smiling today to a Rome bright with winter sunshine and made a quick conquest of thousands who hailed her as their future queen.

The princess' royal train drew into the station at 10 a. m., and she found her future parents-in-law and other illustrious personages waiting there to pay military honors. An enormous crowd cheered as the royal couple exchanged greetings and continued their acclamations as the party drove toward the Quirinal Palace.

The smiling Belgian girl, with curly chestnut hair, and the radiant healthy complexion for which her countrywomen are noted, took this ancient capital by storm. Her simple graciousness roused packed crowds of citizens to a high pitch of enthusiasm as she drove down lanes kept open by smartly attired troops.

Facing her in the open carriage, drawn by prancing blacks, was Humbert, Prince of Piedmont, the bridegroom-to-be, in the full regalia of a colonel of infantry.

Beside Marie Jose was her sister-in-law, the Duchess of Brabant, born the Princess Astrid of Sweden. With Humbert sat the young Prince Charles of Belgium, known as the Count of Flanders.

Marie Jose wore a white moire dress trimmed with white fox fur, and over it a fur-bordered beige gray cost. A hat of white texture with a silver ornament crowned her chestnut curls. She had a magnificent string of pearls around her throat and carried a big bouquet of white lilacs.

John W. Garrett, of Baltimore, United States Ambassador to Italy, and Mrs. Garrett, who live nearby in the Rospigliosi Palace, deserted points of vantage offered them and stood beside the ranks of soldiers in order to see better.

Shortly after their arrival at the palace the prince and princess themselves came out on the balcony, their appearance rousing the crowd to the fever pitch of enthusiasm. At Marie Jose's right stood her father, and at her left the Queen of Italy. Humbert had the Queen of Belgium and his father to his left. The royal party retired presently, but was drawn back by the crowd's plaudits. Finally the young couple alone came out on the balcony in answer to the renewed demonstration. They made three more appearances before the crowd was satisfied.

EULOGY OF WILSON FEATURES ANNIVERSARY MEETING HERE

He cited the creation of the Irish Free State as a shining example of what the league has done to help people of small countries.

Prior to Wilson's historical action in establishing the League of Nations, Dr. Webster said world peace movement theories were based on alliances, universal brotherhood, and economic treaties, none of which was workable.

"Woodrow Wilson realized," he declared, "that to promote world peace there must be something to take the place of war. No solution would work without a plan for making decision. Some kind of organization must be created which would, in the future, make decisions which the wars in the past had done.

"He offered the League of Nations as the machinery which would create a new friendship through conference. Prior to 1914, few statesmen of the world knew one another. As a result of the league movement, diplomats of Europe now meet in open conferences, and their deliberations are read by the people."

Not Absolute Solution.

While admitting the league is not an absolute solution of the world peace problem, Dr. Webster asserted that organization had made a tremendous advance in the right direction. The acceptance of its decisions, he stated, is now the greatest problem confronting the league.

Dr. Webster declared the Locarno protocol, the Briand-Kellogg pact, the Washington disarmament conference, and the forthcoming London naval conference were avenues toward world peace resulting from the League of Nations movement, and he expressed the hope that other similar avenues will result in which all nations of the world can join for the abolishment of war.

"A Great and Good Man."

"Wilson was a historian," he continued, "and worried little concerning his place in history. He was both a great and good man. Like all great men he stood alone. As a result of his League of Nations covenant, he did more for the prevention of war than any man in history."

The meeting was the first of its kind sponsored by the local committee. Heretofore a dinner meeting was ordinarily held on Wilson's birthday, December 28.

Charles S. Hamlin, former governor of the Federal Reserve Board, presided at the meeting, and delivered a brief eulogy of Wilson. The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Robert Johnston, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church. The meeting was attended by a distinguished assemblage, which included several ambassadors and ministers, as well as high governmental officials of the United States.

Financial Treaty To Be Considered

Polish-German Pact Will Demand Attention From League.

Warsaw, Poland, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Auguste Zaleski, Polish foreign minister, announced today that Poland will asked the League of Nations council at Geneva to make the Polish-German treaty, renouncing financial claims resulting from the World War, an integral part of the Young reparations plan.

M. Zaleski, who will leave shortly for Geneva to attend the league council, told the press that no agreement between France and Germany could be made at the expense of Poland, adding that the French-Polish alliance is the corner stone of European peace. The Polish-German treaty was signed last fall. It provided for mutual renunciation of such war claims by the two nations.

The signing of the German-Polish treaty was announced in Warsaw last November 1. In the pact the nations canceled 30,000 suits involving 1,500,000,000 gold francs, settling all mutual claims arising out of the passing of Silesia, Polanzia and "The Corridor" to Poland as an outcome of the World War. Poland promised not to exercise the right given by the Versailles treaty to liquidate certain German property in Poland.

Liquor Informer Slain in Detroit

Detroit, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Detroit gangsters claimed two victims today. One was a prohibition enforcement undercover man.

The body of George Mast, 27, was found in an alley at 8 o'clock this morning. Marks on his hroat led police to believe he had been strangled with wire.

Motorists found the body of Fred Gill, 48, on Oakwood boulevard in Dearborn, Detroit suburb, early today. He had been "taken for a ride" and shot between the eyes.

Thomas H. Brennan, assistant prohibition administrator here, said Mast was not a Federal agent, but had been employed on occasions as an informer. Brennan said the man had not been employed in prohibition enforcement during the past six months. Gill's wife and two men were held for questioning.

U. S. NAVAL ENVOYS COUNT ON PATIENCE

Delegation at London Will Take Time to Iron Out All Difficulties.

DEPART ON THURSDAY

Hopeful of negotiating treaties, which will reduce the cost of world armaments, the American delegation to the London conference will leave here this week with the idea of devoting the patience and conciliation necessary to the accomplishment of this purpose.

A special train will carry the American delegation and the contingent of advisers and officials from Washington to Jersey City Thursday. A fleet of busses and private automobiles will whisk the party to the dock at Hoboken where the United States liner George Washington will be boarded for the trip to Europe. The vessel, which carried President Wilson to Europe during the Paris peace conference, will sail immediately after the party is on board.

Full and frank discussions, which have so far marked the preparations of the five major naval powers for the conference, are expected to be the meane of surmounting the difficulties which will confront the parley.

French Attitude Cheers.

Word from Paris that the French government will enter the parley prepared to agree to a stated naval tonnage, but unable to sign a definite naval agreement, was looked upon in authoritative American quarters as indicating a conciliatory spirit on the part of the French government.

One thing that appeared certain last night, so far as the American attitude toward the conference is concerned, was that Secretary Stimson and his colleagues will go to London fully prepared to devote as much time as necessary to smoothing out obstacles. Much attention has been devoted by the American commission and naval experts to studying the indications from the capitals of the other nations as to what those powers will express as their desires at the conference.

Particular attention has been given to the French stand as indicated in the recent memorandum communicated to the interested powers. The preliminary diplomatic conversations between the powers have done much to clear up as many as possible of the points which have been brought out.

Problems to Be Proved Out.

It is recognized by both President Hoover and the Secretary, however, that the remaining difficulties and varied viewpoints which will confront the conference can not be reconciled overnight and that the parley must at the outset prepare to devote the maximum patience to working out solutions which will lead to an agreement to halt competition in sea armament construction.

There is confidence here that it will be through careful and frank negotiations in London that such questions as the French attitude will be cleared up.

One point which is considered highly favorable to the London negotiations is that the French delegation, under the leadership of Premier Tardieu, will enter the parley with the full confidence of that country, as indicated in the recent overwhelming vote of confidence the premier received in the French Parliament.

Premier in Strategic Position.

With this political strength, the French premier will be better able to survey the entire field in the search for an agreement than if doubt existed in his mind as to whether he might be repudiated upon returning to Paris with a naval arrangement unsatisfactory to a large part of Parliament.

The formal memorandum of the French government on its naval stand caused no surprise in official circles here, mainly because it was felt that the preliminary preparations and the willingness to discuss fully and frankly such matters as were raised in the note would clear the way for an understanding with the French. First reactions in Washington to the French memorandum had been somewhat unfavorable, but it was felt after careful consideration and study of the French attitude that there were no insurmountable obstacles.

Press dispatches from Paris expressing the French disposition to limit tonnage over a period of years, with the Paris delegation possibly ready to press for a total tonnage of between 700,000 tons and 800,000 tons, were not felt here to express untold difficulties for the parley.

This feeling was enhanced by the additional intimation that the "actual tonnage" would be "dependent upon the condition of political security," and particularly the question of a pact of Mediterranean nonaggression and mutual guarantees.

U. S. Directly Concerned.

This latter question is looked upon by President Hoover as not one directly concerning the United States. So far as the question is concerned, the attitude of the Washington Government is that if informal approval of it can further the work of the conference, the United States is prepared to give such approval.

These conciliatory expressions of attitude by the interested powers, however, where one desire at the parley is considered dependent upon another, are viewed by American officials as leaving the way open for reaching an agreement through frank discussions of desires and needs.

Youthful Hunting Victim Buried.

Charlottesville, Va., Jan. 5 (Special).—Funeral services for Russell Baber, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Baber, who was killed while hunting Thursday, were held yesterday afternoon at Centenary, in Buckingham County. The boy's death resulted from the accidental discharge of his own gun.

BROTHERS ARRESTED IN FIGHT OVER PINT

ACCUSER IS ALSO HELD

A dispute over a pint of whisky yesterday afternoon led to the arrest of the three Smith brothers, Oswald, Samuel P. and Linwood Smith, and Russel Hussey, 21 years old, of Berwyn, Md., at the home of the latter, who received a broken nose. The brothers face charges of assault and battery and Hussey is accused of assault with a dangerous weapon.

The arrests were made by Deputy Sheriff Ralph Brown, Constable Walter Good and Prince Georges County Policeman Claude Reese when they arrived at Hussey's home, who said they found him emerging with a shotgun after a fracas with the brothers, whom he charged with having stolen a pint of liquor and beating him.

At their approach, the officers said, Hussey fled to a chicken coup 150 yards away, but was apprehended and taken into custody, as were the Smith brothers. They were taken to the Bladensburg jail, where all were later released on $600 bond with the exception of Samuel Smith, who was unable to raise that amount. He gave his age as 23 years old and his address as Smith street, near D street northwest. He said that he went to visit his brothers in Berwyn yesterday, and that they decided to call on Hussey.

The men were taken before Justice of the Peace George Phillips, at Berwyn, and were instructed to appear in police court at Hyattsville this afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Head of Hospital Resigns Position

Dr. J. E. Harris Keeps Post as X-Ray Superintendent at Winchester.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Jan. 5.—Dr. J. Edward Harris, for the last five years superintendent of Winchester Memorial Hospital, has resigned, it was learned today, but will continue with the institution in the capacity of head of the X-ray department. Growth of the institution in the last few years, following opening of an addition doubling the capacity, has been such as to make it impossible for one person properly to look after the dual position, it was said.

Dr. Harris is to be succeeded as superintendent and business manager by a well-trained business executive who is not a physician or surgeon, it was stated on behalf of the board of directors. Dr. Harris will devote all his time to X-ray work at the hospital.

During the year just closed a total of 2,196 patients were received, and gross receipts exceeded $100,000. The institution did much charity work. The time spent in the hospital by patients has been reduced in five years one-third, or from 15¾ to 10 1-6 days. Nurses have increased from 16 to 40. The local institution, on the standardized list of the American College of Surgeons since 1926, is the fourth largest in Virginia.

Winchester Firemen Hold Warm Elections

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Jan. 5.—Election of officers of Winchester volunteer fire companies, usually exciting as much interest within the organizations as a heated political ballot battle, has been accomplished with a number of upsets, but in most instances "regulars" being elected to coveted offices.

Fred W. Forney was elected captain of the Friendship firemen for the ele[vent]h year without opposition. Lee Lan[ham] seded himself as president of th[e] ss organization, and Richard D. [Brown] succeeded James N. Moling, a veteran fireman, as president of the Sarah Zane Co. Most of the upsets occurred in elections for vice presidents and lieutenants. Each company named a conference committee to outline a new system of fire alarms with a view of lessening the number of general alarms.

Well Known Crozet Man Dies.

Charlottesville, Va., Jan. 5 (Special).—David H. Brown, widely known resident of the county, died at his home at Crozet. The funeral will be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning from the Crozet Methodist Church and interment will take place in Rock Gate Cemetery. Mr. Brown is survived by two children, Rowe Brown, now residing in Pittsburgh, Pa., and Stuart Brown, of Crozet. He also leaves one sister, Mrs. T. L. Early, and two brothers, Stonewall Brown and Stuart Brown.

Tailwinds Aid Pilots In Setting Speed Marks

Chicago, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Stiff tailwinds brought claims of new speed records from two air lines flying into Chicago today.

The first claim was made by the National Air Transport Co., which reported Pilot Paul Johnson had flown here from Kansas City today in 2 hours and 15 minutes, bettering by five minutes the time reported for Pilot Harry Lewis, of the same line. The other speed mark of today was claimed by Universal Air Lines, which announced Pilot Bobby Jewell had brought six passengers and a cargo of mail from St. Louis to Chicago in 1 hour and 26 minutes, four minutes better than the line's record set a year ago.

64-Year-Old Customs Agent Accused of Beink Drunk and Brandishing Guns When Residents Tried to Quiet Him.

Providence, R. I., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—W. W. Lufkin, collector of customs at the Port of Boston, today suspended Edward F. Foley, 64-year-old customs agent, after he had investigated charges that Foley became drunk and brandished guns this morning while guarding the rum runner Black Duck tied up at Pawtucket Cove.

Coast Guardsmen killed three rum runners in an encounter with the Black Duck off Newport a week ago.

Lufkin was called here by a report of Foley's behavior. He questioned him and Archie Knight, another customs employe at Pawtucket Cove, and two other men. The customs collector said Foley admitted that he had been drinking from a bottle of liquor and other testimony was that the guard brandished two guns when residents tried to quiet him.

Foley, Lufkin said, was alleged to have called the Boston Coast Guard headquarters on the phone, stating he was being attacked and needed reinforcements. He will submit to detailed report of the incident to his superiors tomorrow. The latter continued their investigation.

The Black Duck was towed to providence Friday and its $40,000 cargo of liquor removed. The rum boat was then taken to Pawtuxet Cove and guarded by four agents working on six hour shifts.

War Department to Hear Planes in 'Arctic' by Radio

Group of Ships Leaving Detroit for Spokane for War Maneuvers in Dead of Winter to Be in Constant Touch With Capital.

(Associated Press.)

Radio wil enable the War Department, for the first time i nhistory, to follow by ear the progress across the continent of Army Air Corps airplanes when the Arctic patrol of the first pursuit group leaves Detroit Wednesday for Spokane, Wash.

Eighteen pursuit planes and two trimotored transports, equipped with skis instead of the usual landing gear, will itake off from Detroit for maneuvers ove ra 3,500-mile battle front. It will be the first time for a large group of planes to engage in mimic warfare under subarctic conditions and over a battle front as long as the distance between New York and Paris.

A new radjo station, AB6, will be installed in one of the transports to inaugurate a series of short wave communication experiments while the ship is in transit, as well as when it is on the ground.

Cooperating i nthe tests, the War Department announced yesterday, will be the Army radio network, members of the American Radio Relay League, and Station W2XK, the experimental laboratories of the General Electric Co., at Schenectady, N. Y.

"The primary purpose of the Arctic patrol is to test the efficiency of planes, personnel and equipment under the most severe winter conditions to be found south of the polar regions," the War Department announcement said. "Its secondary object is to obtain first hand experience in the value of short wave radio in connection with Army Air Corps operations in remote sections and covering long distances."

Regular communication during flight hours is planned with the Army Signal Corps network, through stations at Columbus, Chicago, Omaha, Leavenworth, Kans.; Fort Sill, Okla.; Fort Francis E. Warren, Wyo.; Fort Douglas, Utah, and Vancouver Barracks, Wash., all of which will be in direct communication with the Army message center in Washington, D. C.

The itinerary of the flight follows:

January 8, depart Selfridge Field, Detroit; noon stop, St. Ignace, Mich.; overnight stop, Duluth, Minn.; via Hancock, Mich.

January 9, Depart Duluth; noon stop, Grand Forks, N. Dak.; overnight stop, Minot, N. Dak.

January 10, Depart Minot; noon stop, Glasgow, Mont.; overnight stop, Great Falls, Mont.; via Harve.

January 11, depart Great Falls; noon stop, Kalispell, Mont.; arrive Spokane in the afternoon and will remain there until January 13, at 7:30 a. m.

Jauary 13, depart Spokane; noon stop, Helena, Mont., via Missoula; overnight stop, Miles City, Mont.

January 14, depart Miles City; noon stop, Bismarck, N. Dak; overnight stop, Fargo, N. Dak.

January 15, depart Fargo; noon stop, Minneapolis; overnight stop, Wausau, Wis.

Plane Pilot, Student Hurt in 200-Foot Fall

Youngstown, Ohio, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Pilot Jack Wiles, 35, and Paul Williams, 22, student flier, were seriously injured today when the biplane in which they were flying went into a tailspin and crashed near here. Wiles was injured internally and his left arm was broken in two places. Williams has a fractured skull. Both are in St. Elizabeth's Hospital here.

The motor failed while the plane was in a steep bank at an altitude of about 200 feet.

ICE SWEEPS OUT TO LAKE

Menominee, Mich., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—While friends and relatives watched from the shore, 50 fishermen narrowly escaped death or injury in Green Bay north of here today as a breakup of ice trapped them on a huge floe. A sudden thaw was responsible. They came ashore, racing against time, safely only a minute before the ice swept out into Lake Michigan.

Hundreds of nets and all the fishing equipment was carried away as the men abandoned it in their dash to safety.

The breakup occurred about 2 miles off shore. Heralded by a rumbling and creaking of the ice, a crack appeared along a 15-mile front. Twenty-five of the men rushed for the shore at once. Some of them had to swim in order to bridge the rapidly widening gap.

The other 25 remained behind, believing the crack would close. When it widened, instead, seven of them jumped on a sled owned by George Grabowski, and drawn by horses. They raced 8 miles north to Hayward Bay point, where there still was a chance to get ashore.

Almost all the boats in the little settlement of Ingalliston, near the point of the breakup, had been put away for the winter. With the wives and children of the fishermen still on the floe standing on the shore and entreating aid, a sail sled started north. It brought off most of the men. A small boat accounted for those remaining.

SENATOR ROBINSON LAUDS WORLD COURT

value as one of the factors which can be relied on to mitigate animosities and to decide issues which in the absence of any permanent tribunal of justice might result in war."

The revised protocol of the world court, providing for American adherence, has been signed by the United States, and the only step remaining is ratification by the Senate.

Discussing the objections that American adherence involved a repudiation or modification of the policy of avoiding European entanglements, and that no process was available to enforce decisions of the court, Mr. Robinson said the effectiveness of the court largely was dependent upon the good faith and good will of the litigants, and that compulsory agencies would seldom be required to give effect to its decrees.

Jurisdiction as to the United States would be voluntary and this country would be at liberty to withdraw without penalty if the court persisted in rendering an adverse opinion over objections, he said, adding that in view of this "it is difficult to see how any 'entanglement' can result, unless one chooses to affirm that he will have nothing to do with the troubles of other peoples and determine every question in which ourselves and other nations are concerned without regard to their viewpoints or interests."

Robinson said that commercial expansion and quick communication were making international relations more complicated and that it was doubtful that "a more modest arrangement" could be set up through which the United States could contribute to the promotion of peace.

"Referring for a moment to the criticism that a majority of the members of the court will consist of foreigners," he continued, "let it be said that the same is true of any international convention, conference or other assembly, and that no fair-minded person could insist as a condition of our membership that the majority of the judges shall be citizens of the United States."

Brickbats & Bouquets

—By JAMES HAY, JR.—

HE had an Ancient-Mariner gleam in his bright and piercing eye and a forefinger crookedand calloused from prolonged buttonholing of unwilling victims.

"Sir," he said, "we are confronted with the most enormous, colossal and stupendous building boom that ever blessed a liberty-loving and overlegislated land. Multitudes of architects and millions of builders are about to crown our mills and beautify our valleys from the Atlantic to the Pacific with hoosegows, calabooses, pens, pounds and panopticons.

"We are about to enforce prohibition. Congress, the President and the Department of Justice are out to create more judges, widen the police powers, make the rum buyer a crook and conspirator, and, most important of all, knock the time locks off the Treasury safes, turn Mr. Mellon into a widow's cruse and pour forth, for the dry campaign, such floods of gold as will make old King Midas look like an impoverished, puny and paralytic piker.

"SIR," he continued after emitting a yodel yell of enthusiasm, "think what that will mean. There are in the city of Detroit, I am reliably informed, 30,000 speakeasies. There are in New York no less than 45,000 bars, retreats and back-door emporiums where stuff called liquor is dispensed.

"In two towns alone, 75,000 drinking places! Each place, on the most conservative estimate, must have 50 patrons, imbibers or telephone customers—a total of 3,750,000 persons who, when the ideal of perfect prohibition enforcement is attained, will be uprooted from their alcoholic dallying and cast into donjons, dungeons and other forms of durance vile. And if two cities yield nearly 4,000,000 to the jailers, guards and gamekeepers, you can imagine how many more will be furnished forth by the entire country.

"Today, mark you, with only 10,000 Federal prisoners in bastiles and bridewells, we are appropriating $7,000,000 to enlarge their quarters. When we lay the millions by the heels, that building boom of which I speak will be a governmental necessity. There won't be an ide man in the United States. Those who are not being imprisoned will be busy as bricklayers, carpenters and steel workers or as castellans, coast guards and custodians.

• • • •

"A REPUBLIC, my friend, surrounded by palisades, pickets and padlocks! A population working overtime in wearing or inflicting tethers, ties and trammels!

"Nevertheless, since prohibition is the law, that's the way to enforce it. Get 'em all—little guys and big guys, hoboes and society kings, bootleggers and hi-jackers, granddads and flappers! Make 'em obey the law or sink them into the subjection which is not made happy by the evening potation or the morning pick-me-up.

"I'm doubly for the administration! I'm for the big building program and the 100 per cent prohibition enforcement. And the two go together! Show the drunks no mercy! Throw 'em all into limbo and lockup! Make this country so dry that by comparison the Sahara Desert will look like a clover field fanned by fragrant breezes and watered by brooks which run champagne instead of water and whose banks are thronged with despicable thirty men plunging capacious dippers into the alluring but disgusting flood!"

• • •

"WHO," I inquired, "is that inspired speaker?"

"That," said a bystander, "is a congressman who votes dry and drinks wet."

TARIFF WILL FORCE SENATE INTO TRUCE ON PROHIBITION

the "first time the drys are on the defensive."

"All that we have to do now," said Laguardia, "is to hold the lines and let the drys do the fighting among themselves. The advocates of prohibition are nearing the point where they must either admit defeat now or be prepared to admit the failure of prohibition within a very short time. To date prohibition has not been enforced and what is more it can not be enforced."

But Representative Crampton (Republican), Michigan, a leader of the House drys, has issued a statement insisting that prohibition is "more effective today than ever before." He ascribed to Mr. Hoover a determination to "advance courageously, sincerely and definitely with the national program of enforcement."

The resumption of the tariff debate in the Senate will find two of its leading participants—Senators Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, and Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania—absent on their mission to the London naval conference. They depart this week.

Byrns Fights for Amendment.

Taking note of the impending conference between the House and the Senate on the tariff measure, Representative Byrns (Democrat), Tennessee, yesterday issued a statement through the Democratic national committee, calling upon House Republicans to give support to the Simmons-Norris amendment to the tariff bill in the Senate. This would transfer the power to raise or lower tariff rates from the President to Congress.

Troubles confronting the Senate Republicans in the necessary reorganization of its machinery for this session appeared to be fad[illegible]ith a prospect that the rebel We[illegible] independents would be recogn[illegible] with the appointment of Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, to the powerful finance committee.

The Senate lobby investigation will get under way again tomorrow, when representatives of the sugar industry interested in opposing an increase in sugar duties will be called.

Committee on Committees Called.

Chairman McNary, of the committee on committees, who has had the task of remoulding the Senate Republication organization, has called a meeting of the committee to draft its slate tomorrow.

YOUTH'S BODY FOUND ON ALCOHOL PYRE

dead center of the narrow road. Inside the machine, he said, were eight cans of blazing alcohol on which sprawled the body of the youth. Rivers of fire trickled from the holocaust and flowed into a nearby ditch.

The police took the body, burned beyond recognition, from the car as quickly as approach was possible. They said the young man undoubtedly was dead before the fire was started.

Sergt. Siegel, in reconstructing the crime, said he believed the youth had been slain in the neighborhood, near the palatial Haweswood estate of James E. Hawes, wealthy Chicago manufacturer. The slayers, according to the sergeant, then rolled a decrepit automobile into the center of the road, placed the body upon the alcohol cans in the tonneau and, saturating the whole with gasoline, set it ablaze.

Because of the charred condition of the body, police said it was impossible to determine the cause of death.

A post mortem examination showed that the youth had been shot from behind, the bullet entering the back of the head and emerging through the forehead.

The automobile was facing the Indiana State line. Police believe the boy was transporting the alcohol from Chicago to some point along the road, which touched Dyer, Ind., and eventually leads to Hammond, Ind.

License plates of the car had been removed, but the engine number, Ford A1362404, remained and officials of that company were asked to check its ownership.

FIVE IN AUTO HIT BY TRAIN NOT HURT

Sullivan, 19 years old, also of 2004 Bryant street northeast; Henry King, 25 years old; his wife, Mrs. Henry King, 23 years old, and Raymond King, 23 years old, driver of the car, all of 2008 Bryant street northeast.

"We were returning from Hyattsville along the Bladensburg road when we turned into a road near Twenty-fourth street northeast and came to the B. & O. tracks," Henry King was quoted as declaring to Fourteenth Precinct police whod investigated.

"We were on the tracks when the engine stalled. Raymond, who was driving, tried to step on the starter to go forward or try to back up, but it was too late and the train hit us. The car was only partially on the track along which the train was running and the crash just tore off the front bumper and damaged the radiator, pushing the machine out of its path, but not turning us over."

Mrs. Fry was believed to have injured her head by striking it inside the machine due to the accident, which occurred a short distance from Langdon Station. The train was brought to a stop and after the extent of the damage was ascertained it continued toward Baltimore.

Conrad Hubert was born in Minsk, Russia, in 1860, of Jewish parentage. At the age of 13 he was thrown upon his own resources. He began work as a distillery hand in Germany, returning in 1879 to join his father in the wine business. The money which the family made was lost through reverses and Hubert, when he was 22, came to the United States.

Business Life Varied.

Until he was 40, his business life was varied. He engaged successively in the retail cigar business, the operation of a restaurant, as boarding house keeper, as a farmer and retail milk dealer, and then in the watch business. During all this time he worked on various inventions and, in 1898, he perfected and patented the pocket flashlight.

The first flashlight compay, the American Eveready Co., was formed by Mr. Hubert and L. H. Keller. Mr. Hubert was president until it was sold to the National Carbon Co. some years ago. He and Mr. Keller then formed the Yale Electric Corporation, which in 1928, changed its name to the Bond Electric Co., of Jersey City. At the time of his death Mr. Hubert was chairman of the board of the latter company.

Besides originating the flashlight, he developed and promoted the manufacture of the miniature incandescent lamp, a vacuum cleaner, a pocket cigar lighter, an electric vibrator and other devices.

WASHINGTON TRIO HELD IN SLAYING

The restaurant man was a native of Sicily. He was pronounced dead at University Hospital. Two bullets had entered his chest and another his head. A small amount of money which remained in the cash register has led police to discard the theory of robbery. They believe Lococo was slain either because of difficulties with some Italian society, or that a bootlegging feud was responsible for his murder.

Negro Editor Is Seen As De Priest Opponent

Chicago, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Friends of Robert S. Abbott, Negro, editor of the Chicago Defender, today said he would be a candidate against Oscar De Priest, incumbent and also a Negro, for the Republican nomination for representative from the First Illinois district at the April primary.

Abbott, who is known as a follower of Senator Charles S. Deneen, was out of the city and could not be reached for verification. Abbott, regarded as wealthy, is a graduate of Hampton Institute of Virginia, where he learned the printers' trade. Coming to Chicago several years ago, he established the Defender, a racial publication, which has acquired national circulation.

FOUR ARE INJURED IN TRAFFIC MISHAPS

Bicycle Riders Among Those to Suffer Hurts in Accident Series.

TWO ARRESTS ARE MADE

Four persons were injured in accidents yesterday and two arrests were made. Bicycle riders suffered in two of the accidents.

Brush burns were received by Jack Willis, 27 years old, of 1112 A street northwest, when he was knocked from a bicycle he was riding north of Highway Bridge yesterday morning. He was treated at Emergency Hospital. Homer G. Duffey, of 327 Fifteenth street northeast, alleged driver of the automobile, was arrested on a charge of reckless driving by park police. He was taken to the Fourth Precinct and released on $500 bond.

Christian Huppman, 15 years old, of 477 F street southwest, lost control of the bicycle he was riding at Sixth and G streets yesterday morning and fell to the ground. He was treated at Emergency Hospital for cuts and brush burns.

Joseph A. Kell, colored, 43 years old, of 426 M street northwest, received a fractured collar bone when the automobile he was driving was in collision with one said by police to have been driven by Elmer Sayre, of 627 Otis place northwest. The accident occurred at Sixteenth street and Florida avenue northwest. Sayre was arrested by Eighth Precinct police on a charge of reckless driving. He was later released on $100 bond.

RULE FOR ADD

Martin G. Sebiakin, 40 years old, of New York City, suffered minor cuts on the left ear and the forehead from flying glass at 11:25 o'clock yesterday morning at North Capitol street and Rhode Island avenue when the automobile he was driving collided with a Washington Railway & Electric Co. street car. He received medical aid from a druggist on the same corner.

Boy Who Slew to Save Sister Is Exonerated

Vienna, Ga., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—A coroner's jury yesterday exonerated Pat Harper, 17 years old, after the youth and his 19-year-old sister had testified Pat killed their foster-father, Lou Harper, 45, with an ax to protect the girl.

The slaying occurred two weeks ago. The brother and sister yesterday voluntarily confessed to C. E. Plunkett, owner of the farm on which Harper was a tenant. Testimony at the inquest was to the effect that Harper, who had been drinking, drove his wife and all members of the family except the girl out of the house. Pat said he picked up an ax and went back when he heard his sister scream. He struck Harper in the back of the head, he said, when he found the man struggling with the girl.

Seven Sons Offer Blood To Save Their Father

Baltimore, Jan. 5 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Seven sons yesterday volunteered to give their blood to save the life of their father, Charles Kirrs, 64, a patient at Mercy Hospital. Physicians decided a blood transfusion was necessary to save his life.

Four of the sons, Henry, John, Frank and Anthony, already have had their blood tested and physicians say it is satisfactory. It is expected that Henry, an official police sergeant, will be called upon today to submit to the transfusion. Meanwhile, the three other sons, Charles, Edward and James, are hoping they, too, will be given an opportunity to help their father.

Royal Wedding Stirs Interest In Washington

By JEAN ELIOT.

IN the glowing accounts of preparations for the marriage of H. R. H. Princess Marie Jose of Belgium and H. R. H. Humbert—or Umberto, in the Italian—Prince of Piedmont, with which the newspapers are filled, there figures occasionally a name which awakens pleasant memories in Washington, that of Count di Sant'Elia, master of ceremonies at the Court of the Quirinal. He was a member of the group of Italian dignitaries who went to Brussels to escort the little princess to Rome and, of course, he has an important part in working out the details for the picturesque wedding ceremony, which is to take place in the Pauline Chapel of the Quirinal on Monday.

It will be remembered that Count and Countess di Sant'Elia came avisiting to Washington at the time of the inauguration of President Hoover. They remained in town for several weeks, were entertained extensively and made many warm friends among those in official and resident society with whom they had contact. Countess di Sant'Elia, an Englishwoman, is at present at her country home in Kent. She has not been very well and does not feel equal to the fatigue of the stately ceremonies in connection with the royal wedding.

When they left this country after their visit, Count and Countess di Sant'Elia returned to Rome and it was at this time that the countess was made lady in waiting to the Queen of Italy and was presented with the beautiful diamond insignia which is the sign manuel of such service to royalty. Later Count and Countess di Sant'Elia took a house in London for the season, the count returning to Italy when preparations for the wedding began.

Not very long after the President and Mrs. Hoover came to the White House, Countess di Sant'Elia was received by Mrs. Hoover. She came from New York especially to call at the White House and returned the same day, since she and Count di Sant'Elia were giving a dinner that night for some of the New Yorkers who had showered hospitalities upon them.

An official communication to the wives of ambassadors and ministers invited to the royal wedding gives explicit instructions as to the "order of dress."

Those attending the ceremony must wear long sleeves and low neck, with a special veil which covers the shoulders, the communication states. Those outside, in the room where the cortege passes, may wear full decollete. All those dresses are to be light in color.

The palace chapel is a replica of the Sistine Chapel. The only drawback is its size, which is inadequate for the number of guests in court, diplomatic and government circles who must be invited. Royal guests, the heads of missions and representatives of the government, beside Il Duce, will witness the marriage.

Others of equally high rank will witness the ceremony from the royal hall, which, with the doors open, will be practically a part of the chapel. Still others will be placed in the hall, "corrazziere," which leads out into the royal hall. In this way a large number will witness the ceremony. The cortege after the ceremony will pass through the royal hall and then into the outer room.

On the eve of the wedding a reception will be given in the Quirinal Palace.

The bride will wear white gown and train. The queen and the two unmarried princesses will wear white with silver-lined trains. Princess Mafalda Hesse is to wear a light dress with a crimson train, a historical one belonging to the Hesse family. Princess Yolanda, as the wife of a commoner, will wear a train with a colored dress, while the ladies in waiting are to wear dark blue velvet trains with white dresses.

The dresses of the royal family are being made by an Italian dressmaker out of silk woven in Italian factories.

Czechoslovakian Envoy Sails for America.

M. Veverka, Minister of Czechoslovakia, sailed Friday on the Bremen for the United States. It is expected that Mme. Veverka will accompany the minister.

Senora de Bedoya will act as patroness for the tableau, "Rose of Lima," which will be among the group given at the soiree internationale, sponsored by the Colonial Dames of America at the Carlton on Wednesday, January 15. Mrs. McCormick-Goodhart and Mrs. Robert Giles are actively engaged in promoting the success of the soiree.

Mr. Michael MacWhite, Minister of the Irish Free State, is at the Ritz Tower in New York.

Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur will not be at home on Wednesday when many of the Cabinet ladies receive.

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Commodore Ernest Lee Jahncke, has returned to Washington from a visit at his home in New Orleans.

Senator and Mrs. Hamilton F. Kean, who have been in New Jersey, will return today to their apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Grand Duchess to Attend Russian Concert.

Grand Duchess Kira will attend the first nonsubscription concert of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, which will be held Friday at Carnegie Hall in New York to augment the funds for the American Society for Relief of Russian Exiles, Inc. A special program of Russian music has been arranged, which will include the prelude to "Khovantchina," by Moussorgsky; Stravinsky's orchestral suite from "Petroushka," and the "Overture of 1812," by Tchaikovsky. Dr. Serge Koussevitzky will conduct.

Representative and Mrs. M. Alfred Michaelson will return today to their apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel from their home in Chicago.

The Italy-America Society of Washington will present Mr. Charles E. Fairman in an illustrated lecture at the home of Mr. William Phelps Eno, 1771 N street, on Tuesday evening, January 21. Mr. Fairman is art curator of the United States Capitol and will talk on the "Art of the Italian Artists in the Capitol."

Representative and Mrs. Frank Foss, who have been passing some time at their home in Fitchburg, Mass., will return today to their apartment at the Hotel Roosevelt.

The English Speaking Union will present Mrs. Cecil Mocatta, English promoter of mutual understanding among nations, at a luncheon at the Willard on Tuesday, January 14.

Capital Guests Plan to Attend Baltimore Ball

A number of guests from Washington will attend the Baltimore Assembly to be held on Friday night at the Alcazar. Among those from the Capital who are planning to go to Baltimore for the ball are Mrs. Gibson Fahnestock, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tuckerman and Miss Laura Tuckerman; Miss Anne Carter Greene and Mr. William Bowie Clarke. Mrs. J Wilmer Biddle, of Philadelphia, and her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Gordon, will also be present.

The assembly is under the patronage of a distinguished group of Baltimore women, among them Mrs Henry Barton Jacobs, Mrs. William Cabell Bruce, Mrs. Robert Garrett, Mrs. Bruce Cotton, Mrs. de Courcy Thom, Mrs. Charles H. Carter, Mrs William Holland Wilmer, Mrs. William Keyser, Mrs. Alexander Brown, Mrs. Charles Morris Howard, Mrs. Winslow Williams, Mrs. W. H. de Courcy Wright, Mrs. Morris Whitridge, Mrs. Edwin Warfield, Mrs. Howard Bruce, Mrs. Miles White, jr., and Mrs. Gaillard L. Clark.

Miss Mary Eleanor LaDow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. LaDow and Mr. Harvey B. Gilbert, of Erwin, Tenn., were married at 3:30 o'clock January 1, in the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. O. O. Dietz, of the Brookland Baptist Church, officiated in the presence of members of the two families and a few close friends.

The house was beautifully decorated with ferns and evergreen in keeping with the holiday season. Mrs. Thelma Hild LaDow, sister-in-law of the bride, sang "I Love You Truly." She was accompanied by Miss Marie Foulds, who also played the bridal march from Lohengrin.

The bride wore a becoming afternoon gown of blue chiffon with hat and accessories to match, and carried a bouquet of sweet peas and lilies of the valley. Miss Louise LaDow, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a gown of green chiffon and carried a bouquet of rosebuds. Mr. Hugh E. Atwell, of Leesburg, was best man.

A reception followed the ceremony. Mr. Gilbert and his bride leaving later for a motor trip through the North. They will be at home at 1413 Girard street northwest, after January 12.

Representative and Mrs. C. L. Clifford, who have been at their home in Cotuit, Mass., are expected to return today to their apartment at the Hotel Roosevelt.

With renewed interest in plans for the 1930 activities of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae a group of additional patrons has been recorded and includes Mrs. James E. Colliflower, Miss Elizabeth Dolan, Miss Anna Coughlin, Miss Mary O'Donoghue, Mrs. Clara E Tabler, Mrs. George H. O'Connor, Miss Rosa Schulties, Miss Daisy E. Brick, Miss Alice Brick, Miss Eleanor B. Brawner, Miss Josephine Shannon, Mrs. John R. Fitzpatrick, Miss Grace Fowler, Miss Mary Louise Darr, Mrs. Philip Brown, Mrs. George T. Thomaides and Mrs. Ralph Carbo. A meeting of the committee representing the twelve affiliated local schools will be held within a few days. Mrs. Frederick J. Rice is chairman.

Mrs. Lloyd Will Direct Card Party.

Miss Rosa Brooks, of Athens, Ga., is visiting at the home of Mrs. Albert Manly in Chevy Chase prior to a short stay with her brother, at Wesleyan College, in Middletown, Conn. Miss Brooks is head of the French department at the Lucy Cobb Institute in Athens.

Representative and Mrs. Anthony J. Griffin, who have been passing the holidays at their home in New York, are expected to return today and open their apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel for the remainder of the season.

Mr. William A. Delano, of Paris, architect for the remodeling of the new American foreign service building in the Place de la Concorde, passed the holidays with his family in New York. He will return to Paris early this month.

Mr. William Gibbs McAdoo is expected to return today to his apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel from his home in Los Angeles.

Mr. William Gillette is at the Willard this week, having arrived from New York last evening for his engagement at the National.

Mrs. Walton C. Carroll, wife of Lieut. Carroll, has returned to Norfolk, Va., after visiting friends and relatives here. She was among the guests entertained at luncheon by Mrs. W. W. Skinner on Friday at the Cosmos Club.

Sherlock Holmes Revival To Attract Society.

Significant in its social as well as dramatic aspect the Washington premiere of William Gillette's revival of "Sherlock Holmes" bids fair to attract to the National Theater tonight a representative contingent of society. Not to be outdone by New York, where Mr. Gillette has been accorded nightly ovation for his matchless delineation of the favorite role, Washington's drama lovers are marshaling numerous theater parties for tonight's performance.

Among those who have taken seats for the play are: The Minister of Panama and Senora de Alfaro, the Polish Minister, Mr. Tytus Filipowicz; Representative and Mrs. Richard Aldrich, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Joseph Strauss, Rear Admiral Joseph N. Hemphill, Rear Admiral Spencer Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Evans, Mr. William B. Ham, Mrs. Samuel Henry Vandergrift, Mr. Lynch Luquer, Mr. Rozier Dulany, jr., Mrs. Robert LaFollette, Mrs. George P. Scriven, jr., Mrs. Thomas W. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. David H. Blair, Mrs. Price Whitaker and Mr. and Mrs. Corcoran Thom.

Miss Virginia Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Young, of 3701 Massachusetts avenue, has returned from West Point, N. Y., where she had been spending the holidays.

Mr. Frederick B. Burns, of Cambridge, arrived at the Willard yesterday for a stay of several days.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Linder, of East Orange, N. J., are at the Dodge Hotel. They are accompanied by their son, Robert W. Linder.

Mr. and Mrs. James Clark, of Keewayden, Ellicott City, Md., announce the engagement of their sister, Miss Patty Clark, to Mr. Roland Childs, both of Howard County, Md. The wedding will take place in the spring.

Mrs. Samuel Jordan Graham will receive informally this afternoon and on the succeeding Mondays in January at her home, 2101 Connecticut avenue.

NOTICE to TELEPHONE SUBSCRIBERS

A NEW and improved method of rendering telephone bills throughout the District of Columbia will be put into effect after January 10, 1930.

Under the new plan, bills for all subscribers will be divided into six groups, and each group will be sent out on a different date. All items on the bills will be printed and totaled by machines, which will make them more legible and will greatly reduce the possibility of error.

This new method, which is in successful operation in many of the larger cities throughout the country, will enable us to render our subscribers a more satisfactory billing and business office service.

These will be the Billing Dates each month

Anspacher Lecture Series Opens February 12.

Smart Washingtonians need not wonder what to do on Wednesday mornings after Mrs. Lawrence Townsend's musicales are over, for an equally brilliant annual series—the lectures that Dr. Louis K. Anspacher has given here for the past four seasons—will be resumed at the Willard Hotel on February 12 for the benefit of the George Washington Memorial.

This announcement was made at a meeting of the Anspacher lecture committee at the home of Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, the honorary chairman, by Mrs. George C. Thorpe, chairman, who also announced that, as a result of a popular vote by Dr. Anspacher's subscribers last spring this year's series will be on Shakespeare.

The talk on February 12 will be on "Shakespeare as a Poet," with some introductory moments on "The Theater as Shakespeare Found It." On February 19 Dr. Anspacher will speak on Julius Caesar; on February 26 on Macbeth, and the last lecture, on March 12, will deal with Hamlet and a conclusion on "The Theater as Shakespeare Left It."

Following the first lecture Mrs. Dimock will entertain at luncheon in honor of Dr. Anspacher and the committee, which, besides Mrs. Thorpe, consists of Mrs. Charles Bell, Mrs. Gibson Fahnestock, Mrs. Goodloe Falconer, Mrs. Samuel Jordan Graham, Mrs. Robert Whitney Imbrie, Mrs William Fitch Kelley, Mrs. Brewster Marwick, Mrs. Charles Oman, Mrs. Walter Tuckerman, Mrs. Henry Winfield Watson and Miss Vera Bloom.

Mr. Eben F. Comins is giving a studio tea today at the Yorke Galleries, on S street, from 4 until 6:30 o'clock. He will be assisted by Mme. Bostrom, Mme. Varela, Mrs. John C. Fremont, Mrs. Frederick Rhinelander, Mrs. Price Whitaker and Miss Helen Seymour.

The exhibition of Mr. Comins' portraits will continue each day through January 25.

Mr. Harry Kronheimer has returned to Richmond, Va., after being the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kronheimer.

Mrs. Milton Nathan is the guest of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Phil May, at Charleston, W. Va.

Miss N. C. Barney, formerly of Washington, who is now making her home in Paris, has arrived at the Wardman Park Hotel for a short visit. She has been joined by Miss Romaine Brooks Goddard, of Paris, who has been visiting members of her family in Philadelphia. Miss Barney and Miss Goddard will leave shortly for California to visit Miss Barney's mother before returning to France.

Miss Mildred Blaine Clarke left yesterday for Ward-Belmont School in Nashville, Tenn., where she is a student, after spending a fortnight's vacation in Washington.

Miss Josephine Schain, corresponding secretary of the committee on the Cause and Cure of War, is stopping at the national clubhouse of the American Association of University Women.

Dr. and Mrs. Howard G. Case and their daughter, Carol, of Syracuse, N. Y., are spending several days at the Dodge Hotel.

Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, honorary chairman of the board of governors of the Washington International Assembly, will head the receiving line at the reception with which the assembly's costume ball will formally open tonight at 10 o'clock. With her will be Mrs. Claude A. Swanson, wife of Senator Swanson, of Virginia, and Mrs. Joseph E. Washington, both of whom are members of the board.

Lieut. Col. C. B. Hodges, formerly commandant of cadets at West Point and now President Hoover's aid, has accepted the invitation to serve on the men's floor committee for the assembly tonight and Mr. Archibald C. V. Wells will also act in this capacity. Mr. Walter D. Davidge is chairman and has gathered about him men of prominence in Washington life.

Arrangements for the ball are fully completed and a large and brilliant company is expected in attendance at this outstanding social event.

Miss Vera Riefkin, Miss Elizabeth Kohner and Miss Lois Greenberg, who spent the past week at her home, Charleroi, Pa., are again at Goucher College, Baltimore, Md.

Hungarian Artists Open Apartment Studio.

The Misses Elena and Berta de Hellebranth have taken a studio apartment at the La Salle and expect to remain in Washington for several months. These two gifted young Hungarian artists, who specialize in twin portraits painted at the same sitting, have commissions to paint several Washingtonians. An exhibition of their work, held recently at the Yorke Galleries, received much favorable critical comment. Their mother, Mrs. de Hellebranth, is with them in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cafritz have returned from a short visit to New York.

The card party to be given at Wardman Park Hotel on the afternoon of January 15, by the Chevy Chase School and Home Association for Elizabeth V. Brown School, is under the direction of Mrs. Bolivar J. Lloyd. Among those who will be hostesses are Mrs. Gerald P. Nye, Mrs. Burton K. Wheeler, Mrs. Clyde Kelly, Mrs. Charles E. Swanson, Mrs. Proctor Dougherty, Mrs. Marian Wade Doyle, Mrs. Ralph Given, Mrs. Harvey Sargent, Mrs. Arthur Adelman, Mrs. Truman Abbe, Mrs. B. S. Warren, and Mrs. Henry Fuller.

Mrs. Barney Liebman, of Alban Park Towers, has as her guest her sister, Mrs. M. Adler, of New York.

Miss Janet Richards at her weekly review this morning of "Outstanding Political Problems of the Day," will first touch upon the highlights of several difficult and dangerous situations in foreign affairs, including the uncertainties confronting the coming Naval Conference at London; present conditions in Russia and the reputed attitude of Mussolini toward Italians in the United States. The most interesting phases in home affairs, including trouble between the Farm Board and the grain men, will also be discussed. The talk will be given in the Masonic Temple, Thirteenth street and New York avenue, at 10:45 o'clock.

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

It will be difficult to find a better way to make an all-day dress in which you will always appear so utterly chic, and at same time give such wonderful service.

Style No. 8255 is designed in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inch bust. In the medium size, 4½ yards of 39-inch material with ¼ yard of 27-inch contrasting is sufficient.

Wool crepe in midnight blue with vestee of white crepe de chine, flecked tweed in bottle green, black suede finished broadcloth with eggshell faille crepe vest, dark dahlia-purple faille silk crepe, knitted wool jersey weave in yellow-beige and brown tones, feather-weight tweed in plum coloring in self-checked pattern and novelty printed silk crepe appropriate and chic.

Prince of Wales' Ship Is Buffeted by Gale

S. S. Kenilworth Castle, En Route to South Africa, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—The Prince of Wales, other passengers and the crew have been having a most uncomfortable time because of the buffeting the ship has had from the storm. Almost every one, including the prince, is remaining below decks. He spent today quietly because he had been inoculated recently against malaria.

The ship thus far has breasted the gale bravely and no damage has been noticed, although its arrival at Madeira will probably be late.

Porto Rico Marks Christmas Today

Roosevelt Gives Three Kings Day on Par With Yuletide.

San Juan, Porto Rico, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Gov. Theodore Roosevelt has ordered that tomorrow, Three Kings Day, be observed as a holiday on a par with Christmas. He has urged also that well-to-do parents take on themselves the responsibility of seeing that some poor children receive gifts from the Kings or Magi who for generations in Porto Rico have corresponded to the Northern Santa Claus.

In San Juan tomorrow the volunteer service workers of the Red Cross will distribute thousands of toys, most of them second hand and rebuilt.

The Porto Rican children place little baskets or boxes filled with grass in suitble places in their homes and put into them messages to the Wise Men from the East, suggesting what toys they want on the morning of Kings Day. Most children place both baskets and vessels of water so that the camels or horses on which the Magi ride may be refreshed while the three Kings are distributing their gifts.

Silver Years

By Gertrude S. Trowbridge

"After the Golden Years of Youth, Come Those of Fine Silver"

Wise men have always gone in search of a child; but they go to marvel over his lovely qualities and to imitate them, never expecting to regain their own youth by the contact.

Poor old Faust, as a symbol, was different; selling his soul to the devil for false physical youth that brought disaster to all about him. And so was Ponce de Leon, madly splashing through fever and reptile-infested swamps after a Fountain of Youth, which, of course, he never found. Modern men are equally crazy for the transformation; and beauty parlors do what they can for wrinkles; but, so far, Time laughs.

Yet, spiritually, there may be rebirth, and new happiness. We may become childlike in soul without becoming childish (babyish, trifling, silly, petty, or quarrelsome).

Carlyle said that the secret of genius is carrying the spirit of childhood into old age. Another asserted that great lives carry out the thought of youth into age. Just exactly what this spirit or thought is, few explain, although many recommend its cultivation. Bruce Barton calls it, "having no petty regard for what we may have said in the past; flexible, growing, easily bent but never broken, hoping, dreaming, trying, ready for any change."

If we have become too worldly, we are told that we must be born again and, when the disciples felt the stirrings of ambition and asked who should be greatest in the Kingdom, Jesus set a little child in their midst and said that, if they did not become equally humble, they couldn't even enter.

Children have other potent qualities which we all too often lose in world stress but which we may copy. Their simple faith in people; their short memory of injuries; their readiness to forget and forgive; their ready flow of laughter and uncalculating smiles; their love of simple things; their frankness and sinberity, which prevent morbid anticipations or regrets. All these lovely traits one may regain at any age.

Children penetrate exteriors of people directly to the heart and do not care what age, race, or color marks those they love. There would be no race problems if adults showed the same kind of fearless acceptance of all mankind.

... on the skis it's BALANCE!

... in a cigarette it's TASTE!

IT is a curious fact that the best-tasting cigarette is the one in which no single taste quality is too evident. Over-mildness, for example—or over-richness—shows lack of "balance" just as plainly as harshness or bitterness.

On this basis, test Chesterfield. Aroma, smoothness, satisfying goodness, flavor, mildness, all present—but none emphasized at the expense of others. The one goal is taste—better taste, balanced taste—

"TASTE above everything"

JAPAN'S MINIMUM.

The Japanese delegation to the naval conference has reached London well in advance of other delegations, and is apparently determined to nail down Japan's demand for a 70 per cent cruiser ratio before the conference begins. Former Premier Wakatsuki, leader of the delegation, has made a statement to the press in which he characterizes the demand for 70 per cent ratio as the irreducible minimum which Japan will accept.

In relation to the United States the demands of Japan have increased since the Japanese delegation made their visit of good will to Washington last month. According to Mr. Wakatsuki's latest statement, Japan will not be satisfied with a cruiser strength of 70 per cent of the cruiser strength of the United States if the British strength in cruisers exceeds that of America. Japan demands a 70 per cent ratio of Great Britain's cruiser strength, which is far greater than that of America, and British superiority is to be maintained until 1936 in any event.

Therefore Japan is really demanding something like 80 per cent of the cruiser strength of the United States. If this demand should be granted—and Japan insists that it shall be—the balance of naval power in the Pacific will be determined overwhelmingly in favor of Japan.

At the Washington conference of 1921-22 American naval experts reluctantly agreed to a 60 per cent Japanese ratio as a basis for assuring equality rather than superiority for either nation in the Pacific. America's agreement to dispense with fortifications and naval bases at strategic points in the Pacific was the quid pro quo for Japan's agreement to accept 60 per cent. The consensus of opinion in American naval circles is that the Japanese got a shade the better of the bargain, and that under the 60 per cent agreement the Japanese navy is superior to that of the United States in the Pacific.

The sacrifice which the United States made with regard to fortifications and naval bases is embodied in Article XIX of the five-power naval treaty signed at Washington. The first part of this article reads as follows:

> The United States, the British Empire and Japan agree that the status quo at the time of the signing of the present treaty, with regard to fortifications and naval bases, shall be maintained in their respective territories and possessions specified hereunder:
> (1) The insular possessions which the United States now holds or may hereafter acquire in the Pacific Ocean, except (a) those adjacent to the coast of the United States, Alaska and the Panama Canal Zone, not including the Aleutian Islands, and (b) the Hawaiian Islands.

America's right to strengthen fortifications and establish naval bases in the Philippines was surrendered as part of the price for Japan's 60 per cent ratio. It was assumed as a matter of course that the 60 per cent agreed upon for capital ships would apply to cruisers, and Japan fully recognized this at the Geneva conference of 1927, though the Japanese at Geneva sought to increase the ratio slightly over 60 per cent. But no demand as a 70 per cent cruiser ratio was even discussed at Geneva, for Japan was well aware of the fact that the American delegation would not have entertained the proposition.

By way of coping with Japan's present demand, it has been suggested that the United States and Great Britain, acting jointly, should ask for a revision of Article XIX of the Washington naval treaty. But it will be noted that the status quo established by Article XIX is part of a treaty which can not be abrogated without the consent of Japan until 1936. The Japanese expect joint Anglo-American pressure, and are therefore making their demand irrevocable in advance. They know that the joint Anglo-American policy will be to make concessions rather than face a failure of the conference. Since the conference can not succeed unless the other powers make concessions satisfactory to Japan, all that Japan need do is to stand pat.

MORE POLICE NECESSARY.

A correspondent of The Post suggests that if every member of the Police Department is to be made a prohibition enforcement officer the force should be doubled. He contends that the transformation of patrolmen into dry sleuths would take them from other work and thereby open the way for an increase of crime not connected with violation of the liquor law.

The Washington Police Department is undermanned and underpaid. It has been demoralized by irresponsible attacks from within and from Congress, and especially by the unproved charges of a former grand jury that was itself thoroughly discredited by a later jury. Patrolmen who have been doing honest and courageous service are disheartened by the wholesale denunciation of the entire force and by the failure of Congress to grant even a small increase of pay. A large proportion of the force must be assigned to Federal duties, leaving parts of the city insufficiently patrolled.

If Attorney General Mitchell's proposal to make the Police Department a part of the Federal prohibition enforcement machinery is approved, there should be a substantial increase in the force to preserve peace and order. The rapid growth of the city and suburbs severely taxes the slender resources of the Police Department. It can not take on the burden of prohibition enforcement without neglecting its primary police duty. Conditions peculiar to Washington call for constant and rigid surveillance of streets and alleys by the police. Even if dry enforcement duties are not imposed upon the already overworked and undermanned department, there should be an increase of at least 200 patrolmen and an increase of pay to insure the retention of capable officers.

THE CHACO CONTROVERSY.

The government of Uruguay is becoming impatient over the delay on the part of Paraguay in complying with the arrangement for the restoration of the Bolivian outpost of Vanguardia, upon which depends the relinquishment by Bolivia of the Paraguayan outpost of Boqueron. Repossession of their respective outposts was regarded by the conciliation commission as a necessary preliminary to arbitration proceedings which, it is hoped, will amicably dispose of the controversy over the Gran Chaco. Uruguay, acting as a mutual friend, stands ready to cooperate with the parties, but Paraguay has remained silent, and now Uruguay asks that a date be fixed for definite action.

The conciliation commission was made up of representatives of Colombia, Cuba, Mexico, the United States and Uruguay. The commission's official existence expired last September, according to the terms of the protocol. Representatives of these governments are continuing, however, to extend their good offices to the contending parties, in the hope of bringing about an arbitration agreement.

The question as to what zone shall be the subject of arbitration remains unsettled. The commission seemed to think that a solution might be found by submitting to an arbitration tribunal the question of defining the area to be submitted to arbitration, and then to fix the boundary within that area. But Bolivia, while accepting the tender of good offices and supporting the principle of arbitration, maintains that the zone to be submitted to arbitration shall be defined by the parties to the controversy and not by an arbitral tribunal. The reason for making this reservation is that no nation should be asked to refer to arbitration any undisputed national territory. In making this reservation on its own behalf Bolivia has conceded to Paraguay the right to reserve from arbitration any territory that is indisputably Paraguayan.

In the event that the interested parties should not reach an agreement as to the arbitrable area, Bolivia proposes that the northern boundary of the zone of arbitration shall be laid along the average line of the three lines agreed upon in the treaties of 1879, 1887 and 1894. While these treaties were not perfected, they represent the mutual agreement of the two governments as ascertained throughout long negotiations. The southern limit of the zone of arbitration could be laid along a line that would not bring into question any territory belonging to Paraguay.

In view of the fact that the conciliation commission could not escape the duty of identifying Paraguay as the aggressor in the boundary conflict that occurred a year ago, the obligation of Paraguay to proceed without delay in compliance with the commission's plan of reconciliation is quite apparent. On the fundamental question of delimitation of national boundaries it is evident that the two parties concerned should reach their own agreement concerning the area to be submitted to arbitration. Neither party can be expected to agree to arbitration proceedings covering territory that has never been in dispute.

NEW INDIAN POLICY.

"The broad problem," says President Hoover in commenting on the administration's program for rehabilitating the Indian Service, "is to better train the Indian youths to take care of themselves and their property. It is the only course by which we can ultimately discharge this problem from the Nation, and blend them as a self-supporting people into the Nation as a whole."

In pursuance of this policy C. J. Rhoads, Indian commissioner, has submitted to Congress recommendations for radical changes in the Government's Indian policy. The Senate Indian affairs committee is expected to bring the matter before the present session. If the program supported by President Hoover and Secretary Wilbur should be adopted it will mean a complete reversal of the policy heretofore pursued.

Commissioner Rhoads has asked Congress to establish a special Indian claims commission independent of the Interior Department. Since an Indian now has no right to take his case to court, but can only appeal to Congress for relief, the need for some judicial body of this kind is apparent. The Government is also asked to withdraw its paternalistic influence over the Indians by investing tribal councils with a greater degree of authority over local affairs. Restoration of the Indian custom is sought, under which title to land of a deceased tribesman reverts to the tribal estate and is subject to reallotment. Mr. Rhoads requests that the Government discontinue its practice of forcing the natives to pay for public works on the reservations, and asks that the program of irrigating Indian lands be placed under the Bureau of Reclamation.

Whether these proposed reforms will accomplish what the administration has in mind is a question. It is certain, however, that sweeping changes will be necessary to elevate the Indian from the status of a dependent ward of the Government to that of self-supporting citizen. Most students who have closely studied the subject are in sympathy with the policy of the present administration. It is to be hoped that Congress will make it possible to test the new policy.

The prohibition muddle seems to have come to a point where no one is sincere except Senator Norris and no one is efficient save Senator Borah.

THE MOTOR INDUSTRY

From the New York Herald Tribune.

With the opening of the thirtieth annual motor show here today the automobile industry comes to the end of the most amazing year thus far recorded in its brief but vivid history. For the twelve months just concluded production of motor vehicles here and in Canada crossed by a substantial margin the long-envisioned but never previously attained 5,000,000 mark. With December partly estimated, the total 1929 output of cars and trucks is placed at 5,700,000, or, roughly, 1,000,000 above the best previous mark, that of 1928. Motor vehicles, parts and accessories produced last year were valued wholesale at more than $5,000,000,000.

The outlook for the immediate future of the industry is obviously not so brilliant as its recent achievements have been. As a result of its overstimulation early last year, on the one hand, and reduced consumer demand owing to the recent stock market decline, on the other, it is faced with the problem of readjusting production to consumption in the immediate future. The most careful estimates of 1930's probable output of motor vehicles range between 4,500,000 and 4,800,000 units.

In view of the fact that the automobile industry, directly and indirectly, furnished employment in 1929 to approximately 4,500,000 breadwinners in the United States (approximateley 10 per cent of those gainfully employed); in view of the fact that it consumes about 18 per cent of the country's rolled steel, 85 per cent of our rubber imports, 75 per cent of our plate-glass output, 15 per cent of our copper production and 80 per cent of our gasoline production, and in view of the fact that, in the opinion of many economists, it has been the most essential single element in the rising tide of American prosperity since 1920—in view of these considerations there is good reason why persons everywhere should inquire whether this, our greatest industry, has come to the end of its period of expansion; whether the much-talked-of "saturation point" has finally been reached, or whether we may expect its growth to continue as it has, with cyclical interruptions, since 1922.

One of the country's leading statistical financial services has just completed, in collaboration with leaders of the industry—both producers and dealers—a study designed to reveal the automobile production "expectancy" over the next five years, and its findings are, on the whole, genuinely reassuring. They may be summarized briefly as follows:

First, if the rate of increase in production for the last eight years were to be maintained during the next five years the consuming public would be called upon to absorb 29,500,000 automobiles during this period. Such a consumptive power is regarded as somewhat beyond the probabilities, since the domestic automobile industry must tend more and more toward a replacement basis.

Second, while the rate of increase in production may be expected to decline, the total production for this five-year period will be greater than in any preceding half decade. The estimate of consumptive demand arrived at in this study is 26,000,000 cars, which would mean an average annual output of approximately 5,200,000 cars, or more than the industry has produced in any year in its history, with the single exception of 1929. These figures compare with 22,815,000 cars for the 1925-29 period, or an annual average of 4,563,000 cars.

Talk of having reached the "saturation point" is still, according to conservative estimates, premature. A long-term outlook which contemplates an increase of 14 per cent over the amazing production of the last five years can hardly be termed an unhappy one.

A RUSSIAN PRISON IDEA.

The Soviet government has introduced a system that will give our prison reform sentimentalists a lot of new ammunition, states the New Orleans Times-Picayune. This new note in criminology consists in granting Russian convicts two weeks' annual vacation leave to visit their homes. Only one class of prisoners is excluded from this legal courtesy: "Premeditated murder?" No chance! The only fellows who miss their summer trip are political offenders. The most heinous convicts in crimes of violence or embezzlement, forgery, counterfeiting, &c., will have their two weeks off without question, but the fellow convicted of saying mean things about the government or of doubting the wisdom of any of its actions must remain his or her full time in prison.

Free transportation each way with expenses is allowed the vacationists, this not as a further concession so much as an assurance that at the end of the visit the crooks will dutifully return on time and knock at the door of the hoosgow. What the penalty for overstaying one's leave is we have not heard, but it must be severe or prisons would be emptied once each year—except for politicos.

The Candidate Doesn't Give Cheap Cigars If the Party Is Paying Expenses.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

A CERTAIN rich man went on a journey and left his establishment in the care of his servant.

The servant, who enjoyed merry companions and delighted in making people happy, prepared a feast and invited his friends.

The guests ate expensive meats and pastries and drank rare wines, and when the merry-making was finished they said to their host: "You are the most generous of men."

Were they right?

Was it a generous nature that prompted the servant to make his friends happy at his master's expense?

Or was he doubly a rascal to accept their praise when he had been at no expense to win it?

Every community has its share of individuals, frequently in family lots, who win commendation as this servant did.

They entertain lavishly. They give expensive "favors" at their parties. They contribute liberally to all community enterprises. They lend or give without hesitation, and always insist on paying for the tickets, the drinks or the luncheon.

People say they are "generous to a fault." And when some critic complains that he can't collect his money from them, defenders explain in chorus: "They have nothing because they are so liberal. They would pay if they had it, but they are so big-hearted they can't keep anything."

Are such people generous in fact?

Is it an act of unselfishness to give away another man's property?

Robin Hood could afford to be generous to the poor. He gave them money stolen from the rich.

It isn't difficult to part with goods that cost you nothing. It is easy to lend small sums to indigent friends if the money is borrowed from others who will await its return in vain. The most miserly of men could enjoy feasting his acquaintances at the expense of the corner grocer.

The world gives too much thoughtless and unmerited praise to its "good fellows." It encourages them in the comforting belief that a generous sharing of the spoils makes theft a virtue.

The careless, open-hearted souls who never have anything because they are too liberal usually are so selfish they have no conception of the property rights of others.

Their generosity is like the patriotism of the orator who is willing to sacrifice your life for his country.

EFFICIENCY PLUS.

The efficiency engineer of a large Eastern concern has just received a verbal pat on the head from his board of directors for his ingenuity in saving the firm something like $300 a year, states the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. This genius ordered the paper-towel containers in the company's washrooms placed about fifteen inches higher on the wall. After washihg their hands the employes will be annoyed by water running down their sleeves when they reach for a towel unless they first shake off the surplus moisture. Thus the consumption of paper towels has been greatly reduced. In the great pursuit of efficiency this idea is almost perfect. It won't be 100 per cent, however, until the efficiency man figures out a way to make all those drops of water run an electric fan or another turbine or something.

ESTABLISHED BUSINESSES.

Although the United States may lay claim to having more industrial concerns than any other country, it certainly can not compete in length of life of manufacturing companies with the Old World. Any firm here which is 30 or 40 years old is considered unusually long established, and examples of longer life are few, says the Wall Street Journal.

In Germany, however, there are two hardware firms which made horseshoes for George Washington's Continental Army and have been in existence more than 200 years. There is a large chain manufacturing concern in Germany which has carried on under the same name for more than 400 years. But the granddaddy of them all is the copper producing business of Manfeld Kupfer, A. G., which has borne that title for about 700 years.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Structural Principles of the Atom Discovered—General Field Theory Reveals Nature of the Quantum Atomicity of Energy.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As a matter of interest to my scientific coworkers throughout the world and the public in general, I take advantage of the 1930 New Year greeting to announce the discovery of the structural principles of the electron, proton, and atom on December 12, 1928, and the complete development of the periodic table of elements, X-ray and optical systems, and radioactive series on the basis of structure only. The electromechanical principles involved result in an atomic structure, consisting of a nucleus and orbital electrons.

There are three definite neon structural groups made up of isotopes of hydrogen and helium and differing only in the K group, the L and M grpups being the same in the completed structural neon group. Two of these neon groups determine the subperiods, and their combinations in pairs determine the argon periods of 18. There are five argon periods, the fourth having 14 elements, of which 13 are rare earths similar to lantharum in valence, and lying between cerium and hafnium, while the fifth argon period has 32 elements and ends in the possible element whose atomic number is 100. In the fifth argon period, a change of structure takes place in mercury and is followed by all the radioactive elements whose eight series terminate in the eight known isotopes of mercury.

The scope of these principles will be realized by an examination of the 13 elementary problems in atomic physics given in the "introduction" to the text of my forthcoming treatise, covering the complete development of the atomic energy structures. It is thus established beyond a shadow of a doubt that Nature is uniform and consistent in all its operations and determinism is equally true of the microscopic and the macroscopic.

In order to encourage an understanding of the structural foundation of our electro-chemical-mechanical world, on or before the publication of the text, I shall place in trust the sum of $1,000 for a period of five years as a reward for the solution of the periodic table of the elements on the basis of any theory or structural principles which shall differ from the one in the text by as much as one electron or proton, or for the solution of the thirteen problems on any other basis not involving the same structural principles.

Torches and Fake Engine Alarms Made Smoke and Noise for Movies of Capitol Fire.

To the Editor of The Post: Sir—No American sensitive to symbolism could look upon the illuminated white dome of the Capitol during Friday night's fire without feeling that he had caught a vision of the inner spirit of his country, rising aloof, secure and tranquil above turbulent alarms and the smudgepots of politics.

It was an epitome of the American scene. First a gray mass of smoke, rising with ominous portent before the eyes of a few incredulous spectators, like the threat of war or the hazards of civil strife, a dread period of anxiety; then the excited rush to action, with trained defenders darting to their work and a gathering mass of humanity helpless to aid or hinder.

Slowly the scene began to change. Danger was over, but the semblance of danger increased. Flaring, smoking torches magnified the scene into one of artificial hazard and confusion. Not the smoke of the fire, but the calcium torches of the motion-picture brigade produced those drifting, curling columns of smudge that in a few days will thrill millions of people from one ocean to the other. Fire engines, whose menacing scream had been like a layer of sound in the atmosphere during the period of danger, screeched once more for the benefit of the "talkies." America of the street scene had taken possession of the Capitol fire.

But above the motion picture cameras, above the massed crowds, oblivious to the smoke of torches as it had been to the smoke of conflagration, still rose that white dome, massive, majestic, untainted, serene in its beauty—symbol of an America seldom seen and sometimes believed not to exist, an America more enduring and more worthy to endure than may be discovered except in periods of national crisis.

Congressmen Just as They Ever Were—Classic Utterance of Felix Walker, of Buncombe.

To the Editor of The Post: Sir—Now that Congress is about to resume its grind, I want to insist that the average congressman is not the Dumbell Dick that, to judge from their wisecracks, some people would have us think he is.

In my opinion the ability of today's legislators is about what it always was, possibly greater. The questions they have to deal with are now more complex and world-wide than those of the past. In those days a glib tongue was more potent than today; more effective as a substitute for brain work.

Also, big and little statesmen were subject to venomous, vituperative criticism in "the good old days." Consider the case of Daniel Webster, condemned by his Massachusetts constituency as with one voice, Because he dared to stand for tolerance and compromise in a national crisis.

It was Representative Felix Walker, as far back as about 1830, who, criticized for his narrowness of view, frankly declared that he was "talking for Buncombe"—his county in North Caroline. His compeers have been present in the halls of legislation in every generation. The term "bunkum," which he made famous, in use today, stands as sufficient refutation of the charge that our National Legislature is degenerating.

TANGLE TO DELAY ACCORD ON DEBTS

SANCTIONS ARE STUDIED

The Hague, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—The intricate muddle over reparations among Austria, Hungary, Bulgaria and their creditors today had upset the time schedule of the second session of The Hague reparations conference.

Private conversations between the interested parties yesterday and today, which were counted upon to bring about an agreement between Austria and her creditors, will not be finished in time for a report tomorrow, it was announced. Considerable progress was made toward wiping the slate clean of claims between them, but a formula which will preserve the creditors' rights against Hungary has not yet been found.

Private conversations went on actively between delegates of all interested nations. The German and French had another long talk last night, in the course of which sanctions were discussed. It was understood that the French were quite willing that this question be passed over in silence here, while the Germans were anxious to have an interpretation of the sanctions clause in the treaty of Versailles, as applying to the Young plan.

French and British to Meet.

The French and British will meet tomorrow at luncheon to talk over the political aspects of the conference. Their conversation is expected to include sanctions, concerning which the British thus far have showed little interest.

The powers will meet tomorrow to take stock of their progress, debate how the Eastern reparations settlement can be hastened and prepare for other work on the program.

Experts will continue work on German reparations problems, examining, along with other things, the bearing of the separate German-American accord on the application of the Young plan. The agreement, announced in Berlin yesterday, contains a clause whereby the American Government expressly declares it regards good will as the sole and sufficient guarantee of Germany's fulfillment of her obligations.

Germany's Interpretation of Clause.

German political circles interpreted the declaration as indicating the American Government's desire to dissociate itself from a policy of sanctions. The general feeling of the delegates is that this agreement in no way deranges the interests of other reparations creditors.

There is, however, a feeling in some delegations that the disjunction of American reparations from the others diminishes the guarantee of payments all around. On the other hand, it was pointed out that the United States, not having ratified the treaty of Versailles, could have no share in any action under the sanctions clause of the treaty to force Germany to pay.

Radio Medical Quacks Face Federal Survey

New York, Jan. 5 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Health Commissioner Shirley W. Wynne this week will call on the Federal Radio Commission, the Federal Trade Commission and the United States Public Health Service for a nation-wide survey of radio medical quacks, he announced today. This action follows conferences with broadcasters, medical authorities and business groups held Friday in the commissioner's offices.

"It was the consensus of our conference that censorship is undesirable and could not bring about the proper results," said Dr. Wynne. "It is also agreed that a nation-wide appeal to the radio broadcasting stations on the moral issue involved is the only method by which the problem can be solved."

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

WHOLESALE graft in prohibition enforcement is strongly suspected by some of the leading drys on Capitol Hill. They are beginning to wonder, for instance, why it is that so many enforcement officials, against whom charges are made, instead of being dismissed or prosecuted are merely transferred to some other assignment, usually at a considerable distance.

When Senator Borah charged that prohibition could not be enforced with the present personnel, he voiced the opinion of a good many leaders on the Hill, although Mr. Borah did not make any specific attack. Many dry leaders, in commenting on Mr. Borah's attack, have voiced the view that what is needed is a wholesale cleaning out of the whole enforcement branch of the Government, rather than a shake-up which merely transfers suspects from one area of activity to the other.

A great deal of information, correct or otherwise, has been trickling to senators and members of the House as to what is going on. Much of it is in the form of allegations of corruption. Incidentally, while Mr. Borah has not said so, the wish of many drys in Congress that the function of issuing alcohol permits should be transferred from the Treasury Department to the Department of Justice is in line with this suspicion.

It is interesting to note in this connection that Mr. Mellon has made it clear that he approved the change, although he was overruled. The Secretary of the Treasury has several times shown remarkable judgment in keeping his own skirts clean. Early in the Harding days he became frightened at the prospect of what might happen if Republican politicians should get their fingers into the business of tax income cases. He bucked so strongly that despite the eager desire of most of the Republican leaders in the Senate, and in spite of the fact that the President has just named an Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, whose function had been understood to be to clean out the Democratic ring then operating and install a Republican ring in its place, he forced his new assistant out.

MEANWHILE, naturally there is tremendous nervousness on every hand. Only the wets and those drys anxious to rehabilitate themselves with the anti-Smith Democrats in the South are taking any comfort out of it. And the wets have been so surprised at the size of the tempest which has been kicked up that they have not figured out how to take advantage of it.

It is really an inside dry row. The wets have practically nothing to do with it. The drys are by way of proving a part of the propaganda that the wets have been trying to put over right along. Naturally the drys are not going all the way. They are not going to admit that prohibition can not be enforced. They merely say that prohibition enforcement is very bad, and radical changes will have to be made.

But this is the first time that an attack has been made on the entire personnel of the prohibition forces, and this writer is assured by competent authorities that what has been said so far is just preliminary. There is going to be an explosion before it is all over.

* * * *

A VERY well informed senator compared the situation now rocking the enforcement personnel to its foundations to one of the bloody beer wars in Chicago. In the Chicago case, he pointed out, men are killed because one gang attempts to sell liquor in another gang's territory. In the present attack on the prohibition enforcement personnel the information is being supplied, and is expected in ever-increasing volume, by certain gentry who are being "squeezed" out of business because they can not make the proper contacts with enforcement officials.

Meanwhile there is grave apprehension over the huge army now estimated at 10,000 men—which is to be placed on the Canadian border. The State Department is worried over the possible consequences, especially of placing the army right up against the border instead of a few miles back, where the present patrol operates. Shooting across the border and the killing of Canadians, with distressing consequences from a diplomatic standpoint, loom in the diplomatic minds of Secretary Stimson's assistants.

But this explosion on prohibition graft is coming, and will be worth many a headline before it is over.

SNOW GUARDS FATE OF SEARCHING PLANE

SOVIET PLANS RUSHED

Fairbanks, Alaska, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—The dense fog and snow over the region west of Nulato, which yesterday halted the flight to Nome of two Fairchild planes brought here from Seattle to engage in the search for Pilot Carl Ben Eielson and his mechanic, Earl Borland, missing since November 9, today guarded the fate of the Canadian aviator, Capt. Pat Reid, chief pilot of the expedition, and his two passengers.

Reid and Mat Niemenen, Alaskan aviator, took off yesterday morning under favorable conditions en route to Nome but encountered heavy weather as they came within five miles of Norton Bay, directly west of Nulato.

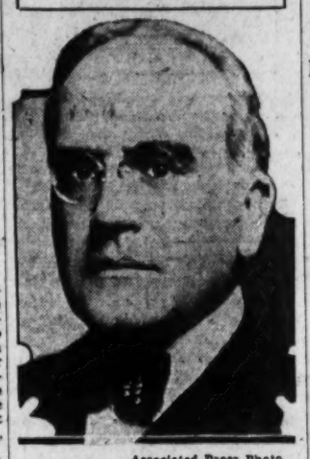

The planes became separated in the fog and snow. Niemenen, with Maj. H. O. Deckard, in charge of the expedition for the aviation corporation, and Mechanic Sam MacAuley as passengers, returned to Nulato, about 300 miles west of Fairbanks, and Reid's plane was believed down somewhere on the Bering seacoast. William Hughes and Jim Hutchinson, mechanics, accompanied Reid.

As the plane was well provided with provisions and the men were equipped with Arctic clothing and in addition carried an alcohol stove, little fear was felt for their safety. Plans were under way to send out planes to search the district where Reid was last seen as soon as weather conditions permit.

Moscow, U. S. S. R., Jan. 5 (A.P.). The Soviet government, determined to leave nothing undone to rescue Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, who have now been missing almost two months, today dispatched a special airplane and other equipment for search in the north Pacific by trans-Siberian express to Khabarovsk, Siberia.

Pilots Gromov and Spirrin will leave here on Wednesday by an express train for the Siberian city, where they will begin their air expedition in search of the American aviators.

Head of Troubled Bank Is Suicide

President Shoots Himself When Directors Close Institution.

Donnellson, Ill., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Charles O. Mansfield, 70, president of the State Bank of Donnellson, which was closed Saturday by the board of directors, shot and killed himself in his home here this morning.

The banker's body was found in a sitting position in the basement of his home by a son, Paul, who rushed downstairs when he heard a shot fired at 9:45 a. m. today. A pistol was found near the body.

A coroner's verdict later today was that Mansfield had shot and killed himself with suicidal intent. Dr. A. B. Carey, a witness, testified that Mansfield had been extremely nervous for several days and had remarked that he would be "better off out of the picture" since he had $25,000 life insurance.

The Bank of Donnellson, organized by Mansfield in 1903, was closed by order of the board of directors because of frozen assets, due to loans on farm lands. Two State bank examiners are in charge of the institution, which was capitalized at $30,000 and had a surplus of $1,500 with deposits exceeding $100,000.

Pershing Uninterested In Seeking Senate Seat

Chicago, Jan. 5 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Gen. John J. Pershing was not interested today in the plan of his Lincoln, Nebr., friends to "draft" him as Republican candidate for senator against Senator Norris.

"I hope we have real winter weather. It's good for health and the farmer," he observed. "I haven't given that subject (the senatorship) any thought." The general was accompanied by his son, Warren, and left for Washington.

Attack Seen in Death Of Woman Missionary

Naipobi, British East Africa, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Mrs. Hilda Stumpf, age 63, an American missionary in Kenya colony for 22 years, was found dead in her lonely cottage on the mission estate at Kujabe today.

Death apparently was due to suffocation, although there was evidence she had been attacked. Police began searching nearby villages. Mrs. Stumpf was a member of the African Inland Mission of America.

Insull Utility Investments, Inc.

Ten-Year 6% Gold Debentures, Series B
(WITH CONVERSION AND STOCK PURCHASE WARRANTS)

Due January 1, 1940

Price 99½ and Interest, Yielding 6.07%

Business: Insull Utility Investments, Inc., was organized on December 27, 1928, to carry on an investment business and to acquire, hold, sell and underwrite securities of all kinds. It now owns, among other securities, substantial blocks of stock of Commonwealth Edison Company, The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company, Middle West Utilities Company and subsidiaries, Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, and the entire capital stock of its subsidiary, Insull, Son & Co., Inc. The value of the Company's assets, including securities now owned and to be acquired under existing contracts valued at market prices as of the date of this letter, is in excess of $163,900,000.

Earnings: The consolidated earnings of the Company and its wholly owned subsidiary from all sources applicable to the interest charges for the calendar year 1929 with the month of December partly estimated, amounted to $12,227,232.85 as against which the annual interest requirements on all Debentures to be presently outstanding will be $3,723,450. These figures are not necessarily a true reflection of the earnings of the Company inasmuch as they do not include income on all the securities that will be owned upon the completion of this financing nor on approximately $19,500,000 of free cash that will be in the Treasury. On the other hand, they do include an unusually large sum received during the year, representing proceeds of the sale of stock rights, which, while recurring, may not always realize the same amount. The estimate for 1930 indicates net earnings of at least $13,450,000 available for interest, which may be considered as a more accurate reflection of the present earning capacity of the Company. This latter figure is based upon proceeds of the sale of rights on an average of the past five years and from the receipt of stock dividends taken at the present market.

Purpose of Issue: The proceeds of this financing will furnish sufficient funds to pay off all current indebtedness and acquire all securities now contracted for, and will further provide the Company with a substantial cash sum.

Conversion and Stock Purchase Warrants: Each $1,000 Debenture will carry a non-detachable warrant whereby the Debenture may be surrendered at its principal amount in exchange for Common Stock of the Company at the following prices per share: During the calendar year 1930 at $65; during 1931 at $72.50; during 1932 at $87.50; during 1933 at $105; and during 1934 at $125. Each such warrant will also provide that in case the Debenture to which it is attached is so surrendered in exchange for Common Stock during the year 1931 the holder thereof may simultaneously purchase ten additional shares of Common Stock at $62.50; if so surrendered during 1932 ten additional shares of Common Stock at $77.50; if so surrendered during 1933 ten additional shares of Common Stock at $95, and if so surrendered during 1934 ten additional shares of Common Stock at $115. Bearer stock scrip will be issued for fractional shares and cash adjustments will be made for interest accrued on the Debenture to the date of any such exchange. In addition, each $1,000 Debenture will carry a non-detachable warrant giving the holder of the Debenture the unconditional right to purchase ten shares of Common Stock during the year 1930 at $65 per share. This latter warrant will be detachable in the event the Debenture is redeemed prior to its exercise. In case the Company subdivides its outstanding shares of Common Stock into a greater number of shares, then the number of shares deliverable on the exercise thereafter of each warrant shall be proportionately increased without requiring any payment by the warrant holder in addition to the aggregate purchase price specified in the warrants.

Common Stock Dividends: The Company has already declared a 6% dividend on the Common Stock out of 1929 earnings payable in Common Stock in quarterly installments during 1930. In addition the Company has announced its intention to declare dividends of 6% in Common Stock during 1930 out of earnings for that year of which 4½% if declared will be paid in 1930.

Bothered With Backache?

It May Warn of Disordered Kidneys.

DOES every day find you lame and stiff—bothered with nagging backache—feeling listless and depressed? Are the kidney excretions too frequent, scanty or burning?

To promote normal kidney action and assist your kidneys in cleansing your blood of poisonous wastes, use Doan's Pills. Users everywhere endorse Doan's.

50,000 Users Endorse Doan's:

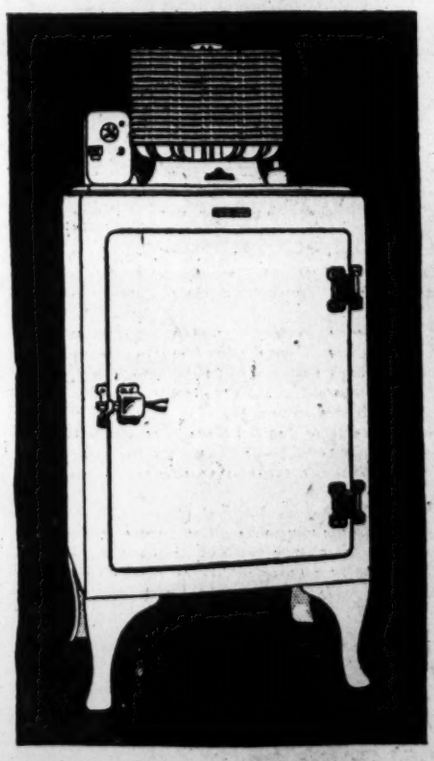

E. E. Tracy, 21 High Street, Waterbury, Vt., says: "My back was lame and there was a constant soreness over my kidneys. When I stooped, sharp pains went through the small of my back and hurt every move I made. My kidneys acted irregularly and my rest was broken at night. Doan's Pills proved their worth to me. One box relieved me."

It costs less to own
a General Electric Refrigerator

It consumes less current and requires less attention . . . in over three years no owner has spent one cent for repairs or service.

A GENERAL ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR costs comparatively little to buy in the first place. Not nearly as much as you would expect.

Then, too, it costs surprisingly little to operate . . . only a few pennies a day. It uses less current than any other refrigerator because the mechanism is all on top.

You know that any mechanical refrigerator generates heat in the process of cooling the cabinet. The General Electric Refrigerator dissipates this heat above the cabinet instead of underneath. That requires less current.

Another thing you'll like about it is that it soon pays for itself through savings effected in ice bills, and in foods ordinarily wasted.

In over three years, not a single owner has paid one cent for service. The first cost has been the last cost. That amazing record is your assurance that a General Electric Refrigerator is the most inexpensive one you can own.

Our conveniently spaced terms make it easy for you to own a General Electric. Come in today and let us demonstrate its many superior advantages.

AWARDS ARE MADE IN RACE RELATIONS

OTHERS ARE HONORED

The biennial award in race relations, consisting of a gold medal and $1,000, was granted yesterday by the Harmon Foundation of New York to Robert Russa Moton, principal of Tuskegee Institute, the first colored man to receive the distinction, according to an announcement by the Federal Council of Churches. Dr. Moton, a native of Virginia, was educated at Hampton Institute, where he became commandant and vice president, remaining there until he succeeded Booker T. Washington at Tuskegee in 1916.

While at Hampton he founded the Virginia Negro Organization Society, and was one of the leaders in the formation of the Commission on Interracial Cooperation of the South. Since 1922 he has been chairman of the Jeannes fund concerned with Negro rural education. He has also been influential in interracial work of the Young Men's Christian Association. Other awards were made in business organization, fine arts, music, literature, religious service, science and education, including nine gold medals, seven bronze medals and money of a total of $4,900.

Another Virginian Honored.

Another Virginian to receive a bronze award in education was Janie Porter Barrett, for unique work with delinquent Negro girls at the Virginia Industrial School, of which she is superintendent, at Peak's Turnout. This school was started by the Virginia Federation of Colored Women's Clubs and is the first of its kind in the United States to receive State support. Mrs. Barrett also was educated at Hampton.

Harry Lawrence Freeman, of New York, a native Washingtonian, was granted a gold medal and $400, along with Harry Thacker Burleigh, in the field of music. Burleigh is musical editor for Ricordi, a lecturer on Negro music and soloist at St. George's Church. Freeman is the composer of the first Negro grand opera, which was performed in Denver, Cleveland, Chicago and other places by a company which he organized. He studied under Johann Beck, conductor and founder of the Cleveland Symphony, and founded the Freeman School of Music in New York.

Other Recipients of Awards.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

TONIGHT is the night, the National the theater, William Gillette the actor, and "Sherlock Holmes" the play. For the first time in y'ars and y'ars, Mr. Stephen E. Cochran, manager, has been overwhelmed with trouble—trying to take care of the elite. Only so many seats in the theater, some of the most distinguished people in the Nation's Capital will be forced to do as the old song suggested, "Go 'Way Back and Sit Down!"

* * * *

THIS will be really a return to the days of the old theater—when there was a certain excitement about a first night, a star and a play. In the hurly-burly of modern life, some of that old leisure disappeared; some of the glory of the theater vanished; but it promises to return this week, with the revival of a celebrated old play, the creator of the character in fine fettle. Editorials have been written about this event in the theater and probably more enthusiasm stirred up than for any like occurrence in the present century.

* * * *

WHILE "Sherlock Holmes" stalks the stage of the National, across the street at Poli's the opera lovers will turn out en masse. There the German Opera Company takes to the footlights in a presentation of "Die Walkure," one of the ring operas, so called. High hats, therefore, opera cloaks, and beautiful ladies in furs and furbelows will grace the downtown sector. 'Twill be, as the old-time journalists were wont to say, "A gala night on the Rialto." Even the carriage starters, with no carriages to start, will have their pants pressed.

* * * *

GUESS what is happening in Baltimore? No less than a revival of Gilbert and Sullivan's ever delightful "H. M. S. Pinafore." Yessir, Lonard B. McLaughlin, manager of the Maryland, is all enthusiastic over the popularity achieved by the Play-Arts-Guild, a Monumental City organization devoted to the perpetuation of such classics as "Patience," "Iolanthe," "The Princess Ida," "The Mikado," and other Savoy operas. Since Winthrop Ames took his great company on the road some two seasons ago there has been no effort—aside from the Baltimore offerings—to present Gilbert and Sullivan operas in this country. There is a chance, but only an outside one—as they say at the race track—that Washington may have a glimpse of the Play-Arts-Guild in their revivals. On account of the bookings, they couldn't be heard here until after the Easter holidays. Baltimore gets the break, in this instance.

WHEN the Theater Guild presented "Ned McCobb's Daughter," "John Ferguson" and "The Doctor's Dilemma" here some time ago at Poli's, one of the brilliant young actresses engaged in those performances was Miss Peg Entwhistle. Peg of the wild hair they call her in the theater. She now comes to town playing the leading woman's role in "Sherlock Holmes," with William Gillette. In her early youth she has already distinguished herself in theatricals.

* * * *

SINCE attention has been called to it, this is probably the place to correct an error in my Sunday column in The Post—"Footlights and Shadows:" It said there, speaking of the great revival of "Sherlock Holmes" by William Gillette, that "such events come, alas, only too often." As they say in the billiard parlors, that is reversed English.

GAYETY

For the last three weeks Jimmie Lake, manager of the Gayety Theater, has entertained his patrons with three corking shows. Now he comes back this week and hands them "Oriental Girls," one of the Mutual Circuit's best bets.

After viewing 25 scenes of this production, which has the atmosphere of the Orient, one can readily appreciate the splendid work put forth by members of the cast, led by Chubby Drisdale and Jack La Mont.

"Smiling" Chubby Drisdale, featured woman, works her way slowly but successfully into the hearts of those present, and before the fall of the curtain has them "yelling for more," as the saying goes. Miss Drisdale, appearing in many scenes, is best in her musical number, "Pretty Faces."

Jack La Mont, comic, supplies the necessary humor. Frank O'Rouke is the singing straight man. The entire cast singing several old-time songs is the brightest spot of the performance.

A chorus of young, good-looking and peppy girls deserves much praise. Their drilling through the Wooden Soldier number, led by a pretty brunette lassie, won favor.

Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons hold a treat for lady patrons of the Gayety. Manager Lake announces that valuable articles will be distributed at these special matinees.

AIR MAIL POUNDAGE IS DOUBLED IN YEAR

MANY NEW LANES ADDED

Chicago, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Approximately 7,000,000 pounds of air mail were flown over the 25 domestic air routes in 1929, according to a report issued today by the American Air Transport Association. The statement pointed out this represented a gain of nearly 100 per cent over 1928, when but 3,542,079 pounds were carried.

"While the 14-387-mile length of air mail airways remained about unchanged during last year," the report read in part, "the pilots flew 15,695,000 miles, or an average of 43,000 miles a day. In 1928, 7,846,296 miles were flown.

"The association attributes the huge increase in poundage and miles flown to the addition of lighting equipment on many routes.

New Routes Opened.

"A total of 12,295 airway miles now connect the United States with Mexico and Central and South America. During last year routes were opened linking Miami and Havana; Miami and Cristobal and Paramaribo; Miami and San Juan and Port of Spain; Miami and Nassau; Brownsville, Tex., and Mexico City and Guatemala City, and Santiago, Chile, and Buenos Aires, Argentine and Montevideo.

"Within a comparatively short time under authority expected to be granted by the Postoffice Department the air mail service will be extended to completely cover South America. With all routes being operated by American companies.

Chicago Still Center.

"Chicago continues to serve as the center of the domestic air mail network. The eastern and western halves of the transcontinental airway meet there and 64 per cent of all air mail is cleared through the Chicago postoffice. Seven companies operate eight routes, converging at Chicago on eighteen daily schedules.

"Extensive increases in routes and cities served by air mail will be made in 1930. A new Southern transcontinental airways will be opened between Los Angeles and Atlanta, serving, among other cities, El Paso, Fort Worth, Dallas, Shreveport, Jackson and Birmingham. New York and St. Louis will be given direct air mail service on a route operated via Pittsburgh and other Middle-Western cities. Another route will operate with Louisville as a northern terminal and Fort Worth as the southernmost stop."

Juvenile Homes To Be Surveyed

Fund of $33,000 Granted by Rockefeller Group for Investigation.

New York, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Charles L. Chute, general secretary of the National Probation Association, today announced a grant of $33,000 by the bureau of social hygiene of the Rockefeller Foundation for a two-year study of juvenile detention in the United States.

"Detention homes today," Mr. Chute said, "are being used wrongly for correctional purposes and for the care of children who should be at home. It is our desire to see what method of care is suited to the individual child."

Harrison A. Dobbs, associate professor of social economy at the University of Chicago, who will direct the study, was formerly superintendent of the Cook County, Ill., Juvenile Detention Home. He has also served as State psychologist for the Illinois Institute for Juvenile Research.

New Combat Plane Flies 200-Mile-an-Hour Clip

London, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—The Royal Air Force has tested successfully a new Fairey Rolls-Royce fighting airplane, which was stated to be capable of a flying speed of more than 200 miles an hour with full military load. The plane has been successfully landed and taken off from the decks of battleships.

YOUTH KILLS FATHER AND SHOOTS MOTHER

University Freshman Draws Pistol After Ordering Them to Pray.

DERANGED, POLICE THINK

St. Louis, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—After getting his parents out of bed early today to ask them if they believed in God and then ordering them to pray, Alan R. Schumm, 17-year-old freshman at the University of Illinois, drew a revolver, shot his father to death, and wounded his mother.

He then surrendered to police and admitted the shooting, but offered no explanation. Police, who placed the youth under guard in an observation ward at City Hospital, expressed belief he was temporarily mentally deranged because of overabsorption in his studies.

The father, William Schumm, 42, office manager for a local law firm, was shot once in the right chest. The mother was wounded twice in the hip.

Just Returned From Party.

Young Schumm, who was home for the holidays, returned to the family flat at 2 a. m. from a party at the home of a girl friend, Miss Elsa Winkler, 16. Instead of going directly to bed, he sat in the living room and read a while, according to his mother, who said that he read extensively and recently had been acting queerly. She declared he had not been drinking.

Finally, he summoned his parents, who were in bed, and as they came into the living room he asked them if they believed in God.

"Certainly," replied the father, "I'm a Mason; naturally I believe there is a Supreme Being."

"Then pray," commanded the youth. The parents appeared puzzled by this strange order, but did not comply, and young Schumm drew a pistol and began shooting.

Father Falls Dead.

His mother ran into the kitchen, followed by the son, who pressed the pistol against her as she sought shelter in a closet. Mrs. Schumm wrested the weapon from the boy and pulled the trigger three times to make sure the chambers were empty, she said, as she feared the boy would turn the weapon upon himself.

She then threw the revolver under the kitchen range and ran upstairs to the apartment of a neighbor, where she discovered she had been wounded twice. She was removed to a hospital.

Schumm was a student in the Liberal Arts and Science School. His brother, Arthur, is a senior at the same university. The brother was visiting in Decatur, Ill., at the time of the shooting.

Work Before Pleasure Shown in Car Output

Commerce Department reports from 148 automobile manufacturers in the United States show that factory sales of new trucks continued higher in 1929 than in 1928, while figures for the passenger car output declined.

Lindbergh Ready To Try New Plane

Colonel and Wife Reach Los Angeles After Trip Across Country.

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived late today at the Grand Central Air Terminal, Glendale, from Kingman, Ariz., on the last stage of a leisurely transcontinental flight. Col. Lindbergh is making an inspection tour of transcontinental air transport routes and air fields.

Asked if he had come to Los Angeles to take delivery of a specially designed low wing monoplane built for him here, Col. Lindberg replied that he was anxious to examine the new ship.

As the couple entered an automobile to leave the airport a sound-news reel cameraman photographed Mrs. Lindbergh talking to Lieut. D. W. Tomlinson, former Navy "sea hawk" and vice president of Maddux Air Lines. She was heard to say that it had been "extremely cold" flying over the Arizona mountains in their cockpit plane. Observing the cameraman, Lindbergh turned and said "Please don't take any more pictures."

Lindbergh's new and secretly built monoplane has been termed in aviation circles here "the flying gas tank" because of its 450-gallon fuel tanks. The plane is reputed to have a speed of more than 200 miles an hour. It has been ready for delivery for several weeks.

On the Rules of Traffic

By WILLIAM ULLMAN

For reasons of safety, the traffic code stipulates that the passengers of an automobile must ride inside the vehicle. This regulation prohibits standing on the running board and makes such a practice a violation of the law.

Serious accidents have resulted for persons disregarding such a safety measure. As in the case of many other regulations, this one is designed for the protection of all users of the highways.

Example: A driver passes a friend walking along the roadway in an outlying suburban section of the District and offers to ride him on to his home a quarter of a mile away. Because of the short distance, the man stands on the running board instead of taking a seat inside the car. He has violated a specific provision in the traffic code.

$73 in Jewelry Taken From Window.

Nine watches, six rings and a cigarette case, with a total value of $73, were stolen from the jewelry store of Jacob Slavin at 1104 Fourteenth street northwest when the plate glass window was broken by a stone between Saturday midnight and 6 o'clock yesterday morning, according to the man's report to Second Precinct police.

Now Millions More Stop "Dosing" Colds

Better External Treatment Wins New Users All Over the World

Every year since the introduction of Vicks VapoRub, more and more people have given up the old-fashioned way of "dosing" colds and have turned to the modern method of treating them externally. Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

Best for Children's Colds

From the very first Vicks has been appreciated, especially by mothers of young children, because it checks colds without risk of upsetting delicate stomachs as "dosing" is so apt to do.

Just rubbed on, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice or plaster, "drawing out" tightness and soreness; at the same time, it gives off medicated vapors which are inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages.

Demand Increases Each Year

As more and more people appreciate this better method of treating colds, the demand for Vicks increases year after year. Only a short time ago the famous slogan, "Over 17 Million Jars Used Yearly," was raised to "21 Million" to keep step with this demand. These figures, too, have been outgrown, as there are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly"—a jar for every family in the United States.

IS X your PARTNER or COMPETITOR?

X . . . symbol of the ungovernable external forces in business . . . which, when utilized, bring success . . . opposed, enforce failure.

LACQUER there was in old Cathay. Marco Polo carried tales of it home. The Ming dynasty knew it well . . . ate its imperial rice and drank its tea from little tables colored the red of a mandarin's coat, the blue of a turquois ring or the satin black of a starless night.

But in America there was only paint . . . until . . . a few years ago . . . suddenly . . . an American equivalent of the Chinese finish appeared, almost miraculously, from the test tubes and retorts of an industrial chemist.

It was new. It was an incalculable X-force in the paint industry. For it dried in a few minutes. And, though the paint manufacturers had never thought of that before, a quick-drying finish was what the nation had been waiting for.

Consternation . . . hurried consultations with chemists . . . changes of equipment and advertising and sales followed one another in kaleidoscopic succession in the trade. Look about you today for the result . . . of the working of an X-force.

But that is the illustration of only a single X-force. Today in your own business other X-forces are building new markets, wiping out old. They are evolving cheaper production methods, writing obsolescence against costly machines. They are weaving webs of legal restriction and breaking new trails in financial, manufacturing and merchandising practice. So powerful are these external forces that business has organized chambers of commerce and trade associations to cope with them through co-operation.

Helping intelligent men to adjust their plans to the shift and flux of X-forces in modern business is the task which Nation's Business performs. There is no agency better equipped to offer that service than this magazine, which represents the United States Chamber of Commerce . . . the largest business organization in the world.

And Nation's Business does more than record important developments . . . it points out their bearing on your business. It shows you how to profit from those that favor you . . . how to surmount those that threaten.

Your newsstand carries Nation's Business, 25 cents a copy . . . or you can have it come to your office or home every month . . . $7.50 for three years.

Radio Girl Is Feature From WRC

Miss Vaughn de Leath to Celebrate Tenth Year After First Broadcast Performance; Varied Music Colors Program.

Musical programs will feature WRC's offerings after 8 o'clock tonight, at which hour, on the eve of the tenth anniversary of her first broadcast performance, Vaughn de Leath, the "original radio girl," will sing several popular numbers in the Voice of Firestone presentation. Among Miss de Leath's selections are "Love Me," "My Fate Is In Your Hands" and "Ma Curly Headed Baby." Franklyn Baur, tenor, will also be heard.

The oldest known folk song of Russia is the main theme of the "Andante Cantabile" from Tschaikowsky's "String Quartet, Opus 11," which will be a headlight in the program to be presented by the A. & P. Gypsies at 8:30 o'clock. The program follows:

"Los Banderilleros," "Who Can Tell?", "When You're Away," "Nena," "Un Sonnet d'Amour," "Tambourin Chinois," "Spanish Dance," "Homing," medley of old songs, "To a Wild Rose," and "Slavonic Dance."

Koutzenoff and his Russians will be featured in the program at 9:30 o'clock, followed by the Anglo-Persians' visit to Ireland and England on their flight of fancy and music at 10 o'clock.

The famous "Prelude in C Sharp Minor," with which Rachmaninoff gained his renown in America, in an arrangement for voices preserving its powerful harmonies and somber atmosphere, will be sung by the Salon Singers as a part of their program at 10:30 o'clock.

China, the Reserve Officers' Training Corps and the intelligence quotient of radio audiences are the outstanding topics to be considered by leading authorities who will speak during the Government Club meeting from 2 to 4 o'clock this afternoon on WRC's wave length.

"How much does the radio audience want to think?" is the question which will be answered by H. Robinson Shipherd, Ph. D., member of the advisory committee on education by radio, appointed by the Secretary of the Interior. Dr. Shipherd will give conclusions based on the committee's research.

An inside analysis of "Present Conditions in China" will be made by Dr. Chao-Chu Wu, minister plenipotentiary of the Nanking governmet, Chinese delegation, Washington. Mrs. George E. Ownes, president of the club, will preside.

"Ten Years of the League of Nations" will be discussed by James G. McDonald, president of the Foreign Policy Association, at 7:15 o'clock from WRC during the period known as "The World Today."

Another talk will be made by William Hard from WRC's studios at 7:45 o'clock, when he discusses what is Back of the News in Washington."

A new movie broadcast originating in Los Angeles to be known as "Voices From Filmland," will be inaugurated by the Columbia Broadcasting System at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Appearing in the first program will be Joan Crawford and Douglas Fairbanks, jr., Benny Rubin and Jiff "Ukelele Ike" Edwards. Bits from forthcoming talking pictures, songs and chatter of the film world will be heard, together with music by Earl Burnett and his Biltmore Orchestra. The entertainers will appear before the microphones of Station KHJ, Los Angeles. WCAU is probably the best bet for local listeners, with WABC, New York City, the key station.

Two orchestras, the Cathedral choir, a male chorus, a quartet, a trio, Helen Oelheim, contralto, and John Barclay, barytone, make up the "Voice of Columbia" program at 10:30 o'clock, through Station WMAL. "Evening in Paris," the Couriers, and Henry-George presentation are among the other offerings.

"Breakfast Brevities" from The Washington Post will be broadcast at 8:15 o'clock through Station WOL. The Pure Food Law and the Housewife" is the subject which Peggy Clarke will discuss at 10 o'clock this morning. Luncheon music, followed by Paul D. Gable, organist, will be broadcast at noon.

Robert Service's "Spell of the Yukon" will be read by Helen Webb Zeller at 6:20 o'clock from WOL. Elsie Marie Lang, soprano, will be presented at 6:30 o'clock.

The Anglo-Persians back on WRC after a long absence, and to be heard again tonight, are more heavily loaded down with advertising than when he used to have them. Names of selections played are not announced. The orchestra is good, as always.

An R-K-O observation—

By ROBERT D. HEINL

IF anybody thinks this is not the land of opportunity and that for a youngster the going is not as good as it ever was, let him witness the rise of Gen. James G. Harbord, just elected chairman of the Radio Corporation of America, succeeding Owen D. Young, and David Sarnoff, president of the R. C. A., succeeding Gen. Harbord. The last named, who later became Pershing's chief of staff in France, began as a private in the Army. Twenty years ago, Sarnoff, a Russian immigrant, was a messenger boy on the streets of New York, and later a wireless operator who sat continuously at his key for 72 hours at the time of the sinking of the Titanic, until the entire list of survivors had been received.

Gen. Harbord's most brilliant exploits came while he was in command of the Marine Brigade at Verdun and Belleau Wood and the Second Division in the Soissons offensive in 1918. When the Radio Corporation was organized the year following the war, Gen. Charles G. Dawes, now Ambassador to Great Britain, who through Gen. Pershing had become intimately acquainted with Gen. Harbord in France, is said to have proposed to Owen D. Young that Harbord be induced to retire from the Army to become head of the new organization. Young, president of the General Electric, and an intimate friend of Dawes, acted upon the suggestion.

Mr. Young is also understood to be a great admirer of David Sarnoff. One of the theories in Young's stepping out as chairman, aside from his finding the chairmanship of the General Electric, of which the Radio Corporation is a subsidiary, a man's size job, is that he was pretty well satisfied with the way things were going and brought about the elevation of Gen. Harbord and Mr. Sarnoff in recognition of the work they have done.

It is also said the move is in keeping with recent policies whereby the General Electric and the Westinghouse will turn over their research and manufacturing activities in the radio and amusement field to the new subsidiaries of the Radio Corporation. The interests of the holding companies are becoming so vast and so varied that it is apparently necessary to decentralize them for a more efficient handling.

From now on Mr. Young will sit on the RCA side lines as an unofficial observer. Political experts in Washington see in the shift a move on the part of Mr. Young to shake loose some of his business encumbrances to be in a better position to be a candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1932.

THE inside story on the big splash Columbia made in announcing that it would broadcast the naval parley from London is that the National Broadcasting Company really was the one that conceived the idea. In fact, NBC had all its plans made as far back as last September, and had decided upon Bill Hard to do the broadcasting.

However, according to the story, Columbia got wind of the undertaking and, as has been the case on several previous occasions, beat the NBC to it. Frederick William Wile will do the job for Columbia.

THE location of the main studio of Station WJSV has been called into question and the Radio Commission has issued a subpena—the first ever used by the commission—to compel J. S. Vance, president of the Independent Publishing Co., to attend a hearing on January 16 and reveal whether the broadcasting headquarters is at Mount Vernon Hills, Va., or in Washington.

The question was raised by Wilbur M. Havens, president of Havens & Martin, Inc., operator of Station WMBG, Richmond, Va. The Richmond company is trying to prove that WJSV is a Washington rather than a Virginia station and that consequently its channel should not be charged against the latter State. The radio act specifies that a station shall be considered in the zone in which its main studio is located. Just now the frequency is charged to Virginia.

If WJSV, with its 10,000 watts power, is thrown back into the District, which already is over its broadcasting quota, all sorts of complications are likely to arise.

FOR the talkies Warner Bros. have sugared Erno Rapee, musical conductor and composer, away from Roxy. Since Rapee will have to go to the Coast, he will no longer direct the Roxy musical broadcasts and doubtless also will be obliged to give up direction of the Mobiloil hour.

So rapidly are plans going ahead in the international exchange of programs that Germany expects soon to send programs to this country twice a week.

A broadcaster who uses such epithets as "damn" and "hell" over the air frequently has hit upon a subterfuge for saying other more objectionable words by spelling the words backward and then requesting the listeners to decipher them.

"AMOS 'N' ANDY" are proving so popular in Washington that groups of people regularly gather before loud speakers in front of radio and other shops on the street at 7 p. m. to hear them. Also in clubs and hotel lobbies.

"CAPRICORN."

IF JANUARY 6 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3:20 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to noon, and from 5 p. m. to 6:15 p. m.

The influences for this date are decidedly unfavorable and care should be taken not to set evil consequences afoot. Any gains other than those achieved through your own efforts will be wasted and useless ones.

A child born on this January 6 will have a well-balanced character. It will be exceedingly courageous, determined and strong minded. It will have the pluck to make a place in the world for itself, regardless of its early environment. It will become popular for its cheerful and social ways.

You like to be independent in everything you do. You are capable and thorough, because there is always complete knowledge and understanding from such knowledge if gained by oneself as there can never be through "cribbing." There are no walls against which you can be accused of leaning. Rely upon your own resources, astrologically, they are shown to be your safest bet. Your honesty wins for you the reputation of always being as good as your word.

You are short-sighted to some of your own faults, as you have at times, a most unfortunate disposition. When things go well you are good-natured, reasonable and sociable. When something crops up which displeases you, a spell of sulks comes on, and no one can discuss or reason things out with you. Instead of frankly talking things over, when a misunderstanding occurs, you hug your grievances to yourself, and your sulks continue until they wear themselves out. Its a dreary game and a nonsporting one, which you should by all means try to stop playing.

If a woman, you are hypercritical and a little inclined to be caustic in your remarks about others. You are always neat and careful about your personal appearance.

Charles Sumner, statesman.
James A. Burden, manufacturer.
Henry E. Dixey, actor.
Clarence King, geologist, originator of the U. S. Geological Survey.
Joan of Arc.

Jane Interprets the MODE

The new length for afteroon in a black crepe gown with pique blouse. (Courtesy of Bernard et Cie., Paris.)

PARIS, Jan. 5.—One looks and marvels always at Louiseboulanger's, well, there's no other word for it . . . nerve! Serene and unafraid, she walks where angels once trod lightly and then flew away . . . and nobody minds, nobody would dare say for a moment, nay, even dare hint that a Louiseboulanger this or that had ever even been seen before!

"Yes," smiles the good-looking directeur, "true to prints!" And true to some other things too, if you ask me, some other things that one sort of expected were passing from the mode. Where, for instance, would you ever see a shoulder corsage save on a Louiseboulanger gown? But when you see it on one of her gowns, I tell you right now that you like it!

Where, also, do you see the handkerchief collar and 'kerchief scarf used so much?

And just as we have told you so often, this only points out ence more the fact that Dame Fashion is heading for permanency in styles based upon integral beauty of line, which flatters the feminine figure—and that no longer does she or will she ever again depend upon startling and rapid silhouette changes for her prestige.

To the middle of the half, says the elegant woman! And to the middle of the calf goes her hem, with much gusto! Not only in the more elaborate type of afternoon gown, but in simpler versions of them, those that one would wear on the street, such as this black crepe gown, semitailored, that Bernard et Cie offers us today.

But never overlook the touch of elegance in the white pique vestee and collar—nor its odd and so very chic shape!

Just wait till you see it! You'll forgive us for raving about the novelty jewelry we made for ourselves out of wooden beads, button molds, silk cord, cut leather thongs—oh, dear, you'd better send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post and see for yourself!

• • • •

Are corsets being worn? Very much yes! And who minds after all? For today's corsets are not grandmother's corsets, heaven forbid—and yet they are twice as effective in achieving what they set out to achieve. What do corsets set out to achieve? Well, to assist the feminine figure to be its lovely self, and to retain its lovely self!

Are you looking in The Washington Post each Sunday for the weekly Dare fashion letter?

WORK ON BRIDGE

There are certain conventions in play by which the Declarer's adversaries gain information about each other's hands. One of the best known of these is the rule, "Lead high and play low," which means that when leading one of two or more cards in sequence, a player selects the higher or highest whereas when following suit to a lead he plays the lower or lowest if selecting a card from a sequence. When that rule is understood, a player seeing his partner lead a certain card, knows that he does not hold the card next higher; and when he sees his partner follow suit with a certain card, he knows that partner does not hold the card next lower.

To illustrate the application of this rule: suppose a leader should open a Queen-Jack-Ten suit and, ignoring the rule, should lead his Jack or Ten; suppose further that dummy held the King and others and played low, and that the leader's partner held the Ace and others. The partner would suppose that the closed hand had a card higher than the one led and might feel obliged to put up the Ace—which would waste a trick; whereas with the Queen led, the partner would have no question what his play should be if the King did not cover the Queen.

On the other hand, suppose the opening lead to be low from King and others, that the leader's partner played the Ten and closed hand won with the Ace. The leader would know that his partner had Queen-Jack remaining because closed hand would not have wasted the Ace had he held Queen or Jack. If the Queen had been played and taken by the Ace, the leader would assume that closed hand held the Jack and he could not place the Ten.

But the Declarer who has no partner needing information, has no reason for following conventions of this sort. He does not want to tell his adversaries what he has, so he false-cards whenever possible. For example, if winning a trick fourth hand holding Ace-King-Queen, he would win with the Ace or King so as not to show that he had all three cards. In leading he would lead Jack or Ten from Queen-Jack-Ten instead of the Queen. As adversary of the Declarer seldom false-cards, and then only when he is sure that the misinformation may deceive the Declarer without affecting the play or the deceiver's side. For example, suppose that the dummy (North) has a suit headed by Ace-Jack-Ten and that East has King-Queen or King-Queen and one small of that suit. If the suit were led by South and North's Jack or Ten played, it would be wise for East to win with the King (a false card) rather than the Queen. The Declarer then would be more apt to finesse again on the second round, and the deception would not be apt to affect the play of West.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Fatal Wreck Laid To Fissure in Rail

Seven Breaks Caused Death of Nine at Onley, Says Official Report.

Salisbury, Md., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Derailment of the Pennsylvania Railroad excursion train at Onley, Va., December 1, when nine persons lost their lives and many others were injured, was blamed on an "internal transverse fissure" in a steel rail over which the train was passing in the official report of the Pennsylvania's investigation, made public today.

Seven breaks were found in the rail when wrecking crews were clearing away the debris, George W. Curtiss, superintendent of the Norfolk division of the road, said in making public the report. The drop in temperature widened the fissure, and the weight of the train expanded it still further until the trucks of the third coach broke through the rail, overturning the third and fourth coaches and dragging the remaining three from the tracks, the report said. It was in the two overturned coaches that the casualties occurred.

The defect in the rail could not have been discovered by the regular inspections, officials said, and added that all rails bearing the same identifying marks had been replaced by new ones.

Knights of Columbus Hit Use of Name in Lottery

St. Louis, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Use of the name of the Knights of Columbus in connection with a horse race lottery in Montreal, Canada, was condemned by the supreme board of directors of the organization at a meeting here today. The board also awarded the 1930 national convention to be held August 18 to 20 to Boston and the next quarterly session of the board, April 4 to 6, to Washington.

Martin H. Carmody, of Grand Rapids, Mich., supreme knight, said he would ask the cooperation of Canadian authorities in suppressing the lottery and its literature. Carmody also said he would seek to compel the promoter to return money already collected.

Ortiz Rubio Visits Chicago Factory

Having declared highway building, especially completion of the Meridian highway from Canada south through Central America, an important factor in his administration's program, the Mexican president-elect evinced keen interest in the production process and demonstration of all types of road-building equipment.

Early in the day Senor Ortiz Rubio and a small party, including Dr. Puid Cassaurano, governor of the Federal District of Mexico, and Arthur B. Lane, of Washington, chief of the Mexican division of the State Department, left by automobile for suburban Harvey.

New Adams School Ready for Opening

Beginning of Service by Unit This Morning to Relieve Congestion.

The beginning of the long-anticipated midyear relief of congestino in the Washington public schools will be marked with the opening today of the John Quincy Adams School, an ultra modern 26-classroom, assembly hall and cafeteria building, at Nineteenth and California streets northwest. The full enrollment of the Thomas P. Morgan School, 1773 California street northwest, and the seventh and eighth grade pupils of the Force School, at 1738-44 Massachusetts avenue northwest, today will report at the new building.

A general reorganization of the schools affected by the opening of the new Adams School will take place on February 3, when the second school semester will start. The old Adams School, at 1730 R street northwest, which was recommended for abandonment years ago, will be taken out of service as a classroom building, and it is hoped that renovation and new construction on the old Morgan School will permit its being opened for the colored pupils for the new semester.

The Paul Junior High School will be officially opened on February 3, and the new Langdon School will receive its intial enrollment of pupils sometime next week, with its official opening set for the beginning of the second school semester on February 3.

PEGLER SEES CARNERA AS HE-GIANT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, N. Y., Jan. 5.—Of course the enormous size of Primo Carnera, the Italian prize fighter, suggests many merry jests but while his various managers, foreign and domestic, are enjoying themselves telling the newspaper boys that his whiskers are like so many half-inch hemp cables and that the task of filling a tooth comes under the jurisdiction of several unions, including blasters, hard rock miners, and concrete workers, it begins to appear that Primo can fight, or at least go through rather plausible motions with his fists.

If it should turn out that Primo can fight, even slightly under competitive conditions, then it will be very difficult to laugh him off because any fairly good fighter weighing 285 pounds and rising six feet eight or ten inches above the floor and swinging a fist as big as a loaf of bread, should be able to disarrange most of the normal heavyweight pugilists up to and including the better members of the second flight, meaning such chaps as Tuffy Griffiths, Johnny Risko, and Fainting Phil Scott, the celebrated sinker from Old England.

The New York prize fight commissioners have stepped in promptly to name a list of the prize fighters with whom Primo shall be forbidden to have professional relations and this doubtless will have the effect of saving him from the better class of heavyweights until he has first had an opportunity to collect several purses for maltreating a number of the larger and more hopeless gladiators.

Primo Is Unusual Giant.

I do not know why the commissioners have made this ruling, but it is nothing to become annoyed about because pugilists of the type known as bums generally swing and fall down with greater abandon than those who have or think they have reputations to protect and a contest between Primo and some other huge party, however, obscure in the professional sense, might be very funny, indeed, whereas a contest with Griffiths, for instance, would be likely to develop into a bore.

Primo is different from all the circus giants of the same general dimension that I have ever seen in the respect that he strips well, as the technical term has it, meaning that he has no widening and increasing series of secondary chins, billowing fold upon fold and culminating in one vast undulating lap of slack hide, lined with blubber, at the waistline.

Furthermore, he is surprisingly energetic, even vivacious, and he also has a ready facility for anger or fighting spirit, whereas Jess Willard, for instance, who weighed about 40 pounds less than Primo does in good condition, was sluggish and the nearest thing to fighting spirit that he ever manifested was a rather sullen vindictiveness toward unimportant people who had humiliated or otherwise annoyed him.

Big Boys Never Very Strong.

I have not had the pleasure of social relations with many giants, but I used to know the late George Augur, who worked in the side show for the Ringling concern and although he weighed about as much as Primo does today and stood an inch or two higher, he was a very unhealthy young man and so weak that it wearied him severely to pick up his colleague, the midget called Major Mite, weight about 35 pounds, and run about 25 yards with the major sitting on the upraised flat of his right hand as the grand opening procession and tableau came to the end of the march around the arena. Augur's circulation was poor, he had a delicate appetite and he was soft and pasty as most giants are.

Carnera has a rather healthy complexion, and his animation suggests that he is one giant whose vital apparatus was built in proportion to the job of serving one so huge, in addition to which his muscles are distinctly developed, and the lower part of his middle falls away from beneath the wishbone to the waist

Mack Expects Yankees to Come Back

By JOHN H. REITINGER.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Connie Mack looks for a great baseball season and a stiff race in the American League. And to show the confidence in the team that won for him the fourth world's championship, he says: "I see no reason why we should not repeat."

"I want to emphasize," said the tall tutor, "that we expect stronger competition during the 1930 season than we have had in several years. A number, if not all the teams, have added to their strength and it would be no surprise to see a wonderful race. I do not believe the Yankees played up to their usual standard last year and I look for them to come back with a wallop."

Connie Mack is so sure of the strength of his first-string men that he is virtually standing pat on the line-up that won the American League pennant and took four out of five from the Chicago Cubs in the world's series.

Catching Staff Fortified.

The catching department has been fortified in case of accident by the addition of Wally Schang, who can relieve either Mickey Cochrane or Cy Perkins in case of need.

The veteran pitching staff of Grove, Walberg, Ehmke, Earnshaw, Quinn, Rommel and Shores will be augmented by four hopefuls from the minors. Portland sent Leroy Mahaffey and George Snider, burly right-handers, to the Athletics, while Glen Liebhardt, jr., son of the Cleveland chucker of twenty years ago, was obtained from Des Moines, and Alfred McMahan, left-handed strike-out king from the semipro ranks of Nebraska, was picked up as a free agent.

The Athletics' starting infield will be the sterling quartet of Jimmy Foxx, first base; Max Bishop, second; Jack Boley, short, and Jimmy Dykes, third. Ready to jump in as a substitute in the inner garden will be James Keesey, Don McNair and Roy Tarr, who have had good experience in the minors. Keesey, who was formerly with the Portland Club of the Pacific Coast, is a right-handed hitter and will be understudy to Jimmy Foxx. McNair comes from Memphis, of the Southern Association, and flashed in a few games at Shibe Park last fall. Tarr was bought from McCook, of the Nebraska State League.

In the outer garden will be that triple threat of Al Simmons, the hefty hitter; Mule Haas, who tied the score in the ninth inning of the final world series game with a home run, and Bing Miller, who put across the winning run with a double. The second defense in the field will consist of Homer Summa, Roger Cramer, a recruit from Martinsburg, of the Blue Ridge League, and Tom Oliver, drafted from the Little Rock club.

Within a few weeks, the 67-year-old leader of the Athletics will start on his yearly vacation in Florida, playing golf and fitting himself for the training period when his team reports February 22, at Fort Meyers, Fla., where the A's have practised the last six seasons.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS— By John Hix

Paulino - Von Porat Clash Friday; Gallagher on Card.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Jackie Fields will make two starts this week in Philadelphia and Chicago, but the heavyweight fracas in Madison Square Garden Friday night between Otto Von Porat and Paulino Uzcudun will stir up more public interest than the welterweight champion's pair of nontitle bouts.

Fields meets Alf Ros, burly Spanish welterweight, in the headliner of the weekly Philadelphia Arena show tomorrow night and will battle Tony Vacarelli, of New York, in another nontitular match at the Chicago Stadium Friday night.

Supporting the Fields-Ros go will be two ten-rounders, one involving Danny Kramer, Philadelphia southpaw, and Pete Zivic, of Pittsburgh, and the other matching Harry (Kid) Brown, of Philadelphia, against Gaston LaCadre, of France.

King Tut to Battle Flowers.

At the Chicago Stadium, the Fields-Vacarelli match is supported by a ten-rounder between King Tut, Minneapolis lightweight, and Bruce Flowers, New Rochelle (N. Y.) Negro, and another between Benny Bass, Philadelphia junior lightweight, and Danny Demont, of Chicago.

Madison Square Garden's heavyweight show may mark the end of Paulino's career among the front rank contenders for Gene Tunney's vacated crown. The Basque woodchopper has shown signs of going back on his recent starts, while Von Porat, a terrific hitter, seems to be on the upgrade.

Other Bouts on Program.

TUESDAY—At St. Louis, Eddie Shea, Chicago, vs. Fay Kosky, San Francisco, featherweights, ten rounds, and Martie Fields, Los Angeles, vs. Charley Lupica, Chicago, junior lightweights, ten rounds; at Los Angeles, Cecil Payne, Louisville, vs. Goldie Hess, California, lightweights, ten rounds; at Portland, Oreg., Young Firpo, Burke, Idaho, vs. Ray Pelky, Oakland, light heavyweights, ten rounds; Mickey Dolan, Portland, vs. Don Dority, St. Paul, lightweights.

2 Tournament Marks Broken by Layton in Title 3-Cushion Event

New York, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Johnny Layton, of St. Louis, defending his national three-cushion billiards championship, hung up two new world's tournament records tonight in defeating Charles Jordan, of Los Angeles, 50 to 22 in 23 innings. The number of innings was the fewest ever required in championship play and Layton's average of 24-23 also established a new record.

Augie Kleckhefer, southpaw veteran of Chicago, defeated Gus Copulos, of Detroit, 50 to 16, in 33 innings, the shortest game of the tournament, with two high runs of six. Kleckhefer scored in every inning but twelve, finishing with fifteen caroms in the last six innings. Copulos was never in running, his best inning effort being two threes.

Allan Hall, 28-year-old St. Louis entrant, created somewhat of a sensation in an afternoon match when he defeated the veteran, Tiff Denton, of Kansas, once counted a member of the "Big Six," 50 to 24. Hall clicked off high cluster of ten in the second inning for record run in this tournament.

Otto Reisit, of Philadelphia who has established himself as the chief threat for Johnny Layton's three-cushion billiard title, on his third game of the current tournament in another afternoon game, defeating Harry Schuler, of New York, 50 to 36, in 49 innings.

Dick Rockaway, Track Star, Fails in Studies

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Dick Rockaway, star hurdler on the Ohio State track team, a national collegiate champion and world record holder, apparently has been lost to the Buckeye squad for the duration of the indoro season at least.

Rockaway failed in a subject of three credit hours during the fall quarter just ended, it became known today, automatically becoming ineligible for varsity competition until the spring quarter starts late in March. This circumsance will prevent his competing in the dual meets, Western Conference indoor championships, quadrangular meet with Wisconsin, Northwestern and Chicago, and the annual Illinois indoor relays.

Borotra and Glasser Net Doubles Champs

Paris, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Jean Borotra and Andre Glasser, of France, won the men's doubles title in the French covered courts tennis championships today by defeating the Chileans Luis and Domingo Torralva, 8—6, 6—4, 11—9.

COACH MILLS TO SELECT AIDS SOON

G. U. Assistant May Be Named From '29 Notre Dame Team.

FURTHER announcements relative to the change in coaches at Georgetown University are expected this week with teh return to the Hilltop of Father Joseph O'Brien, faculty athletic director, who has been vacationing in New York City.

Father O'Brien last night stated that Tom Mills, newly appointed head football coach and athletic director, already has begun work on some of the duties of his office, although he will not appear here until about the middle of the month. However, it was indicated by the faculty adviser that something would be learned late this week as to the personnel of the corps of assistants Mills will select.

In view of Mills' association with Notre Dame as assistant to Knute Rockne for the last four years, it is believed that the new Georgetown gridiron leader will pick one or two exponents of the Notre Dame system to help him. Georgetown followers are speculating on the possibility that Mills will endeavor to hire an assistant or two from among the graudating members of the 1929 Notre Dame Football Team. Among this group are John Law, who captained the team; Tim Moynihan and Jack Cannon.

Mills Takes Over Office.

The appointment of Mills to fill the office of director of athletics as well as that of head football coach modifies the necessity for a graduate manager of athletics, said Father O'Brien. Prior to signing Mills, Georgetown authorities had announced plans to employ two men to handle the work of athletic director and head football coach. Father O'Brien indicated that a graduate manager of athletics might be hired if the necessity for one is found by Mills.

Completion of the boxing schedule and selection of a boxing coach are among the matters Mills will dispose of shortly, Father O'Brien revealed. Through a misunderstanding of the question of Georgetown's continued activity in boxing, several dual meets scheduled a couple of months ago have been cancelled. Efforts now are being made to reschedule those matches. Meets with Navy and West Virginia are assured, while it is likely that New York University will be listed. Possibly another will be scheduled with Army.

Army-Navy Likely to Meet In Gym and Boxing Events

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 5.—In spite of the severance of athletic relations between the Army and Navy over a difference as to eligibility rules, representatives of the service schools are likely to compete against each other this winter through membership in two of the bodies governing certain sports. These sports are gymnastics and boxing.

Both academies are now members of the Intercollegiate Gymnastic Association and were represented at the recent meeting of that body and will compete in its tourney, which will be held late in the winter under the auspices of Massachusetts Tech.

At the meeting of the Intercollegiate Boxing Association, held in New York last week, the Military Academy applied for membership and indicated that it would enter a team in the tourney which will take place in Philadelphia March 21-22. Under the rules the application for membership will lie over for a year, but the entry for the association's tourney will be received, so that the Army Team can compete when that event is held next.

It happens that the Naval Academy holds a high position in both of these sports, having won the leading position in gymnastics twelve times in the last thirteen seasons and never having lost a dual boxing match.

British Bow To Concord Booters

Marlboros Score as Rockville - Silver Springers Tie.

By RICHARD S. TENNYSON.

CONCORD'S fast-traveling soccer eleven aliminated the British United squad from the National cup tournament yesterday on the Silver Spring field in a spirited game which ended, 2 to 1, in favor of the Concordians.

In Capital City League matches Marlboro defeated the D. C. Kickers, 4 o 1; Roedale and Gaithersburg tied, 3 to 3, and the Rockville-Silver Spring game was postponed due to the condition of the playing field.

Concord deserved the victory it won over British United. The clever little forward line of the Germans kept the ball in the British territory for the main part of the game, while the defense work of Horning was an exhibition well worth watching.

Concord in Van From Start.

Concord was the first to score, about fifteen minutes after the starting whistle. Kanthal booted the sphere through from a scramble but the lead was short-lived as W. Smith dented the Concord goal shortly afterward. Neither team scored for the remainder of the period although play was spirited throughout. British United played with ten men after the first ten minutes of play, as D. Knight was injured and removed from the field.

Concord pressed hard in the second period, and with about twenty minutes to go the hard-pushed British backs tapped the ball over their own goal to give the Germans the deciding marker. Horning, L. and E. Koennel and Kuhner played well for Concord, while Taylor at goal, Jess Burton and Jack Turner were the outstanding British kickers.

Rivals Battle in Deadlock.

Gaithersburg and Rosedale marked time in their race for the second-place position in the Capital City League when they tied. The match was even throughout, the score standing 1 to 1 at half time. E. Burdette, for Rosedale, and Watkins, for Gaithersburg, were the stars of the game. The D. C. Kickers put up a better game than was expected against Marlboro, the league champions. The winners had their full strength on the field, but experienced difficulty in breaking through the Kickers' defense.

Fashion Shop Booters Beaten in Baltimore

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 5.—The Locust Point Rangers entered the third round of the National Amateur Challenge Cup by trimming the Fashion Shop S. C., 4 to 0, at Maryland Park.

Ducks Kenney started the scoring of a pass from Lou Cox in the goal box after 15 minutes of play. Cox scored 2 minutes later on pass from Augie Klemmick, and Reichenberg scored an angle shot a little later to give the Rangers a 3 to 0 lead at half time.

Fashion Shop played a strong defense game during the second half and Neil Schmidt scoring a free kick direct from outside of the penalty area, was the only player to score during the second half.

Sheriff May Answer Protest of Pompano

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Jan. 5 (A.P.) Sheriff A. W. Turner, of Broward County, has not decided just what reply he will make to a telegram sent him last night by Fred O. Eberhardt, Tallahassee publisher, charging that gambling was taking place at the Pompano race track, he announced tonight. In fact, the sheriff, who has been sick for some time, hasn't decided that he will answer the telegram, he said.

Sheriff Turner had several deputies at the track yesterday. They reported to him last night that they saw no evidence of gambling there.

LONG BEACH, Calif., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Plowing through 36 holes of almost impossible golf, of which the morning round was played in a downpour of rain, Olin Dutra, of Santa Monica, Calif., and Joe Kirkwood, Philadelphia trick shot artist, today shared the winning of the fifth annual $3,502 Long Beach open golf tournament.

Clarence Clark, of Tulsa, Okla., was second with a total of 218, and Henry Cuici, Bridgeport, Conn., had 219 for third place. John Rogers, of Denver, Colo., was fourth with a total of 220.

Kirkwood finished with a strong afternoon of eighteen holes, which saw him set the dazzling pace of 70, two under par, on the soggy, water-soaked course, after a distastrous 78 i nthe morning. He had qualified with a 68.

The torrent of rain not only blasted the hopes of several leaders of the field, but dampened the ardor of some of the chosen contenders. Wild Bill Mehlhorn, New York, and Craig Wood, Bloomfield, N. J., were among those who withdrew from play before they finished.

Charles Seaver, 17-year-old Los Angeles prep school tsar, who headed the qualifiers with a 66, one short of teh course record, dropped to an 82 during teh morning. He finished one over par to tie for fifth place with Johnny Farrell, former national open champion Charles Guest, of Los Angeles, and W. H. Cox, of Brooklyn.

Horton Smith, young Joplin, Mo., pro, favorite for the tournament, was caught in the height of this morning's rain and turned in an 81 for

3 Eagles Aid In Retention Of Title

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Three eagles and a series of birdies brought Gene Sarazen in today with a score of 300 to win for the fourth consecutive time the 72-hole Miami open golf tournament.

The little professional developed his typical second-day form to win the contest after finishing well down in the list as 36-hole reports were chalked up last night to give him a 155.

Second in line was Bill Leach, Overbrook, Pa., with 301 mark for the 72 holes. Cyril Walker, Saddle River, N. J., developed a 302 to take third money.

Sarazen played lackadaisical golf yesterday and faced additional handicaps in a high wind that swept in from the north and east. The wind lightened its velocity today, although at times it swept the course in the face of bright sunshine.

The repeating champion followed the first group of leaders in scoring until the outbound trip on the last eighteen holes today. At that time he was 2 up on Cyril Walker, who was his nearest opponent.

Sarazen Relaxes At End.

Gene took a 5 on the last hole as he relaxed after learning that a 5 would win over Leach's 301. Sarazen was 3 on the green, but his first putt was short.

Mike Brady, who led the field with a 150 for 36 holes last night, came in with 310 to take ninth money. Distribution of the money in the tournament was on the basis of $2,500 instead of $3,000 as the professionals had expected. The reduction, similar to that of last year's Miami open, was made necessary by the fact that money appropriated by the city had to be distributed between the open and the international four-ball matches, officials in charge explained.

MORNING.
AFTERNOON.

"Mother of Champs" Dies at Long Branch

Long Branch, N. J., Jan. 5 (N.Y.W. N.S.).—Mrs. Catherine De Forest, wife of James (Jimmy) De Forest, famous trainer of boxers, died in the Monmouth Memorial Hospital here at 10:30 o'clock tonight. She had been ill for some time and her death had been momentarily expected. Her husband was at her bedside when she died. Besides her husband, Jimmy, she is survived by a son, Roy J. De Forest, and a daughter, Mrs. Virginia De Forest Russell.

Mrs. De Forest was 50 years old. She had led a particularly active life, and was associated with her husband in his promotorial and training activities until a couple of years ago. She one time was known as the "mother of champions," due to the fact that she had handled the kitchen end of the training for many boxers whom her husband trained into later champions of the ring, among them being Jack Dempsey and Louis Firpo.

PHYSICIAN PREDICTS GREAT YEAR FOR BLUEGE

Nat Infielder Is Cured by Operation

Tests Show Injured Knee Now Almost Normal.

Trainer Martin Plans Special Exercises for Infielder.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

THIRD-BASEMAN OSSIE BLUEGE, who was lost to the Nationals during the latter part of last season, will be just as good as ever from now on, according to the Washington Club's physician. Although hoping for the best, President Clark Griffith and Manager Walter Johnson were not sure that the operation performed on the infield ace's left knee last fall was successful until yesterday when the member was given a thorough examination and quite an exhaustive test by the club physician and Bluege came through with flying colors.

Were Bluege a layman, his complete cure could be announced now, but being in a business which calls for quick jumps and stops, sliding and other forms of unusual exercise and strain, he still will have to favor his knee and take his spring training gradually. The floating cartilage, which has handicapped him for several seasons, has been removed with no ill effects, however, and indications are that, from now on, it is just a question of Bluege taking certain kinds of exercise to strengthen the knee.

Since shortly after the 1929 schedule was completed, Bluege has taken long walks every day and so enthusiastic is he over the progress made that he wants to take some gymnasium work-outs with Capt. Joe Judge in the Jewish Community Center. While no decision has been made as to this, the chances are that Bluege will be told to stick to his walking and take no chances on gym work, where the floors are hard—with little give—and slippery.

Martin in Charge of Bluege's Comeback Campaign.

Plans for the third-baseman's comeback campaign are now being made. They call for him to report at the Biloxi training camp next month with the battery men, who will make up the first consignment of players. Once there, Trainer Mike Martin will give Bluege special attention. He will dole out the exercise needed like a doctor does a prescription and guarantees that gradual extension of work-outs, with heat applications and some of his famous rubs part of the daily routine, and no diamond work until he gives the word, will have the player in as good physical condition as he ever has been.

If the predictions of the club's medicine man and Sir Mique are borne out, Washington fans are due to see some real third-basing during the coming season. Bluege has been having trouble with his left knee almost since the day he joined the Washington Club. At intervals, he has lost considerable time from his work and, naturally, this weak member has had its effect on the player and, to a certain extent, he has been forced to favor it.

Cure Would Remove Big Mental Handicap.

Should Martin's course of exercises convince Bluege that his knee is as good as ever, it will remove a mental handicap under which the infielder has been working. He will no longer fear that an injury might end his diamond career, and, as brilliantly as he has performed in the past, he may be expected to do even better in the future.

Needless to say, Bluege's baseball future is a mighty important item to the cause of the Nationals. Should he flash his best form next season, and cover third as only he can cover it, Johnson's managerial task will be just about cut in half. If, on the other hand, the club physician's guess proves to be wrong, the Nats likely will be forced to start off with the infield which they used after Bluege was forced out for his operation.

This was not a first-class major league combination. Buddie Myer was a novice at second; Joe Cronin, due to his inexperience, was brilliant at times, but off color on enough other occasions to give him a rating of "unsteady," while third was new to Jack Hayes. The latter is a natural second baseman. He handles himself at that post like a veteran, is adept as both starting and finishing double plays, and is quite superior to Myer as a fielder.

Cronin Looks Like Sure Bet For Shortfield Berth.

With Bluege back, Cronin appears sure of continuing at short, for it is not believed that Jimmy McLeod, the $15,000 Little Rock purchase, has a chance to dislodge him, while Hayes is likely to give Myer a good fight for the middle-cushion berth. In connection with Cronin's case, experts are agreed that the "San Francisco Kid" has all the ear-marks of being a coming star, and Manager Johnson has let it be known that he plans to spend considerable time trying to correct the few faults which the youngster has shown.

While the Nationals are not doing any pennant talk in connection with the coming race, all agree that their combination is a better one than its fifth-place finish of 1929 would indicate, but whether or not they climb into the first flight next season and, if so, how high, largely depends upon the club physician and Trainer Martin getting Bluege back to top form.

The Timid Soul —By H. W. Webster

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

BY HENRY F. COLLYER

BREAKING the crystals.

That's just what your little friend DEAR INEZ, which is to go for all the tea in China down at Fair Grounds Monday, has been doing during the early morn of late. Last word I had was when she reeled off a mile in 1:41 and 3. Although that may sound a bit enthusiastic, Walter says he saw it with his own eyes. Ye'wekkum.

CHATTAHOOCHEE seems to be the one to beat and all DEAR INEZ has to do is run back to the good work to leave this one all the way from hell to breakfast—and dat's dat.

By the same token I know that the wise dough has been planted in Pittsburgh and St. Louis on LINDA ARCHER, a right smart trick that has been dropped—I might say pitchforked—into the second. At a mile, this heat is decidedly to LINDA'S liking and the field is dirt cheap.

The sun-ups which ROGUE'S GOLD has been turning in entitles him to some consideration, but outside of that they are decidedly cheap mavericks.

The real low-down is on FORCE, which goes in the seventh, is that one of the high moguls at New Orleans is interested—in fact, vitally interested—in the nag, which fact leads me to believe he won't get any of the worst of it in the running of the race. Something, I should say, like aces back to back in a five-card stud game. Last out was a commendable race, and it looks like that effort should tighten him up to the point where he can grab all the coon skins. TEMPTER seems the contender, but he probably won't even get in.

For the feature down at the Fair Grounds, "the smart set," I am handing you THAT'S IT, a lively one that was backed down to 90 cents on the dollar last out, only to run second. The price will be better today, and that'll make a big difference if you get me. This thing dough talks louder than any thing I know, even internationally. Shoot the works.

16 CONTESTS FOR PURPLE QUINTET

Gonzaga Plays Business in Opener Wednesday.

WITH sixteen games already definitely scheduled and negotiations under way for five or six more, the Gonzaga High basketers will launch their 1930 season on Wednesday when they entertain Business High in the I street gymnasium.

The Purple's schedule includes a two-game series with Business, Georgetown Prep, Eastern, Strayer's, Benjamin Franklin and St. John's. Other games have been listed with the freshmen teams of George Washington and Georgetown universities.

Coach Orrel Mitchell has practically decided on the combination he will use regularly. It combines experience, speed and spirit.

McVean and Pyne Lead As Forwards.

Bob McVean and Danny Pyne are leading the race for the forward positions. Irving Holbrook appears to have clinched the center post, and Buddy Bussink and Jake Farrell look like certain starters at the guards. Other candidates are Johnny Hestor, center; Tommy Nolan, forward, and Fred Brew, guard.

January 8, Business; 16, G. W. Freshmen; 17, Devitt, away; 21, Business, away; 24, Georgetown Prep, away; 27, Eastern; 28, Benjamin Franklin; 30, Strayer's, away; February 3, Georgetown Freshmen, away; 7, Benjamin Franklin; 10, Eastern, away; 17, Georgetown Prep; 21, St. John's, away; 25, Western, away; March 4, Strayer's; 14, St. John's.

Blue Ridge Leaguers To Meet January 20

Martinsburg, W. Va., Jan. 5.—The annual meeting of the Blue Ridge League, according to present plans of President J. Vincent Jamison, jr., will be held during the week of January 20, at the Hotel Shenandoah.

President Jamison suggested the week of the twentieth to the various club presidents, and, so far has encountered no opposition. The fixing of the exact date will take place in a day or so.

Events scheduled for the meeting include the election of officers, closing up of 1929's business, and discussion of plans for 1930.

Valley Court League Opens Season Friday

Martinsburg, W. Va., Jan. 5.—The basket ball season of the Cumberland Valley Athletic League, which is composed of six high schools in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia, will get under way Friday night, with Martinsburg facing Hagerstown, Winchester furnishing the opposition to Charles Town, and Waynesboro meeting Berkeley Springs.

Officials for the league are as follows: William Snyder, Washington and Lee University; Harry Hammann, Carnegie Tech; Frank Colley, Washington Tech; Winthrow Legge, Virginia Polytechnic Institute; Wilbur Shryock, of Waynesboro, and Ryland Washington, of Winchester.

D. C. College Fives Face Busiest Week of Season

All Teams to See Action, With Georgetown and Catholic U. Playing Thrice; 8 of 12 Games Listed to Be Played Here.

TOMORROW NIGHT.

Georgetown vs. Wake Forest, at Tech High.

WEDNESDAY.

Catholic vs. Mount St. Mary's, at Brookland.
American vs. Johns Hopkins, at Baltimore.

FRIDAY.

George Washington vs. American, at George Washington.
Catholic vs. Villanova, at Brookland.
Georgetown vs. West Virginia, at Morgantown, W. Va.

SATURDAY.

George Washington vs. Villanova, at George Washington.
Georgtown vs. Pittsburgh University, at Pittsburgh.

BASKET BALL as played by our energetic and erudite collegians will be handed Capital cash customers in large and frequent doses this week. Eight games in five days forms the program in which all of the six local teams will take part. Four other games will be played away from home, with Baltimore the scene of a pair.

The curtain goes up tomorrow night when Georgetown engages Wake Forest, of North Carolina, at Tech High School. There being no games scheduled today, every team will use the open date to put in some practice. This opportunity will be seized heartily by the Catholic U. cagers, who, unlike the rest, have neither played nor drilled during the Christmas vacation period.

Strictly local flavor will be found in two contests which loom as the features of the card late in the week. On Friday night at the George Washington Gymnasium the Colonials and the American U. Eagles will tangle in a renewal of their warm court rivalry, while on Saturday night Catholic and Maryland will meet in the latter's gymnasium in a game that will mark the resumption of athletic relations between the two institutions after a lapse of five years. Capacity crowds are anticipated for both games.

Maryland to Face Duke.

Another contest with lots of Washington "color" is the Maryland-Duke affair scheduled for Thursday night on the Terrapin floor. Five former Capital high school players are on the Blue Devil squad and three are certain to see action. Harry Councilor, Bill Werber and Joe Croson, all products of Tech High, are regulars in Duke's line-up, while Don Garber, a graduate of Western, and Bob Brist, another Techite, are substitutes.

The toughest team assignment on the week's slate is that faced by Georgetown, for after battling Wake Forest the Hoyas will take to the road for games with West Virginia University at Morgantown on Friday night and Pittsburgh University on Saturday night. The team last mentioned, one of the best in the country last winter, is now rolling along undefeated, having already chalked up seven straight victories.

American and Gallaudet each has a game to be played in Baltimore, the former going there Wednesday night to oppose Johns Hopkins, and the Kendall Green Five the following Saturday afternoon to play Baltimore University.

3 Unbeaten Teams In Action.

Catholic, Gallaudet and Maryland all will be out to keep their records unblemished, but at this writing their chances of succeeding do not seem very good considering the caliber of their opponents. The Cardinal Five, winner over High Point and Maryland State Normal, is to encounter the powerful Mount St. Mary's Team Wednesday night. The Emmitsburg outfit will be hard to beat. In order that Gallaudet's winning streak be kept unbroken, the Blues will have to down Baltimore, which undoubtedly is far stronger than any foe Coach Krug's team has faced yet. Blue Ridge, on Friday, is not likely to prove a stumbling block.

In Duke, Maryland will oppose the Southern Conference runner-up of 1929 and a team that possesses unusual scoring qualities. If the Terps conquer the Blue Devils they probably will continue undefeated at Catholic's expense.

G. U. Aims to Regain Stride.

Georgetown will strive to regain the form that marked its brilliant victory over New York University in the recent Yale tournament. In taking the scalp of the Violets, the Hoyas exhibited their best basket ball of the season, but in the final game they failed to maintain such a pace and lost to Elmer Ripley's Yale quintet by a 3-point margin.

A triumph over Pittsburgh would be a bright feather in Georgetown's cap and the Hilltop crew doubtless regards the Panther engagement as the most important of the week. However, the West Virginia contest,

NEWS FROM MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

LEGISLATURE FACES SEAFOODS PROBLEM

Continuance of "Progress" Program Also Before Virginia Assembly.

POLLARD TO AID SCHOOLS

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 5.—When the General Assembly of Virginia convenes here next Wednesday in biennial session it faces the half-century-old problem of placing the seafood industry on a sound and equitable basis, the more modern problem of improving conditions and profits for Old Dominion farmers, the expansion of public welfare, health and rural sanitation work, the enlargement of the rural public school system and the creation of a liberal arts college for women coordinated with the University of Virginia for men.

Dr. John Garland Pollard, the Williamsburg student of government, takes office as the next Governor of Virginia on ten following Wednesday, January 15, and he has let it be known that during his administration he expects to stress the education and public welfare sides of the State program so that the rural residents of Virginia shall have the same opportunities and live under the same encouraging conditions as do the city dwellers.

Of course, Dr. Pollard has pledged himself to continue the businesslike administration of the retiring governor, Harry Floyd Byrd. He feels, however, that the Byrd administration has placed the governmental business of Virginia on a sound and efficient basis and that when he takes office the opportunity is ripe to extend the so-called "program of progress" so that it includes the rank and file of the rural residents.

School Progress Sought.

Gov. Pollard is known to desire to place the educational and public welfare activities of the State on the same high plane of economy and efficiency—with benefits for all—as Gov. Byrd has set up for the business side of the State government. During his campaign, Dr. Pollard asserted that the Byrd administration has left little to be desired in the way of efficient government and that along this line all he needs to do is to carry out the Byrd program and aid in placing into effect the nearly 100 amendments to the State constitution adopted at the special election in 1928.

And whatever Gov. Pollard desires in the way of advancement in education and public welfare is likely to be supported by the Legislature, where he will have an overwhelming majority of Democrats and adherents. In fact, the Republican membership of the Senate and House will number less than one dozen and a number of these are as enthusiastic supporters of the "program of progress" as are their Democratic colleagues.

One of the big issues, however, promises to be the rehabilitation of the oyster and seafood industries, which are now declining. The Tidewater legislators, it is presumed, will be allowed to work out their own program in this connection, because those of the middle and interior sections of the State know little of the seafood problems.

Oyster Beds Depleted.

It has been pointed out that once the legislators from the interior counties realize how much the State has spent and how much it has lost from revenues as a result of the age-old seafood problem, they will readily agree to any program which promises a solution, revamping the industry itself and adding to the revenues of the Old Dominion. Virginia's oyster beds are being rapidly depleted, because, it is claimed, of the lack of a far-sighted program. The situation now is regarded as serious in the Tidewater area and, predictions are that the new General Assembly will do everything in its power to solve the problem.

Ranking next in complicity to the oyster problem—and affecting far more people—is the Virginia farm relief program which the General Assembly is expected to attack with vigor.

The Agricultural Commission, named at the last session of the Legislature, has just made public an extensive report on the farm problem after two years of intense investigation. The recommendations of this report are expected to form the basis for any farm relief legislation enacted by the General Assembly.

Forestation Is Urged.

Features of this report are the recommendations that farmer cooperative marketing and buying agencies be allowed to do business with nonmembers; that nonprofitable farm lands be transformed into forests, with taxes discontinued until the forest lands be profitable; that more State money be expended in the support of rural schools with a consequent decrease in local rural taxation; that Virginians consume Virginia-produced products, such as butter, eggs, cheese and flour; that farmers be encouraged to drop nonpaying crops and adopt more profitable ones; that farmers residing in the areas of cities on lands which are not profitable, be transferred to the growing industrial centers of the Old Dominion, thus increasing the consumption of farm products and at the same time decreasing the production.

Business interests of the State, especially the country merchants and business men, are expected to put up a strong fight against the expansion of the activities of farmer cooperative marketing and buying agencies. Many groups of farmers have engaged in this program on a large scale and merchants contend that if these cooperatives are allowed to do business with nonmembers, country business is doomed. These cooperatives do not pay State taxes and thus are able to undersell the merchants.

Some Plans Still Secret.

While Gov. Pollard's child welfare program already is attracting much interest, he has not revealed what specific recommendations he will make to the General Assembly for expanding the supply of school dentists, in helping finance school nurses, and in promoting health examinations at schools.

Dr. Pollard has said that he feels the healthy child is more easily educated than the ailing one, and, therefore, of less expense to the State in the long run.

The new executive also is expected to ask for more State money for county schools, with a view of making the rural schools nearer the city ones in efficiency, without causing an increase in the rural taxes. He points out that any improvement in the rural education system must come from the State, and with State funds, because many of the counties now expend more than half of their taxes for schools and even then are forced to charge tuition for high school pupils of from $10 to $20 per term.

Consolidation to Be Pushed.

Dr. Pollard also will continue the move to consolidate rural schools with the aid of providing improved facilities for the boys and girls, and, at the same time effecting economy in the operating of the schools. He feels that the pupils will benefit more from one large and modernly equipped school in each community, than if the boys and girls are divided among a half-dozen or more one-and-two-room schools with limited facilities.

Educational leaders maintain that the education of children is more of a State than local problem and that, therefore, the State should have a large fund to equalize the advantages between the city and rural boys and girls.

Part of the State's $4,000,000 surplus is expected to go toward such an equalizing fund, if the school leaders backed by Gov. Pollard are successful in their fight.

Rich Man May Buy Home of Monroe

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Jan. 5.—Negotiations are under way for the sale of Ash Lawn, one time home of President James Monroe, located about five miles southeast of Charlottesville and two and a half miles from Monticello, home of Thomas Jefferson.

The historic home, it is understood, will become the property of a wealthy resident of Pittsburgh, Pa. The deal will probably be closed within the next ten days.

In the Ash Lawn tract there are 628 acres, mostly cleared land. The old colonial home, located at the foot of Peters Mountain and in sight of Monticello, is a three-story frame dwelling containing 21 rooms. The acre lawn which surrounds the building is beautifully laid off, and there is an abundance of boxwood.

It is rumored here that the Pittsburgher will convert Ash Lawn into a shrine which will be thrown open to the general public.

VIRGINIA APPROVES U.S. HEALTH CONTEST

State Plans Participation in Move to Cut Losses From Illness.

TWO CITIES ARE ENTERED

Richmond, Va., Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Approval of the Virginia State Health Department of a Nation-wide health conservation contest being sponsored by the United States Chamber of Commerce has been expressed in letters written by Dr. Roy K. Flannagan, assistant State commissioner, to State chambers of commerce urging participation in the contest.

The object of the competition, according to the Health Bulletin of the United States Chamber of Commerce, is "to assist in reducing economic losses in the United States due to unnecessary illness. It is open to municipalities of all sizes. Two Virginia cities, Petersburg and Norfolk, are among 113 in the United States which have entered.

Improvement of health during the year of 1930 in each community which participates in the contest will be the principal aim, to be graded as follows: Accomplishments and sanitary improvements, 50 per cent; educational and regulatory activities, 40 per cent, and reduction in loss of life, 10 per cent.

Health Association Aids.

The American Public Health Association, which has officially approved the contest, will furnish assistance in analyzing conditions and initiating movements for improvement in each community taking part. The primary desire of the United States Chamber of Commerce, according to its Health Bulletin, "is to obtain facts upon which a grading committee can work in determining the present status and recent improvement of health service."

Information concerning present health conditions and improvements during the years should not be hard to obtain, the bulletin continues, "as the report is to confine itself to some of the most fundamental and general items of public health.

"For this contest, the main items given prominence are the organization and equipment of local health departments, financial support of health, both official and voluntary, activities for health information and education, water supply, milk supply, sewage disposal, health laws and ordinances.

A committee of health experts, to be appointed by the United States Chamber of Commerce, will analyze and grade the returns when they are received, final awards to be decided by a board of judges.

Dr. Flannagan's letter, sent to 22 chamber of commerce officials and health officers in Virginia, declared "the State health department wishes to assure your chamber of commerce of its hearty support of this and every other feasible plan for securing the attention of business men to the economic importance to communities of a properly functioning health department."

Crash Hurts Man; Warrants Issued

As the aftermath of an automobile accident at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at Burnt Mills, Md., on the Colesville pike, about 5 miles from the District line, in which one man suffered undetermined injuries, the drivers of both machines swore out warrants of reckless driving against the other.

David W. Sweet, of Kansas avenue near Seventh street northwest, received the hurts when the automobile operated by his wife, Mrs. Gene M. Sweet, with their three small children as occupants, crashed into a telephone pole while proceeding to Washington. He was taken to the Montgomery County General Hospital, near Ashton, for an examination.

Mrs. Sweet promptly swore out the warrant against Eugene Weisz, of Twentieth street near E street northwest, driver of an automobile which, she said, was attempting to pass her on the road when the accident occurred. Weisz swore out a similar warrant against Mrs. Sweet, and the two were arrested by Corpl. D. L. Snyder, of the Montgomery County police. They were taken before Justice of the Peace Ward Caddington at the Silver Spring substation and released on $500 bond each.

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN PRAISED AT SERVICE

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST. Tel. Clar. 560. Clarendon, Va.

Speaking yesterday at the third annual memorial services in honor of members of the Arlington-Fairfax Volunteer Firemen's Association, who died during the past year, in the Arlington Methodist Episcopal Church, the Rev. John B. Duffield, pastor of the Arlington Presbyterian Church, declared that man can render no greater service than that of the volunteer firemen.

"In the midnight or sunshine, rain or snow, they respond to the call of the siren, whether it be to the home of friend or foe, to save life and property, and no tribute too great can be expressed for those who have gone to the Great Beyond," he said.

Walter U. Varney, president of the association, discussing the purposes of the association, legislation has been enacted which gives to the widow of a fireman $3,500 from the State and the association has created a benefit fnd which aids when a member is injured. In addition to death benefits by the State there is a weekly payment for many weeks in case of injury.

He paid a glowing tribute to members of the association when he said, "In the many years that I have been connected with the association never have I found a department which has failed to respond when called."

A roll call of the departments showed four firemen died during the past year. Cherrydale department reported the loss of Samuel Best and Frederick Kahler, and the Potomac department reported the loss of S. J. Steinberg and A. J. Staffan. No losses were reported from Arlington, Ballston, Clarendon, Fairfax, Falls Church, Herndon, Jefferson or the Vienna departments.

The meeting opened with the invocation given by the Rev. Edward G. Latch, pastor of the Arlington Methodist Episcopal Church. Solos were sung by Miss Madeline Whitlock, with Miss Maggie Folwarth at the piano. Mr. Varney presided. The meeting closed with the benediction by the Rev. Edward G. Latch.

There will be a meeting of the board of directors of the Arlington Investment Corpoartion held at Clarendon tomorrow night. At the meeting it is understood Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth will appear to discuss the installation of water and sewers in the Waycroft subdivision of the corporation, on which it is alleged no payments have been made to the county for the work in question.

The Arlington County Civic Federation holds its first meeting of the new year tomorrow night at the Lyon Park Community House with the newly elected officers in charge of the meeting. President William C. Hall, who enters his second year, announces that there will be many matters of vital importance to all concerned in the future welfare of Arlington County and asks a full attendance of all delegates. E. Lester Bennett, of Lyon Village, who has for many years been an active civic worker in the county and who has been chosen as the executive secretary of the federation, will assume his new duties with this meeting.

The Woman's Club of Lyon Village will meet Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. H. S. Omohundro, 141 Oak street, with Mrs. G. S. Campbell as cohostess. Officers for the new year will be nominated.

Harold Cheney has been elected superintendent of the Sunday school at the Mount Olivet Methodist Protestant Church at Ballston. Other officers are: Jesse Cheney, assistant superintendent; E. Wade Ball, secretary; Gordon Ball, assistant secretary; Mrs. Gladys Hall, treasurer; Miss Edith Ball, superintendent of the junior department; Waldo Good, librarian; E. B. Crosson, musical director, and Miss Elizabeth Sealock, pianist.

The county health department announces that the preschool dental clinic for Arlington district will be held in the Clarendon Health Center tomorrow between the hours of 9 and 12 in the morning and from 1 to 4 in the afternoon.

Dr. P. M. Chichester, county health officer, announces that the department is making a special effort to have all children from the age of 3 up to attend these clinics and he urges all parents to take advantage of the service the county is trying to give. No fee is charged.

Mrs. Arthur Orr, president of the Lyon Park Woman's Club, announces the appointment of the following committees to handle the arrangements for the social features of the organization for the month of January: Card party, January 14, Mrs. E. J. Merrick, jr., chairman; Mrs. Sara E. Carl, Mrs. A. A. Moore, Mrs. H. B. Hartung and Mrs. C. B. Withauser; general chairmen for the dinner to be given January 22, Mrs. J. C. Folsom and Mrs. Grace H. Miller. The program for the dinner will include a special entertainment and dancing.

The January meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Henry Clay School at Lyon Park will be held at the schoolhouse Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

Motorists of Arlington County are advised by J. V. Turner, in charge of the distribution of automobile license plates for 1930, that he will be at the office of Sheriff Howard B. Fields every day up to and including Wednesday, January 15, the last day which 1929 tags will be recognized.

The Boys Club of St. George's Episcopal Church will hold its monthly meeting in the Parish Hall tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock.

The newly elected officers of Ballston Council, No. 20, Daughters of America, will be installed at the meeting to be held tomorrow night in the auditorium of the Ballston Firemen's Hall at 8 o'clock.

The Holy Name Society of St. James Catholic Church at West Falls Church will meet in St. James Hall tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

There will be a meeting of the board of directors of the Arlington-Fairfax Railway Wednesday afternoon in the offices of the secretary, Charles T. Jesse, opposite the Arlington County Courthouse.

Arlington Chapter, No. 149, Daughters of the Confederacy, will meet tomorrow night at the home of Mrs. Roberta Sutton, Wilson boulevard, Ballston, with Miss Betty Nevitte as co-hostess.

Election of officers will be the principal business to come before the meeting of the ladies auxiliary to the Jefferson district fire department, which will be held tomorrow night in the firemen's hall at 8 o'clock.

Thursday night the auxiliary celebrates its fourth anniversary with a special birthday program. It will be held in the auditorium of the firemen's hall. Mrs. C. W. Lee is general chairman in charge of the arrangements.

The Virginia Highlands Citizens' Association holds its monthly meeting tonight in the community house, at 8 o'clock.

FALLS CHURCH YEAR REVIEWED BY MAYOR

Lengthy Letter Describe Administration's Work During 1929.

FIRE RAZES RESIDENCE

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST. P. O. Box 243. Vienna, Va. Phone Vienna 64.

Capt. John F. Bethune, Mayor of Falls Church, has sent a circular letter to the taxpayers of the town in which the record of the town for the last year is reviewed and in which the mayor promises his cooperation with the other officers of the town in the projects they are now engaged in.

Summarized, the mayor's letter, which took up five closely typewritten pages, states:

The town records have been brought into better condition both for reference and for preservation. The minutes of the meetings of the town council have for the first time been produced in typewritten form with marginal indexes. A fireproof steel cabinet has been provided for the protection of the tax records and other papers of like value and importance, and a regular filing system is now being installed for all official papers. A new system of tax bills has been adopted, whereby the original bill, the notice to the taxpayer and the file copy all written at one operation and each contains the same detailed information. The registration book, much dilapidated, containing the names of all voters registered in the town since the adoption of the State constitution in 1902 has been completely repaired and rebound. The large official map of the town is in the possession of the council and may be consulted at the office of the town clerk.

Questionnaires Sent Out.

During the past year two questionnaires were sent all residents of the town. One requested information concerning the names of families and correct postoffice addresses and telephone numbers, the other requested information concerning real estate holdings and their locations.

Necessary repairs were made to the council building. In addition to its use for all regular meetings of the town council, it has been used to house the public library; as a practice hall for the fire department band; for meetings of the Arlington and Fairfax Volunteer Firemen's Association for municipal and general elections; for holding the mayor's court and for other public purposes. The Falls Church Public Library was established by the Town Council in 1928 and was placed under the direction of the Falls Church Woman's Club, whose members has maintained the library for public use for several years.

Road Boards Map Plans.

The road boards of the several wards are now engaged in formulating and executing plans which look ahead to developments over a series of years with a view to creating a system of permanent improvements. It is believed by the present administration that by this method they will secure within a few years a widespread system of hard-surfaced streets which can be maintained in good condition at all seasons at less cost. More side streets have been hard surfaced during the past year than during the entire prior existence of the town. It is a firm belief of the present administration that more attention should be given to construction which will be of lasting value instead of spending public funds on temporary makeshifts.

The corporation tax levy has been reduced for the current year to $1.25 on each $100 of assessed valuation of real and tangible personal property within the town, exclusive of the school bond levy.

Will Act on Back Taxes.

Plans are now being perfected for securing the payment of all delinquent taxes and steps to that end will be taken in the near future. The town council has placed in the hands of the town treasurer all unpaid tax bills and has directed him to proceed forthwith by legal means for their collection. All persons whos corporation taxes are in arrears have been asked to take the present opportunity to pay the amounts due and thus escape further penalties and the additional costs which will necessarily be added if formal proceedings have to be employed.

Negotiations are now in progress for the making of such a plat book to show the location and ownership of all real estate holdings in the corporation. It is tentatively planned to make copies of the plat book when completed which will be available to all persons who are interested.

While it has been necessary to remove some of the shade trees in the town which have become dangerous or unsightly through the effects of age, the ravages of elements or from abuse, a large number of maples, willows and American elms have been planted during the past year. The terms of office of two members of the local school board expired last year and these members were reelected for terms of three years each.

Police Force Reorganized.

The Police Department has been reorganized and has been functioning more satisfactorily in recent years. A special police officer who resides in the town is now on duty and additional special officers were appointed from time to time for temporary service as they were required. Three clean-up weeks have been observed during which all nonburnable rubbish has been collected and removed at public expense. A contract has been made for the removal of snow from the streets and sidewalks as occasion may require.

Sixty-nine street lights have been maintained in good order and several new lights have been installed. A new system of auditing has been adopted whereby the bills for such lights are reduced proportionately for all outages of lights which fail to function properly.

The Falls Church Volunteer Fire Department has continued to serve efficiently not only Falls Church but other communities in northern Virginia. Last year the mayor and Town Council took up with the State Corporation Commission and with the bus company the question of the bus fare within the town. After an extended hearing before the commission a reduction of the fare was secured for all trips within the corporate limits of the town, which is still in force.

Crossing Ordinance Passed.

As a safeguard against accidents the Town Council has passed an ordinance requiring that all trains and electric cars shall come to a full stop before crossing Washington street in either direction. This requirement is deemed necessary because of the heavy traffic on that street and the unfavorable conditions at the railroad crossings.

The Town Council has recently passed an ordinance authorizing the Board of Supervisors of Arlington County to install water mains and laterals in the streets of Falls Church for the purpose of furnishing water for the use of all residents who desire that service.

Within the last year the town has come a member of the League of Virginia Municipalities, which is composed of cities and towns throughout the State, through this organization the town has many advantages in the study of municipal problems and for cooperation in their solution.

A sale of property that is delinquent in taxes will be held this morning at 10 o'clock in front of the courthouse in Fairfax by County Treasurer Frank W. Huddleson. Five hundred and twenty-six pieces of property have been advertised on this list. Out of this number, only 84 owners have paid their taxes so far.

Fire caused by sparks from a chimney igniting the shingles on the roof completely destroyed a house on the Chain Bridge Hill belonging to the James Sherrier estate, Saturday afternoon.

Telephones in this neighborhood are connected to the Clarendon exchange, and when it was notified of the fire it called the companies of Cherrydale and Ballston, which are located many miles from the scene of the fire, while the McLean department, which was only 3 miles away, was not notified. A passing motorist drove to McLean and notified the department. The three companies arrived at the scene about the same time but were too late to save the property. The loss was estimated to be about $3,500.

Sheriff E. P. Kirby held a sale of six cars seized for violation of the State prohibition law last Saturday. A total of $376.50 was received. The prices ranged from $9.50 to $295.

The country road police have only arrested one person this year for driving with "dead auto license tags." M. M. Trippitt, of West Virginia, was arrested yesterday for driving with West Virginia tags. The time limit in that State expired December 31. He was taken before Justice of Peace Thomas P. Chapman and fined $10.

Saturday afternoon the county police stopped two youths without coats or hats, who stated that they were going South, but the police detained them for alleged theft in Washington of two bicycles. They gave their names as William Stiner, 16, and Melvin Marshall, 15, of Baltimore. It later developed that they had escaped from a Maryland reform school and they were turned over to the District authorities.

WEEK OF SERVICES TO BEGIN TONIGHT

VARIOUS MEN TO PREACH

The annual week of prayer services in the Protestant churches of the city will begin tonight and end Friday night, the service each evening being held in a different church and the sermons being preached by various ministers.

The opening service tonight will be held in the Methodist Episcopal Church South. The sermon will be by the Rev. William Jackson Morton, D. D., rector of Christ Episcopal Church. Tuesday night at the First Baptist Church the Rev. George J. Hooker, pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church, will preach. Wednesday the service will be in the Second Presbyterian Church, the sermon being by the Rev. D. L. Snyder, D. D., pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and the Friday night service will be in Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, with sermon by the Rev. Ernest M. Delaney, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church.

A committee named by the George Washington Birthday Association to call on President Hoover and extend to him an invitation to attend the celebration and parade in honor of George Washington's birthday, February 22, is composed of C. C. Carlin, former member of Congress from this district; Mayor William Albert Smoot, J. William May, John H. Trimyer, Martin E. Greene, Carroll Pierce, W. B. Fulton, former Mayor of Potomac, and Harry D. Kirk, president of the association.

This committee will also extend an invitation to Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, and his commission in charge of the plans for the celebration of the 200th anniversary of Washington's birth in 1932, and also to Gov. John Garland Pollard of Virginia.

While no definite date for the visit of the committee to the White House has been decided upon, it is understood it will be in the near future.

Past State Commander F. Clinton Knight and Comrades Louis Hoy, Sidney Weil and Thurlow White, of Alexandria Post, No. 24, American Legion, motored to Roanoke yesterday to attend a meeting called by National Commander O. L. Bodenhamer for the purpose of awarding citations to various legion posts and individuals for "most distinguished service" during the past year.

The Alexandrians to receive the Paul V. McNutt testimonial of appreciation for 1929 were Richard B. English, State committeeman for the Eighth District, and Commander W. Milton Glasgow and Adjutant J. T. Preston, jr., of the Alexandria Post.

The annual meeting of the Mary Custis Lee-Seventeenth Virginia Regiment Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will be held at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night in Lee Camp Hall, when the election of officers for the coming year will be in order. Following the custom of many years the business meeting will be followed by a social meeting.

The January meeting of the Allison Chapter, Woman's Christian Temperance Union, will be held at 8 o'clock this evening with Mrs. Percy E. Clift at her home, 217 North Columbus street.

Second Succumbs In Florida Crash

C. C. Bassett, of Bassett, Va., Dies 36 Hours After Wife Expires.

New Symrna, Fla., Jan 5 (A.P.).—Unconscious for practically 36 hours, C. C. Bassett, 60, of Bassett, Va., who received injuries in an automobile accident in which his wife was killed, died early today.

Bassett was injured Friday when the sedan in which he, Mrs. Bassett, their daughter, daughter-in-law, maid and chauffeur, were riding, skidded on a wet pavement and crashed into the rear of a parked truck in the business district.

Mrs. Bassett died as she reached the hospital. Mr. Bassett received a fractured skull. The others were not seriously hurt. The bodies were returned today to their home in Virginia.

THE NEW WEEK'S BILLS

RKO-KEITH

"LOVE COMES ALONG." Radio Pictures' dialogue and song subject, starring Bebe Daniels, supported by Lloyd Hughes and Montagu Love. Adapted from Edward Knoblock's play, "Conchita," by Wallace Smith, with music and lyrics by Oscar Levant and Sidney Claire. Reviewed Saturday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

It is in this highly diverting picture that Bebe Daniels does everything they said she would do in "Rio Rita." Her singing is infinitely better, her vibrant role is played with all of the vivacity and humorous appeal that formerly characterized the more engaging of her silent vehicles and, when occasion demands, she is earnestly and dramatically emotional. The same qualities of agreeable assurance that mark her work—the best she has done to date, I should say—are somehow communicated to those of greatest prominence in her supporting cast.

The picturized version of Mr. Knoblock's play is in itself nothing of any great importance. It strains for none of the grandiose speeches or staggering effects of "Rio Rita," but is content to unfold a reasonably authentic story of a stranded chorus girl, a bombastic "Jefe" and a self-reliant young American sailor, all thrown into intimate controversy in a small Latin-American coast town where a fiesta is being celebrated. The conflict of characters is sharply defined and the characters are interesting. Furthermore, they are made to comport themselves in a way that will strike anyone who has ever lived in the tropics as being wholly natural. It is this element of simple directness and believable realism that causes "Love Comes Along" to impress me as a particularly meritorious entertainment.

Bebe Daniels, as Peggy, the stranded chorister, imbues the part with a flip and slangy efficiency that is both amusing and convincing. Her two song hits, "Love Comes Along" and "Night Winds," are beautifully sung and flawlessly recorded, and in her fiesta costumes she looks as I presume a million dollars would if transmuted into costly fabrics and sparkling jewels. In the opposite role, Lloyd Hughes is no less than a revelation. His speaking voice is clear-cut and resonant and his lines are well read, but the greatest surprise will be found in his singing. The only serious defect I was able to discern in this aspect of his performance was that there was not enough of it.

Montagu Love leaves something to be desired in his interpretation of the role of Sangredo, the town's political tyrant—or maybe it was merely that I kept thinking how much better Warner Baxter would have performed the identical chore. Lionel Belmore, Alma Tell and Evelyn Selbie are among the others in parts of prominence, with Ned Sparks extracting much humor from his characteristically monosyllabic speeches. Rupert Julian, whose wartime masterpiece, "The Beast of Berlin," is not forgotten, directed with fine intelligence and skill.

The two major auxiliaries are in vivid contrast. James A. Fitzpatrick's "From Barcelona to Valencia," is a personally conducted tour along a part of Spain's Mediterranean coast, during which the simple cottage and favorite workroom of Vincente Blasco Ibanez, author of "The Four Horsemen," "Blood and Sand" and many other notable works, are made points of especial interest. The comedy note is struck—very feebly—by a "Mickey (Himself) McGuire" short-reeler, based on the Fontaine Fox cartoons, but almost wholly lacking in the humor of the drawings that inspired it.

The RKO News and a lively novelty overture by Freddie Clark and his R-K-Olians complete a bill that should attract a wide public.

COLUMBIA

"CONDEMNED." A United Artists presentation of Blair Niles' novel, "Condemned to Devil's Island," adapted by Sidney Howard; starring Ronald Colman, supported by Ann Harding. Directed by Wesley Ruggles. Reviewed Saturday night (second week) by W. A. Whitney.

Ronald Colman's sentence to Devil's Island has been extended for another seven days so that Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public may continue to enjoy a drama laid in one of the world's most fearsome, yet imaginatively adventurous, places.

With the finesse of the accomplished actor that he is, Mr. Colman essays the role of Michel, Parisian bank robber, and performs his appointed task admirably. Yet, despite his unkempt appearance and the prison costume, there is an air of sauvity about him, which, coupled with a rather definite aristocratic bearing, tends to destroy the desired illusion that he has behind him a criminal career of no mean length. The Michel of "Condemned" is not a real, living Michel—he is merely Capt. "Bulldog" Drummond out on another of his wild adventures.

In contrast to this transparent pose is Ann Harding's vibrant and flawless portrayal of Mme. Duval, the warden's wife. None the less laudable are the minor roles of Vidal, the warden whose demise is far from untimely, and Jacques, the lift, and Michel's friend, who commits the justifiable homicide at the price of his own life. They are more than creditably handled, respectively, by Dudley Digges and Louis Wolheim.

Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy are responsible for much hilarity in their slapstick low comedy, "The Hoosegow." It has its moments of sublime ridiculousness—when the comedians act and forget to talk! A release of the Hearst-Movietone News completes the screen attractions.

An arrangement of "A Little Kiss Each Morning" and Victor Herbert's "The Century Girl" is the prelude played by the Columbia Orchestra under the direction of Claude Burrows. The recessional is "Navy Blues."

EARLE

"THE PAINTED ANGEL." First National-Vitaphone talking, singing and dancing picture, starring Billie Dove. Adapted from Fannie Hurst's "Give the Little Girl a Big Hand," by Forrest Halsey. Directed by Millard Webb. Reviewed Sunday afternoon.

The drama may be spread on a little thin, but it would, nevertheless, be my inclination to rate this as the best night club picture released in many months, and by far the most acceptable vehicle for Billie Dove the audible screen has been able to provide. It may or may not be remotely patterned after the life story of Texas Guinan. I wouldn't know about that. Certainly it is patterned after a night club such as most of us have seen in full operation. In fact, so great a portion of the action takes place in Rodeo West's nocturnal habitat of the cover charge and the cider that thinks it is champagne that occasionally the floor show completely smothers the development of the plot. But it is a good floor show, so what of it?

The more important point is that Billie Dove in her impersonation of Rodeo West, a young woman who has invaded New York with the reputation of a lurid past perpetually haunting her, is more completely in character than this typewriter has ever before seen her. She brings something of the spirit of the "racket" to her work, much of its hardness, a great deal of its irascibility and all of her own matchless beauty. The composite is one that falls nothing whatever short of conviction.

Miss Dove, to be sure, is called upon to sing and dance—and can do neither. One of the things I like most about her assumption of the colorful character is that she talks her songs—save for a few notes—and attempts no dance steps that are intricate beyond her own limited powers of accomplishment. Tex Guinan can not sing any better, or dance as well, and look what a riot she is after midnight! I mean to say, the whole thing rings true—to get bromidic about it.

Edmund Lowe, in the role of the hostess' manager—her former orchestra leader, whose left arm was shattered when he took a bullet meant for her—offers a well-sustained characterization that gains much from repression. I dare say, from an artistic standpoint this is the best thing in the picture.

Others less conspicuously cast—but still conspicuously — include George McFarlane, the distinguished barytone, who unfortunately is not called upon to sing; Cissy Fitzgerald, star of an earlier day; J. Farrell MacDonald, Norman Selby and Nelly Bly Baker. There are swarms of specialty artists and dancers, unknown to me by name.

The two subsidiary Vitaphone Varieties are executed by Kitty and Fanny Watson, Washington's singing comediennes, in "Bigger and Better" —I'm a little doubtful about the last part of it—and Gregory Ratoff in "For Sale," a skit based on the idea of supersalesmanship.

Milton Davis' organ divertissement is comprised of two parts, "The Day in Song," in which a number of popular compositions are introduced, and a recording novelty in which the audience's singing of "If I Had a Talking Picture of You" is recorded on a "Speak-o-phone" record and immediately played back on a reproducing machine with surprising results. A round and solid hit. The record, by the way, was presented as a souvenir to orchestra chair F-102.

A composite sound and silent newsreel of diversified interest and "The Evolution of Dixie," one of Mr. Breeskin's revolving group of perennial overtures, complete the bill.

METROPOLITAN

Warner Bros. have put their all into their first natural color musical revue, and they have made of it a thing of startling magnificence. Several productions of a kindred nature have surpassed it in imaginative treatment of certain sequences, in tunefulness of score and, perhaps, in comedy value. Yet, in many respects, "The Show of Shows" has yet to be equaled. In the eminence of its personnel, in the effectiveness of its staging, in the glittering splendor of its ensemble numbers, it stands alone.

It is as well to take the producers' word for it that there are 77 stars involved in the proceedings. To attempt to keep count of them as they come and go would be as hopeless as enumerating the stars of the celestial variety. Into this vast assemblage of filmdom's great, the acting plums have been scattered with no attempt at giving equal means for the display of respective talents. John Barrymore, for instance, has here his first opportunity to disclose to screen audiences the ability for Shakespearean interpretation that made his stage "Hamlet" a sensation. In his reading of the Duke of Gloucester's soliloquy from the third part of "Henry VI," he lifts the production to its highest point and appears himself at his best. Richard Barthelmess, on the other hand, has been assigned the speaking of a few inane words by way of introducing another act—and nothing more.

In this manner, stars of varying degrees of brilliance light the constantly changing pageant. Beatrice Lillie, Louise Fazenda, Lloyd Hamilton, Irene Bordini, Ted Lewis, Georges Carpentier, Douglas Fairbanks, jr., Myrna Loy, Nick Lucas, Noah Beery, Monte Blue, Frank Fay and Winnie Lightner are among the most prominent and, of these, the last two are outstanding—Frank Fay for his singing and his smooth mastering of ceremonies, and Winnie Lightner because she is Winnie Lightner and because her "Singing in the Bathtub" number, with Bull Montana, is one of the most diverting bits in the show.

Even in the stupendous finale, one takes time to note that the leader of the parade is Betty Compson. The gorgeousness is extremely gorgeous, but stars are stars.

PALACE

"IT'S A GREAT LIFE." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer talking, singing and dancing picture, with natural color sequences. Starring the Duncan Sisters, supported by Lawrence Gray and Ted Prouty. Story by Byron Morgan and Alfred Block, with dialogue by Willard Mack. Music and lyrics by Dave Dreyer and Ballard MacDonald. Directed by Sam Wood. Reviewed Saturday night.

Getting off to a dismally slow and uninteresting start, this peculiarly uneven production, first known as "Imperfect Ladies," then as "Cottons and Silks," and finally by its present title, manages to pull itself out of the fire along about midway of its length and end with a familiar, but none the less potent, punch. It is the hoary story of the small-time sister act, broken up by marriage but reunited through the sublime sacrifice in the end. The theme of "The Broken Melody" was its twin. Much of the footage is given over to the presentation of the amusing stage tricks that made the Duncan Sisters favorites in vaudeville, musical comedy and revue—only somehow they are not so amusing as they used to be.

This, I take it, is due in large part to the fact that the Duncan Sisters no longer photograph as a couple of ingenuous youngsters in long curls playing pranks on their elders, but as a couple of middled-aged women dressed in rompers playing pranks on their juniors. It is this, perhaps, that makes the final dramatic movements of the narrative so much more impressive than the supposedly hoydenish earlier sequences. The Duncans—particularly Rosetta, the tomboy of the two, but Vivian in some degree also—can not longer kid the camera into accepting them as youthful hoydens, but they can take high and definite rank as mature actresses who know what the serious things of life are all about.

When Vivian married Lawrence Gray, it may have broken up a fair singing act, but it also gave the picture two capable actresses to bring sincerity, pathos and power to its closing scenes.

Lawrence Gray does an excellent piece of work as the ham pianist who splits the act and later proves to Casey Hogan that it was love and not spite that prompted him to do it. Jed Prouty, whose musical experience dates back at least to "The Pink Lady," with Hazel Dawn, is equally effective in the lesser role of Casey's persistent suitor, whom she deserts on their marriage eve to remain with her stricken sister. Benny Rubin appears in a small part. There are many pungent lines and plenty of laughs to go along with the music and color.

On the stage, Al Evans returns with the Loew "Oddities" unit as itinerant master of ceremonies, conducts the Palace Syncapators in the "Poet and Peasant" overture by Von Suppe, plays his own "Ivory Ebonies" on the piano and sings a potpourri of popular ballads so arranged as to tell "The Story of a Kiss," as his individual contribution to the gayety of the occasion. Salvos of applause. Others who appear include the Dennis Sisters, three superb vocal harmonists; Eddie Cole and George Snyder, comedians, who "direct" Charlie Chaplin in one of his old successes; Gordon and King, with the best double dance routine I have recently seen, and Chester Hale Girls.

No supplementaries were presented at the performance I attended.

FOX

"HOT FOR PARIS." Fox talking picture, starring Victor McLaglen, supported by Fifi Dorsay and El Brendel. Directed by Raoul Walsh. Reviewed Saturday night (second week) by C. Ransom.

So swift and rollicking a piece of foolishness as "Hot for Paris," so masterfully played and so vividly directed, could hardly fail to take a two-weeks clutch on the Fox headquarters here. It is pure whoopee without a sober thought or a moral tone or undertone, but what actual naughtiness it exhibits is so furtive that it probably passes over the heads of 78 per cent of the hearers and does no harm to the others. Neither does it do them any good and it
